

Cagers in Final Warmup Tomorrow

Two of college basketball's finest 1953 quintets meet tonight in Rec Hall in the final pre-season exhibition contest for both teams.

Penn State and St. Francis, two teams who contended for the championships in the nation's top post-season tournaments last year, clash on the Rec Hall boards at 7 p.m.

The Lions, who open their 25-game card with Dickenson Saturday night, finished the 1953 campaign with a 14-5 record and then ripped through three opponents before bowing to LaSalle in the semi-finals of the National Collegiate tournament at Kansas City. They finished in third place.

St. Francis, led by its great center Maurice Stokes, went to the quarter-finals of the National Invitation Tournament at New York before it finally was eliminated.

This will be the fifth exhibition game for the Lions but it will be the first in which head coach John Egli will see his entire team in action. He had to wait out the football season before the team reached full strength.

Scoring ace Jesse Arnette, Bob Rohland, and Bob Hoffman joined the squad this week after football ended.

Egli, who took over the head coaching job when Elmer Gross retired last spring, will be relying heavily on Arnette, Jim Blocker, Bob Rohland, and Ron Weidenhammer to carry the biggest share of the load this season. Those four did yeoman work last season along with Rudy Marisa, and Dave Edwards, and Earl Fields.

Egli is also relying on several sophomore newcomers who have been impressive in pre-season practice. Bob Ramsey, 6-7 center, and Joe Harnett, 6-2 forward, are slated for plenty of duty.

Three newcomers, not including the Motor City tournament opponents, are included on the 25-game schedule — which lists 12 home games. Carnegie Tech, Lehigh, and Michigan State, are scheduled.

The teams scheduled to play in the Motor City Tourney Dec. 27 and 28 are Toledo, Wayne University, and the University of Detroit.

The 1954-55 schedule:
Dec. 4, Dickinson, State College;
Dec. 9, North Carolina State, Raleigh, N.C.; Dec. 11, Carnegie Tech, State College; Dec. 15, Colgate, State College; Dec. 17, Gettysburg, State College; Dec. 18, Rutgers, State College; Dec. 27 and 28, Motor City Tournament, Detroit, Mich.; Dec. 30, Michigan State, East Lansing, Mich.

Jan. 5, Bucknell, State College; Jan. 8, Navy, State College; Jan. 12, Syracuse, State College; Jan. 14, Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh; Jan. 19, Lehigh, Bethlehem; Jan. 29, Temple, Philadelphia.

Feb. 2, West Virginia, Morgantown, W. Va.; Feb. 5, Lehigh, State College; Feb. 9, West Virginia, State College; Feb. 12, Washington and Jefferson, Washington, Pa.; Feb. 18, Colgate, Hamilton,

ECAC Rules Sherry Out As Cager

Penn State's hopes for the coming basketball season were dealt a severe blow when the University was notified by the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference that Jack Sherry, captain of last year's fine team, would be ineligible this season.

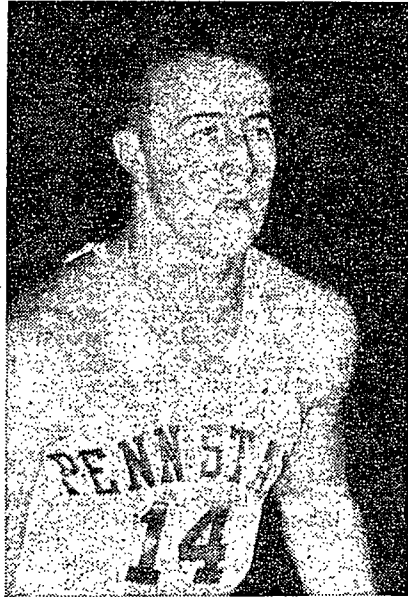

The ECAC has a ruling which prohibits any athlete from participating in more than one year of a freshman sport, and three years of any varsity sport. Sherry came to Penn State in the winter of 1951, and played on the freshman team his first semester. He moved up to the varsity while only a second semester freshman, and now has exhausted his eligibility. This year would have been Sherry's fifth year of actual competition as a basketball player.

Dean Ernest B. McCoy, director of athletics, and a member of the ECAC eligibility committee was notified of the ruling.

The loss of Sherry will be a tough break for rookie coach John Egli. Last year Sherry was a standout in the Lion attack. His 11.6 points per game scoring average set him right behind team leader Jesse Arnette in that department, but his true worth was not in his scoring ability. He was cool under fire, and a steady influence on the rest of the team. Sherry was one of the main reasons for the Lions' surprise third place finish in the NCAA playoffs last winter.

Sherry, one of the best all-around athletes at the University, was also a fine football player for the past three years. He was able to play football this season because it was only his fourth year of participation in the gridiron sport.

N.Y.; Feb. 19, Syracuse, Syracuse, N.Y.; Feb. 23, Rutgers, New Brunswick, N.J.; Feb. 26, Pittsburgh, State College.
March 2, Pennsylvania, State College.

North-South Game Attracts Danser, Engle

Nittany tackle Gene Danser and grid mentor Rip Engle will help the North in the annual Blue-Gray game. Danser, one of the East's top defensive stars, will play his final game under Engle.

The Lion coach, who guided the North in the past three games, turned down the No. 1 coaching berth and accepted a lesser role in the annual Christmas Day battle.

Moore Is Choice Of College Captains

The nation's college football captains, one group that is sure to get a real firsthand view of all-American candidates, has selected Penn State halfback Lenny Moore on its 1954 all-America team.

The college captains, picking for the Central Press Association, named the Lion whiz kid along with Alan Ameche, of Wisconsin, Howard (Hopalong) Cassady of Ohio State, and Ralph Guglielmi of Norte Dame in the backfield.

The captains, representing the major football schools in the nation, picked the team for the 24th consecutive year.

Moore, who shattered two Penn State records and tied another during the 1954 campaign, has been called the greatest back in Penn State history. He carried for 1082 yards during the Lions' nine-game campaign, smashing the rushing and total offense records and scored 13 touchdowns to tie that mark as the Nittanies rolled to seven victories.

The rest of the captains' all-American lines up with Michigan's Ron Kramer and Army's Bob Holleder at ends; Jack Ellena, UCLA, and Frank Varrichione, Notre Dame at tackles; Calvin Jones, Iowa, and Tom Betts, Purdue, guards; and Kurt Burris of Oklahoma at center.

Moore was also selected for several other all-star teams during the past week. He was named to the United Press' third team, and Colliers all-east team. He has also been selected on the UP and International News Service all-east team, and was given second team honors on the NEA all-America team.

Bowl Officials Mum On Gator Choice

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—Gator Bowl officials after a three-hour session today said there would be no announcement until tomorrow regarding teams for the football game here Dec. 31.

Rice Institute, regarded as a possible contender, was ruled out of consideration after players of the Houston school voted not to consider any bowl bids.

At Auburn, Ala. players voted to accept a Gator Bowl bid provided an outstanding opponent is found for them. The Auburn eleven came to the Gator Bowl for last January's game and was defeated 35-13 by Texas Tech.

Others mentioned as possible contenders include West Virginia, ranked 12th in the nation and Southern Conference champion, Kentucky, Baylor, Virginia Tech, Georgia, Boston College and Texas Tech.

Cage, Mat Clinics Slated

Basketball and wrestling clinics for high school coaches will be held Saturday at the Armory and Rec Hall.

Penn State coaches, John Egli in basketball, and Charlie Speidel in wrestling, will be in charge. Assisting Egli will be freshman coach Don Swegan, trainer Chuck Medlar, and Yib Bolton, faculty manager of athletics at State College High School.

Hubert Jack, Lock Haven State Teachers College coach, and Roy S. Jamison, principal of Penns Valley Area Joint High School, will assist Speidel for the wrestling clinic. Jack will discuss officiating and Jamison will present the administrator's viewpoint.

Edward McCluskey, head coach of Farrell High School's championship basketball team, will discuss the full court press.

Jim Mohny, Tyrone High School coach, and Glenn Smith, Allentown High School coach, will represent the schoolboy field on the staff of the wrestling clinic.

The wrestling program will begin in the morning, with still another session after lunch, and the basketball program will get underway in the afternoon. Coaches will remain for Penn State's opening basketball game.
