

Constitutional Revisions Opposed by Williams

Agriculture Student Council President George Williams, said Tuesday night he opposes any change in the All-University Constitution which does not specify who will be eligible to sit on Cabinet.

The Constitutional Revisions Committee of Cabinet is working on revising the constitution at present. It will consider changing the substitution system along with other provisions.

Forum Tickets Are Available At SU Desk

Community Forum season tickets priced at $3.30 each will be on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main and at Griggs Pharmacy on College avenue until 5 p.m. Monday. Single admission tickets for Agnes Moorehead's appearance Monday night will go on sale at 6 p.m. Monday. There will be no reserved seats.

Miss Moorehead, the second of the personalities to be presented by the State College Community Forum, will appear in "That Fabulous Redhead," a series of portrayals and readings which takes its name from the color of the actress' hair.

"Sorry Wrong Number," the dramatic sketch which was written by Lucille Fletcher for Miss Moorehead, will be the most familiar scene of the evening. Miss Moorehead has repeated this performance eleven times on radio since doing it originally on the radio program "Suspense."

New York actor Robert Gist will appear with Miss Moorehead in the show, which is directed by Charles Laughton.

In January the Community Forum series will present Charles Romulo, Philippine secretary of foreign affairs, and in February, Dr. James M. Hepbron, criminologist. A bonus speaker who will appear later in the season has not yet been announced.

Seven to Attend NSA Congress In Philadelphia

Seven students will attend the National Student Association regional convention in Philadelphia next weekend and several additional campus groups have indicated that they may sponsor delegates, Helen Sidman, acting NSA coordinator, said.

Those who will attend and the organizations they represent are Stephanie Sills, Business Administration Student Council; Rudolph Lutter, Liberal Arts Student Council; Richard Rigling and Leonard Richards, Association of Independent Men; Norma Tallarico and Martha Hardy, Leonides; and Myron Feinsilber, the Daily Collegian.

Women's Student Government Association and Panhellenic Council have said they would send delegates, Miss Sidman said, but the delegates are yet unnamed. Other organizations that may send delegates include Interfraternity Council, Chemistry-Physics Student Council, Education Student Council, Women's Recreation Association, Board of Dramatics and Forensics, Junior class, and All-University Cabinet, she said.

Topics to be discussed at the convention include relations between the college press and the administration and the problems of international students on American campuses.

A summary booklet on the seventh annual NSA congress has been placed in the NSA files.

Eng Profs To Be Rated By Students

Engineering Student Council voted Monday night to rate the courses and professors of the department of mechanical engineering.

Before the end of the semester every student having mechanical engineering subjects will be asked to rate his professors and courses. Some of the qualities tentatively planned to be rated are the professor's knowledge of the subject, the objectives of the course, and the professor's grading and tests. All departments in the College of Engineering may be rated soon.

Council members also discussed representation for the 64 students in the department of agricultural engineering.

It was explained that the department of agricultural engineering is under both the College of Engineering and the College of Agriculture.

Double-management is necessary if the department is to receive grants from the United States government for agricultural experiments.

This poses the problem of how many seats the department should have on each council and the problem of dividing between the two councils the assessed sum of money paid by the students.

A special meeting of the Inter-Council Board will meet tonight with members of the Agriculture (Continued on page eight)

An amendment proposed by Benjamin Sinclair, chairman of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics, was defeated in October. The amendment provided that in the absence of a cabinet member, the constitution of the absent member's organization would be the determining factor in filling the seat. If there is no provision in the council's constitution, seating would be granted according to the hierarchy established by the organization's constitution.

A more recent amendment by Robert Dennis, president of the Association of Independent Men, was also defeated. This amendment stated that Cabinet would consist of the regular members or their duly appointed substitutes.

Sinclair, at a later cabinet meeting made several other proposed amendments on the substitution change.

Agriculture Student Council had previously decided to oppose any change which would not specify (Continued on page eight)

Cabinet to Hear Junior Prom Report

Earl Seely, chairman of the Junior Week Committee, will report to All-University Cabinet tonight that an estimated net income of $2394.75 was obtained from the Junior Prom.

The Junior Week report states that 1304 tickets were sold for the prom. The report also states that only 176 members of the junior class voted for Miss Junior Class. Seely states that although it had shortcomings the coronation had been planned to the last detail.

The installation of the president-elect of the freshman and sophomore classes will be held at Cabinet tonight. Samuel Wolcott will be installed as sophomore class president and Arthur Schravensande as freshman class president. They will take their positions on Cabinet.

Allan Schneirov, chairman of the Student Encampment Committee, will recommend to Cabinet that the maximum number of students to attend encampment be kept at 120. This number has been set in keeping with the facilities available at Mt. Alto where encampment is held.

Schneirov will also recommend that resource personnel be appointed either by the committee or by Cabinet to investigate possible workshop areas. After these areas are chosen, the personnel would continue in gathering in-

MI Council Opposes NSA Appropriation

By RODNEY FELIX

The Mineral Industries Student Council voted overwhelmingly to oppose the $600 appropriation for the National Student Association that is at present being backed by several members of All-University Cabinet.

In reiterating a motion made by Lyle Barnard and passed by the council, council president Charles Larson released this statement:

"The $600 can go for better purposes, unless NSA can prove its worth in the near future. The council as a whole is not in favor of discontinuing NSA activities. As of the present it is thought that the NSA activities have not proven themselves worth this appropriation to the student body. This will be the opinion until proven different."

Larson announced that the council will meet with E. F. Osborne, Dean of the MI College, at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 15 in 115 Mineral Sciences to discuss plans for the Centennial Open House to be held in the spring.

A vote was taken with the council acting as a unit selecting its name preference for the University post office. University Park was chosen.

In order to bolster coffee hour attendance the group made several proposals including one in which a definite effort would be made to gain the interest of the freshman MI students through the MI 1 lecture period.

Foods Dollar — this building is distributed proportionately among the dining halls according to the number of people eating in each. This avoids charging one student more than another, as all dining halls are not equal in size.

Under maintenance, food service runs two large trucks and a station wagon to carry foods from this central building to individual dormitory units. Rolls, bread, and desserts are baked at this main building by 3 p.m. and sent to dormitory dining halls in specially heated containers by dinner time. If a unit runs short of food, it calls for its order to be sent over in the station wagon.

In women's dining halls, evening meals are served family style, which means fresh linen every day. This involves washing, ironing, and repairing the linen. Along with lighting, paper supplies, medical check-ups for personnel, replacement of dishes and equipment, the care on linens and transportation comes under replacement.

The reason that food service can prepare 15 thousand meals a day and run the service and maintenance it does for $1.82 a day per student is because it is a non-profit organization.
