

Student Representation On Senate to Be Aired

A student encampment recommendation proposing that students act as representatives on each standing committee of the University Senate, except rules, has been presented to Adrian O. Morse, University provost, for consideration by the Senate.

Morse had not decided when the recommendation will be presented to Senate, but he said that it might possibly be presented at Senate's next meeting, Jan. 6.

If the recommendation is accepted by Senate, students would serve in an advisory capacity on each Senate committee except student affairs. The recommendation proposed that on the student affairs committee, three student representatives be allowed, all with voting powers. These three students would include the All-University President, one man and one woman, at least one of whom would be a member of All-University Cabinet.

Under the plan set up by the group, the representatives would be chosen by a joint Cabinet and Senate Committee. The students on the student affairs committee, with the exception of the All-University president, would be chosen in the same way.

The recommendation, drawn up by the encampment committee on campus-community government, also proposed that all student representatives on Senate committees comprise a standing committee of Cabinet. This group would be responsible to and chaired by a Cabinet member who would coordinate reports and present them regularly to Cabinet.

The recommendation further suggested that the Cabinet member selected for representation on Senate's Student Affairs Committee would chair Cabinet's standing committee on student affairs. This person would coordinate reports of the committee and would report to Cabinet.

Students to Take Draft Examinations

More than 150 men students will take the Selective Service College Qualifications test tomorrow. The test will begin at 8:30 a.m. in 10 Sparks.

Students taking the test should bring their admission form and a selective form stamped by their local draft board, according to Dr. Hugh M. Davison, professor of educational research, who is in charge of the test. Candidates will also need a No. 2 pencil or a pen, he said.

Dr. Davison will issue excuses for classes missed during the exam. Ray V. Watkins, scheduling officer, and Dr. William E. Cobb, instructor in education, will assist Davison in administering the test.

Five Will Attend NISA Convention

Five University delegates will attend the National Independent Student Association executive convention Friday and Saturday at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

Those attending will be James W. Dean, assistant to the dean of men in charge of independent affairs; Loa Joan Packard and Loretta Hunter of Leonides; and Robert Solomon and Arthur Simm of the Association of Independent Men.

Topics to be discussed include reports of last year's national convention and plans for the coming year's convention. Simm said AIM is interested in holding the convention at the University but since the last convention was also in the northeast district, the University will have last chance to bid as a convention site.

Air Force Dismisses Student for Cheating

A fifth semester student has been dismissed from the advanced Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps program for cheating during an AFROTC exam. Col. Daniel Riva, professor of air science and tactics, said Monday.

Colonel Riva said he was calling the incident to the public's attention to emphasize the penalties for cheating during examinations.

Lassie Returned; So Did Blivit— Dog Days Again

Dog days are here again. Blivit, the little beagle pup who has been appearing and disappearing around campus since Friday night, when James Clokey, first semester physics major, found her wandering in McKee Hall, has returned.

She was found yesterday wandering along Pollock road, by Patricia Farber, seventh semester education major. Miss Farber returned her to Clokey.

Blivit got away from Clokey Sunday night while he was taking her for a walk. Blivit's license number is 339, Cranbury, N.J.

The owner may claim her by calling Clokey at Ext. 963. If no one has claimed her by Christmas vacation, Clokey intends to take her home with him. Clokey lives on a farm near Allison Park and already owns several dogs.

Court Fines 14 Students For Violations

Traffic Court last night fined 14 of 19 students, both undergraduate and graduate, a total of $91. Five persons were either dismissed or suspended by court.

Six first violators, five second violators and one third violator, were fined by court.

Also fined were a sixth violator for a total of $27 and a seventh violator for a total of $28. These two students also lost their campus driving privileges for 16 weeks.

The Campus Patrol, in a change of policy, has announced that the entrance to parking area 50 is no longer a legal parking area, Mark Wiener, court chairman, said. This area is the long parking space above the Jordan Fertility Plots. Wiener again reminded students that they must register their car with the patrol if they plan to have it on campus for three weeks or longer.

If students wish to park in an area not assigned to them for emergency purposes, they must first receive permission to do so from the patrol office, Wiener said.

100 Persons Attend First Jazz Meeting

Over 100 persons attended the organizational meeting of the proposed jazz club last night.

Theodore D. Richards, assistant professor of agriculture extension, is faculty adviser of the club and brought the idea to the University from Cornell University, where he was also faculty adviser of the Cornell Rhythm Club.

Ronald Hoopes, seventh semester industrial engineering major, and John Valentine, sixth semester political science major, were co-organizers of the club.

The idea for a club on campus first became active when Richards met Valentine in the Green Room in Schwab Auditorium and learned he was interested in jazz. Valentine and Hoopes agreed to help organize the club and publicize it.

Richards appeared on the show Groovology 54 over radio station WMAJ before Thanksgiving and explained the proposed club and its purpose. The meeting last night was set and students interested in jazz invited to attend.

"Everyone was very enthusiastic on the whole thing," Hoopes said last night after the meeting.

Volunteer committees were set up at the meeting. Ronald Ross, fifth semester architecture major, is chairman of the finance committee. David Moskowitz, third semester business administration major, and Donald Brown, fifth semester labor management major, are co-chairmen of the name and constitution committee.

Records from the Stan Kenton Jazz Concert at Cornell in Nov. 1951, made by the Cornell Rhythm Club, were played at the meeting.

The club will meet again next week to choose a name and draw up a constitution. Persons attending next week's meeting for the first time will still be considered charter members, Hoopes said.

Jazz preferences indicated by persons attending last night's meeting were mainly progressive modern jazz with some Dixieland.

Hoopes explained that the purpose of the club will be to bring jazz artists such as Stan Kenton to the University to give jazz concerts in Schwab Auditorium. Another project will be the forming of a combo or orchestra, depending on how many students want to take part.

Recordings on 33 1/3 rpm discs will be made of the jazz concerts for sale to members and students. These records and tape recordings will be played at meetings along with a general dissertation on the artist.

Room reservations for June graduation will be accepted starting at 8:00 a.m. on December 10th. Must be in writing and only 1 room per graduating senior

University, Oxford Debaters to Meet

Benjamin Sinclair, seventh semester arts and letters major, and David Meckler, seventh semester pre-medical major, will renew a 20-year debate rivalry with a team from Oxford at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

The British debaters, Derek Bloom and Peter Hanney Bailey Tapsell, both conservatives, will take the affirmative of the topic "Resolved: That the permanent exclusion of Communist China from the United Nations would be a negation of the purpose of that organization."

In the non-decision debate both sides will present a 15-minute construction and a five to ten minute rebuttal speech. Richard C. Maloney, assistant to the dean of the College of Liberal Arts, will monitor the debate.

Bloom and Tapsell will debate at the University as part of a three-month tour of 40 American colleges and universities. The tour was arranged by the Institute of International Education in cooperation with the Speech Association of America.

Cabinet Representative
Sinclair, men's debate manager, represents the Board of Dramatics and Forensics on All-University Cabinet. He is also president of the 1955 Pennsylvania Interstate Debaters Congress, president of the Centre County Young Republicans Club, former Lion Party clique chairman, and a member of Pi Lambda Sigma, pre-legal honorary.

Sinclair received a certificate of distinction at the Eastern Forensics Tournament and a certificate of merit at Boston University and placed fifth among 100 speakers at the University of Pittsburgh cross examination tournament.

Meckler also received certificates of distinction at the Eastern tournament and certificates of merit at Boston University. He placed third in the Eastern Forensics.

Council Treasurer
Meckler is treasurer of Forensic Council and on the governing board of B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshmen scholastic honorary fraternity, Alpha Epsilon Delta, pre-medical honorary fraternity, and Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honorary fraternity.

Both British debaters have received bachelor of arts degrees from Oxford. Bloom, a second Lieutenant in the Royal Army Corps, has a B.A. in politics, philosophy, and economics.

Tapsell was an honor student in modern history. A lieutenant in the Royal Sussex regiment, he is

Perkins Gives FMA Report On Business

The Fraternity Marketing Association has handled a total of $33,000 of business for member fraternities to date this year, assistant to the Dean of Men Harold K. Perkins, said yesterday.

This figure is in accordance with an expected volume of business of $120,000 for this year. Perkins said.

Perkins said the $33,000 handled so far this year is almost equal to the total volume of business done by FMA last year.

The FMA Board of Trustees Monday night agreed to send out information about the association to non-member groups in the near future, Perkins said. FMA has 25 members at present.

In other action Monday night, Perkins said the board appointed a committee to study and project the future of FMA and voted to extend frozen food service to members. No commitments were made as to when the frozen food service would start, he said.

No date was set for a general meeting of FMA.

Temperature Rise Seen for Today

Today's weather will be nearly the same as yesterday's, except for a slight rise in temperature, the University weather station has reported.

The day is predicted to be cloudy with no sign of snow and the high will be 30, four degrees above yesterday's 26. Low tonight will be 18, slightly above last night's predicted low of 16.

Winds, too, won't be blowing as much today as yesterday when several gusts blew up to 32 miles per hour.
