

Cagers Meet Tartans Tonight

Lions Seek 37th Straight Home Win

Back home from a losing trip to North Carolina State, Penn State goes after its second win of the season tonight when it meets scrappy Carnegie Tech at friendly Rec Hall.

The Lions, who lost their first game of the season against the Wolfpack Thursday, will be after their 37th consecutive win at Rec Hall when the two teams meet at 8 p.m.

The game will mark the 57th contest in a rivalry that began in 1913 but has seen only scattered action within the past several years. The Lions last met Tech in 1952 and won that one at Pittsburgh, 74-56. Penn State holds a 46-10 edge in the series.

Won Two of Three

Veteran Tartan coach Mel Cratsley's club has won two of three games played this season. The speedy quintet dumped Indiana State Teachers College, and Pitt and lost to West Virginia.

Cratsley has a team that lacks height of any real extent, but he has plenty of speed and shooting ability. With only one newcomer on his first five, Cratsley will pit a well experienced club that has shown plenty of early season promise against John Egli's Lions tonight.

The Lion coach said yesterday that he expects to alter his starting lineup slightly against the Tartans. Junior Earl Fields, who scored 16 points before he fouled out of the North Carolina game, will move into the forward slot in place of Jim Blocker.

Ramsey to Start

However, that will be the only change. Lanky Bob Ramsey, 6-7 sophomore, will be at the other forward and Ron Weidenhammer and Bob Hoffman will get the call at the guards. Jesse Arnette will be at the center post.

The Lions' main problems lie in the persons of veterans Bill Dosey and Ralph Moker.

Dosey, one of two seniors on the squad, is the playmaker of the team. He and Moker, a 6-1 junior, have been the key men scorewise this season. Moker is a dead shot from outside and has plenty of speed. He's also an excellent defensive player.

The game is the first of four home contests scheduled for the Lions this week. They meet Colgate Wednesday, Gettysburg Friday, and Rutgers Saturday, and then go to Detroit for the Motor City Tournament, Dec. 27-28.

Swedes Return to Rec Hall

The return visit of Sweden's championship gymnasts Jan. 15 and the Eastern intercollegiate wrestling tournament March 11-12 will highlight the indoor sports program arranged for Penn State's centennial year of 1955.

IM Boxing Correction

Ed Bachtle, Alpha Gamma Rho, did not beat Howie Levine of Phi Sigma Delta in Thursday night's IM fight as was stated in yesterday's Daily Collegian. Levine was the winner over Bachtle on a TKO in the first round.

Fans Plan Day For Bednarik -- 'Meanest Pro'

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10 (AP)—Off the football field, Chuck Bednarik is a friendly, happy-go-lucky sort of a guy whose size somehow makes you think of a full-grown but still youthful St. Bernard dog.

Wrap a football suit around him, with the familiar No. 60 emblazoned on front and back and he becomes a raging terror, ready, willing and able to lay hands on any other pro in the business. So attired for a dozen or two games a year, the Philadelphia Eagles center sometimes has been described as "the meanest man in football."

Philadelphia fans, who love Chuck in either guise, finally are getting around to a testimonial for him, come Sunday. The honors and acclaim are not likely to do any good to the New York Giants' slim hope or an NFL Eastern Conference tie.

That "meanest man" title is no discredit to the 29-year-old Bednarik. Coach Joe Kuharich of the Washington Redskins, who used the term, explains it this way:

"Bednarik hates to see anyone standing up on the field. Every time he does see anybody standing around with the whistle yet to be blown, he knocks him down just for the sheer joy of it. He'll pick upon anybody."

Eagle's coach Jim Trimble adds a footnote to that: "Chuck isn't vicious or mean as an individual; he doesn't try to cripple anyone."

IM Boxers Throw Caution to Winds

By JOHN LAWRENCE

Before the largest crowd of the season last night, 24 intramural boxers squared off and threw caution and science down the drain in favor of a two-fisted attack and the blessings of providence.

Typical of the night's action was the 175 pound crowd-pleaser won by Joel Gamble, Phi Sigma Kappa over Wally Cook of Phi Kappa Sigma. Both boys started swinging from the opening bell and continued until the end of the fight. However, Gamble's clean shots to the head with both hands proved to be the deciding factor.

Lang Wins

In the unlimited division, Pete Lang of Beta Theta Pi finished with a two-fisted attack that drove Ed Redfield, Sigma Pi, across the ring and wrapped up a close decision for the lanky Beta. Lang had dropped Redfield with a hard right to the head in the second round, when he caught the Sigma Pi swinger moving in with his head down.

The 135 pound attraction was stopped at the end of the second round when Bob Brubaker of Delta Upsilon floored Gene Banker, Delta Chi, twice in the round with hard, looping right hand crosses.

Hollowell Saves Match

Herb Hollowell, Delta Tau Delta, pulled his 175 pound scrap out of the fire in the final round when he landed with four right hands to the head of Sid Grobman, Phi Epsilon Pi. Hollowell, fighting from a bobbing crouch through the first two rounds, suddenly straightened and landed on the clever Grobman with the right hand barrage that spelled victory.

Abramson Gets Decision

In the 155 pound division, Irv Abramson of Alpha Epsilon Pi carried the fight from the opening bell to Frank Billera, Sigma Chi, and gained the nod on the strength of a continual two-handed barrage.

Walt Mazur, Phi Kappa Tau, mauled his way to a win over Dick Wright, Sigma Nu, in the unlimited division and Al Brahm of Sigma Alpha Epsilon employed a straight left jab and effective counter punching in defeating his 165 pound opponent Bob Springer of Phi Kappa Sigma.

18 Teams Win Games In IM Card

Eighteen games were played Thursday night in intramural basketball's largest single night of action of this year.

Phi Sigma Delta, defending champions, who are having their share of basketball troubles this season, had to fight until the final second in order to defeat Phi Kappa, 27-25. Herb Frank and Milt Linal were high for the winners with 11 and 7 points.

The McKee Barfers piled up the largest number of points for an independent team and swamped the Cave Men, 42-26. Mark Goldsmith and Bill Witt led the Barfers with 12 points each.

Chi Phi, trailing Alpha Rho Chi, 14-11, at halftime, broke away early in the second half and won handily, 36-18. Both Bob Allen and Ralph Wagner tallied 10 points for Chi Phi in the wild second half. Wagner won scoring honors for the game with 15 points.

Team scoring honors for the night went to Delta Upsilon. The DU's built up a 28-8 lead in the first twelve minutes and had little trouble defending it in the second half. Claude Profit led the high scorers to a 46-19 victory over Phi Sigma Kappa. Profit tallied 12 points.

Sam McKibben, Phi Kappa Tau, earned the distinction of being the night's individual scoring leader. McKibben tallied 16 points and led his team to a 33-19 win over Alpha Epsilon Pi.

Neal Abrams, with 14 tallies, led the Four F's out of a tight 17-15 contest and into an easy 36-24
