

Clique Chairmen Refuse Comment on Senate Rule

Clique chairmen of both parties have so far refused to comment on the steps they will take in revising their constitutions.

The parties have until Jan. 13 to revise the constitutions. The revision was ordered last week after the Senate Committee on Student Affairs subcommittee on organization control

Annual Party Will Be Held By Music Club

The second annual Christmas Party, sponsored by the Louise Homer Club, music honorary group, will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. tomorrow in 117 Carnegie.

The program will include group singing conducted by members of the junior class. Frank Gullo, associate professor of music, is junior class adviser.

Members of the sophomore class will sing a German Christmas carol, "Laufet Ihr Hirten" (Run You Shepherds), and "Dixit Angeli Maria," a motet by H. L. Hassler. Sophomore class adviser is Edwin Gamble, instructor of music.

Members of the freshman and senior classes will present two original skits. Freshman class adviser is William Henninger, professor of music. Elmer Wareham is co-ordinator for the seniors.

Faculty members and students in the department of music may attend. Refreshments will be served.

BA Faculty Luncheon

The Business Administration Student Council will hold a faculty luncheon on Jan. 6 in the State College Hotel. Members of the Business Administration faculty and the council may attend.

AIM Asks Coordination Of Dances

The Board of Governors of the Association of Independent Men will ask for some coordination from Hat Societies Council to resolve a conflict in scheduled dance dates.

AIM is planning to sponsor a "farewell party" for the Temporary Union Building Feb. 4, the same date for which Hat Societies Council has planned an orientation mixer in Waring Hall for students who will matriculate at the University the second semester.

The board passed a motion that a letter be sent to the dean of men's office requesting that the council dance not be allowed to conflict with the AIM party.

Thomas Kidd, AIM parliamentarian, charged that in proposing the motion AIM President Robert Dennis was voicing "sour grapes." He said that there would be enough people on campus to fill both areas, "unless people are just not interested in saying farewell to the TUB."

Dennis defended his proposal, saying that he was seeking cooperation and possible postponement of the council dance.

Bruce Lieske outlined tentative plans for the proposed AIM freshman orientation handbook, but a motion requesting the support of the board was tabled until the handbook committee can give a tentative cost estimate.

Lieske, who is chairman of the committee, said the booklet would be printed on high grade paper and mailed to freshmen before they come to campus for Orientation Week. He said the committee will meet again Jan. 5.

but has made no further comment. An unofficial source, however, released a list of eight recommendations made by the subcommittee to the parties after last week's meeting.

met to review the constitutions. The Senate must charter the parties because the All-University Cabinet decided last month it did not have the power to do so.

Rae DelleDonne, State party clique chairman, has said that she

BULLETIN!
Gordon Pogal, Lion party clique chairman, called the Daily Collegian at 10:30 last night to say that he intends to appoint a committee to revise the Lion party constitution. He said the committee would work on the revisions over the Christmas holidays.

He did not give the names of committee members, saying he would divulge them today.

will appoint a revisions committee in the near future. She refused to give any further information, saying she felt it was an internal party matter.

Gordon Pogal, Lion party clique chairman, has refused to comment officially. He said he has not appointed a committee and indicated that he may not do so.

"The revisions will be done," he said, but he refused to make a formal statement.

"If anyone wants to know what is being done, he can call me up and I'll tell him as much as I think he ought to know," Pogal said.

The subcommittee ordering the revisions has made no official statement, pending a report to the Senate Committee on Student Affairs. Ross B. Lehman, committee chairman, has said the subcommittee did make recommendations,

New Storm Due To Hit Campus

The rain which began early yesterday will continue through noon today, but Penn Staters needn't heave any sighs of relief. Another storm, either rain or snow, will hit the campus late tonight and run at least through tomorrow, the University weather station has reported.

Snow failed to materialize yesterday even though the air temperature of 35 near the ground was cold enough for snow. The air temperature around cloud level was too warm for snow to develop, the weather station said. High today will be about 37 while the low tonight is predicted to be about 30, cooler than last night's minimum of 34.

Tickets Are Available For Original Play

"The First Day of Summer," an original three-act play by Bert States, graduate student in English, will be presented at 8 p.m. today and tomorrow in the Little Theater, basement of Old Main. Tickets may be obtained at the dramatics department office, second floor of Schwab Auditorium.

Women's Chorus to Meet

Women's Chorus will meet at 7 tonight in 1 Carnegie, Raymond Brown, director, said.

Timetable Sale Continues

Timetables are now on sale in the basement of Willard for 20 cents.

Chem-Phys Council Will Meet Tonight

Chemistry-Physics student council will meet at 7 tonight in 105 Osmond, Barbara Foss, council president, has announced.

A junior science major will be elected to the council and courses will be evaluated, Miss Foss said. Joseph Eberly, constitution revision committee chairman, will read the proposed new constitution.

MI Student Council Will Meet Tonight

Mineral Industries student council will meet at 7:30 tonight in the main conference room of Mineral Science.

The meeting will be devoted to the discussion of the Mineral Industries open house planned for the spring.

For the gift you'll give with pride. Let your jeweler be your guide.

B. P. MOYER, Jeweler
218 E. College Ave.

UNIVERSITY CREAMERY SALES ROOM

in DAIRY BUILDING

Many Kinds of Cheese for Xmas

Take Some Home to the Folks!

Cheese Gift Packages - For Mailing

Open Daily Mon. A.M.

Through Sun. Noon

Ag Council Retains Vote Setup

By SUE CONKLIN

Agriculture Student Council last night voted 34 to three against changing the present election system of council officers.

The proposed plan was that the election of council officers be opened to the entire agriculture student body. It had been discussed, but not included in the plan, whether council would nominate the candidates or leave that to the students also.

The present system provides for nomination of candidates for offices by the council elections committee and election of officers by the council. Nominations may be made by any member of the council until voting begins.

It was brought out that the ideas of the students are carried to the council through their representatives. Although they are not pledged to vote in any way they do attempt to carry out the feeling of their club members.

The report from the elections committee included these arguments for and against the change.

- For the new election system:
1. More democratic.
 2. More student participation.

3. Right of students to govern themselves.

Against the change in election system:

1. Cost of election equipment.
2. Lack of student interest.
3. Lack of knowledge on the part of most students about the abilities of council members.
4. Possible formation of cliques and influence groups.

James Hay, seventh semester agronomy major, said he felt that students would vote for candidates because they are in his curriculum rather than on the merits of the candidates. He also felt that candidates from large clubs would have a better chance than someone with equal qualifications from a smaller club. Hay said he thought it would become a "popularity contest" which would lead to offices being held by students who did not have enough time to do the best job.

Daniel Van Duyne, fifth semester agricultural economics major, stated that if clubs are responsible in picking their representatives they would carry this policy into elections.

Harry Nichol, seventh semester agronomy major, added that the essence of the problem is for leaders on Ag Hill to instill more student interest. They should have the students aware of qualifications of members of Ag Hill and the workings of Ag Hill.

Norman Schue, third semester dairy science major, said that council members wouldn't give criticism along with the good qualities of the candidates to the clubs.

Douglas Moorhead, fifth semester horticulture major, said that if council regulates an open election, the students would not think on their own, but would follow council. He said that the elections committee had not been able to find a plan as good as the present one.

Have your typewriter repaired over the holiday
Call AD 7-2492
Bring machine to 633 W. College Ave.
or have us pick it up

YOU'RE TIME IS ALMOST UP!!

Yes, you should have most of your Christmas gifts selected already. But Santa hopes you haven't forgotten about your ROOMMATE!!

Give him or her a handy

RING BINDER $2.25

ZIPPER NOTEBOOK . $2.60

So handy and they're all wrapped for Xmas

In the TUB

Open 8:30-4:30

PENN STATE BOOK EXCHANGE

Christmas Shopping til 9 p.m.

- State College stores open evenings 'til Christmas
- Convenient shopping hours for busy students
- Branded merchandise at standard prices

The Daily Collegian