

Cagers Resume Play Tomorrow

Face Bucknell in Try for 7th; Split Four in Holiday Action

It's a brand new year for Penn State basketball coach John Egli, and the Lion boss is hoping for a fresh start as the 1955 session of the Lions' 25-game schedule opens.

The Nittanians, carrying a 6-3 record after a slightly disastrous holiday round of action, resume play tomorrow night with dangerous Bucknell at Rec Hall.

The cagers started the holiday festivities with a smashing 106-69 win against Rutgers, then took to the road where they lost to underdog Wayne in the opener of the Motor City Tournament at Detroit, 71-66. They stopped Toledo in the consolation match, 71-53, and then moved over to East Lansing, Mich., where Michigan State tripped them, 85-74.

Through the four game set, smooth-moving Jesse Arnette continued his spectacular scoring spree and brought his point output to 233 for an average of 25.6 points per game in nine contests. The big Lion center collected 41 points against Rutgers, smashing the Penn State single-game scoring record which he set in 1951 as a freshman.

Top 100 Twice

The game marked the second time in four nights that the Lions had topped the century mark. The first was a 110-75 victory over Colgate.

The Lions slumped badly when they hit the Motor City. Carrying a 94-point per game average, the hefty Pennsylvanians could tally only 66 points with Arnette accounting for 26 of them. The big center went on to score 34 more in the consolation match and walked off with four tournament records before he was through.

His 34 markers set a new single game scoring record, and his two game total of 60 meant a new tourney scoring mark. He also recorded the most foul shots attempted and made during the two day classic.

Trail by Two

Pre-tournament favorites, the Lions couldn't find the shooting range against Wayne in the opener, and then missed an opportunity to catch the Tartars late in the contest. Trailing badly, the Nittanians suddenly began to move and with less than three minutes remaining, trailed 68-66, but were never able to catch up.

In the second game, the Lions and Toledo—opponents in the eastern regional playoffs for the NCAA championship last season—went nip and tuck for 30 minutes before Penn State finally pulled away.

A desperate and spectacular second half rally wasn't quite enough to catch fast-stepping Michigan State two nights later on Dec. 30. Egli's passers trailed by 22 points at half time but roared back in the second half to pull within striking distance of the Spartans, but lost by 11 points, 85-74.

Seek Seventh

Tomorrow the Lions go after their seventh win of the year against a team that is one of the best small college quintets in the state, despite a 1-4 record.

Led by sophomore Joe Bacelli, the Bisons could be ready to do a little hair pulling tomorrow. Last season the Thundering Herd employed a stalling offensive game against the tight Penn State defense and managed to stay within six points of the Lions, 49-43.

Coach Ben Kribbs has indicated that he might employ that strategy again tomorrow. "If we find that our shots are not going in," Kribbs said, "we might try a little ball control. We lack the height to get many inside shots, especially against that zone, so the boys will have to keep moving that ball until they get set for

Bailey, Garrity Help Pace East To 13-12 Win in Shrine Contest

Two Penn State gridgers—quarterback Don Bailey and end Jim Garrity—who were both figured to play background roles in Saturday's East-West game, shared the foreground in the East's tense 13-12 victory.

Bailey did most of the signal-calling for the East, and his fine mixture of plays, plus a few pinpoint passes at critical stages, earned the award as the game's most valuable player.

Garrity's successful conversion after the East's second touchdown snapped a 12-12 deadlock and provided the margin of victory.

Notre Dame's all-America quarterback, Ralph Guglielmi, saw only limited action due to illness, giving Bailey the job of directing the team in the 30th annual East-West contest at Kezar Stadium, San Francisco.

Bailey guided the East to its first score after the West had surged to a 6-0 lead. The Nittany quarterback plunged over from one foot out for the touchdown to climax a 61-yard drive. Garrity snared a nine-yard pass from Bailey on the West's one-yard line after it appeared the drive would stall just short of paydirt.

Garrity's extra point attempt was good, but was nullified by a penalty. The next try was blocked and the score remained tied.

However, the West scored again to lead 12-6. Guglielmi then led the East to the final touchdown. With the score once again knotted, Garrity was called upon to try for the "big" point. Garrity's boot was good, and the East hung on to its slim one point margin.

Bailey paced another drive to the West's three, where Garrity made a sensational grab of a six-yard aerial.

Gene Danser and Jack Sherry played in the annual Blue-Gray game and Ron Younker took part in the North-South battle.

Garrity will round out his collegiate career when he plays in the Senior Bowl.

Suit Against Majors Will Continue in Court

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (AP)—Trial of a $12 million anti-trust suit against 13 major league baseball clubs has been continued in U.S. District Court until April 18, attorneys said today.

The suit, brought by the now bankrupt Liberty Broadcasting System of Dallas, was first filed Feb. 21, 1952. After a series of continuances the case was reset for trial for today.

Named in the suit are all major league teams except the Brooklyn Dodgers, Cincinnati Redlegs and Chicago White Sox.

The Lions move into the contest with an 85.9 scoring average. They have piled in 773 points while opponents have scored 651 for a 72.4 average.

Thinclads to Face Rough Indoor Slate

Penn State's indoor track team will be off and running Jan. 21 when it opens the season in Philadelphia at the Inquirer Games. Five other engagements have been slated for the thinclads, with the possibility of another being added yet, Lion coach Chick Werner said yesterday.

The day after the 11th annual Inquirer Games classic at Convention Hall in Philadelphia, the Lions will compete in the Washington Evening Star meet in the nation's capital.

The remainder of the schedule is:

- Feb. 5—Millrose Games
- 12—Quadrangular meet with Michigan State, Ohio State, and Missouri.
- 19—NAAU meet
- 26—IC4A championships

Relay Team

Werner said he will take a mile relay combination, a pole vaulter, and one or two hurdlers to the Inquirer Games and the Evening Star meet. Roy Brunjes, Art Pollard, and Skip Slocum will run on the mile relay quartet, with either Don Matz or Rod Perry filling the other spot. Sophomore Harry Fuehrer will compete in pole vaulting competition and Perry and possibly Bill Youkers will run the hurdles.

Brunjes, Pollard, and Slocum were rated by Werner as being "in a class with any three runners in the country." Dave Leatham, Jack Morin, and Bruce Austin—three speedsters who will not be available until next semester—also have a good chance of cracking the mile relay outfit.

Invitation Meets

Many of the meets in which the Lions will be competing are invitation events and therefore Werner will not be able to take a full team all times. However, Werner said he would call on his entire squad for the quadrangular battle at Michigan State.

"This meet," the Nittany mentor emphasized, "could be the finest event of the indoor season. All the teams are strong, and will all be tough to beat."

Last season the roursome of Pollard, Leatham, Brunjes, and Ollie Sax sped to a 3:23 clocking in the mile relay to set a new Inquirer Games mark. The old record of 3:24 had been set in 1950 by Villanova.

Finest Competition

The following day Morgan State and Manhattan finished one-two in the Evening Star meet, with the Lions placing third. Manhattan also took its turn at winning, and the mile relay competition was hailed as the finest ever seen in this country.

In the Millrose Games the baton-passers set a new Penn State mark of 3:19.7 as they nipped Manhattan for the win. Pollard, Brunjes, Slocum, and Sax covered the four laps for the Lions.

This season the competition once again appears to be of a high caliber, and the mile relay race—which is the No. 1 event in indoor meets—will draw some of the nation's top runners to the starting blocks.

Conversion Job

Penn State, primarily a passing team in 1953, turned to a running game in 1954 and amassed an average of 268 yards per game along the ground as it won 7 and lost 2.

Phi Kappa Sig Leads IM Race

Phi Kappa Sigma tops the field in the total point race of the Fraternity Intramural athletic program, according to figures released by the IM office.

The Phi Kappa Sig has amassed a total of 280 points in the four-sport fall program. Of their 280 point total, they have garnered 210 as a result of the recently completed boxing tournament.

Their remaining 70 points are a result of 25 in touch football, 40 in swimming, and 5 in golf.

Sigma Nu is in second place with 245 points. The Sigma Nu's have gathered 165 in boxing, 35 in football, 25 in swimming and 20 in golf. The remaining top five are Delta Sigma Phi, third, with 235 points; Beta Theta Pi, fourth, with 220 points; and Phi Delta Theta, fifth, with a 215 point total.

The Fraternity Intramural champions in each sport are Phi Delta Theta in touch football; Beta Theta Pi in swimming; and Phi Kappa Sigma, in boxing. Dick Wahl, representing Alpha Sigma Phi, was the fraternity golf champion.
