

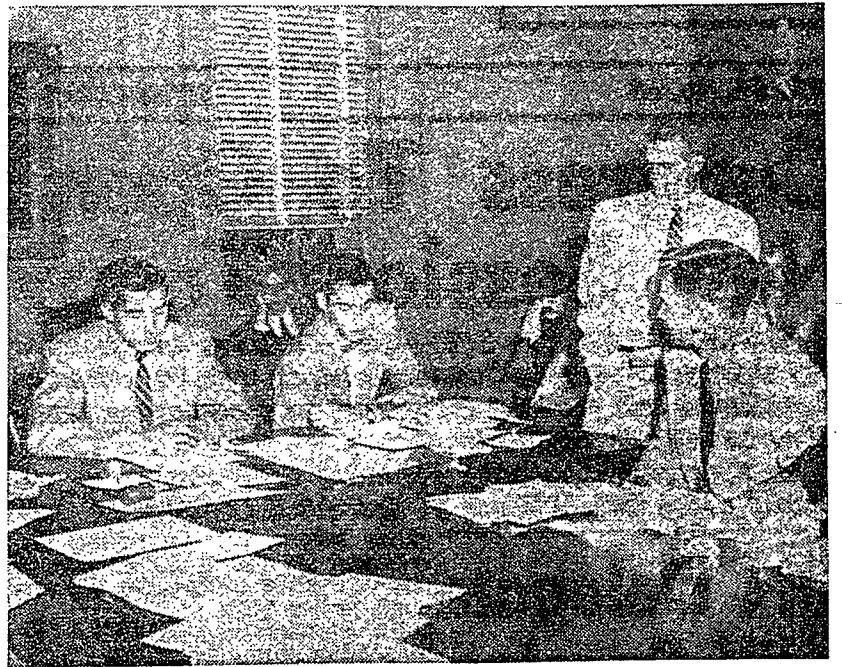

Photographic Review of News of the Semester

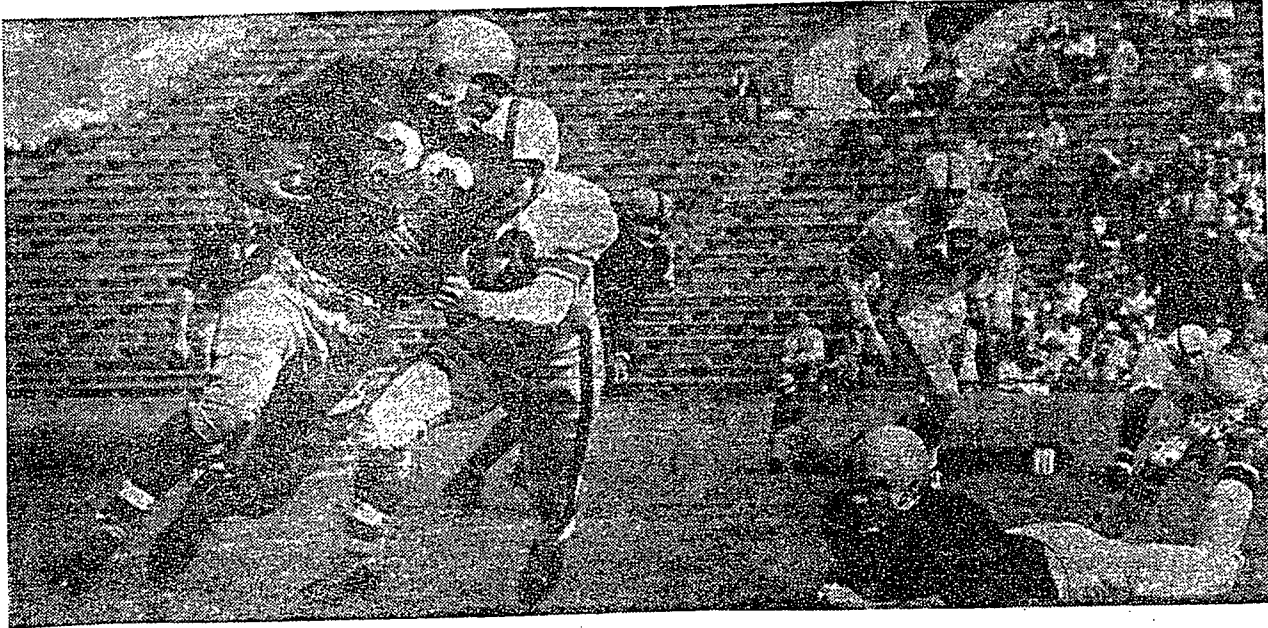

First came Customs (upper left) that great big way of welcoming the freshmen to Penn State. Enforcement was lax as usual except on Joint Custom Days when men could haze women.

All-University Cabinet (upper right) engaged in a heated debate over the adoption of a permanent code at its first meeting of the semester. Thomas Kidd (second from left) is speaking while All-University Vice President John Speer, left, Robert Homan, All-University secretary-treasurer, standing, and Watson Leese, president of the Liberal Arts Student Council, listen.

Ron Younker, Lion halfback, gets set to tackle Illinois back, J. C. Caroline, in opening game of season. Lions beat Illinois, 14-12, and went on to 7-2 record.

Borough residents, Mr. and Mrs. Russel C. Pearce, cast ballots on election day. Borough voters defeated changing the name of State College to Mount Nittany.

Lois Cowden, crowned Queen of the Junior Prom by class president, John Thalimer. With the Queen is orchestra leader Tommy Dorsey.

the picture below. The overturned car was driven by Robert Jackson, graduate student in dairy science, and the other by Philip Stover, seventh semester mechanical engineering major.

Fire destroys the main store of O. W. Houts, Dec. 4. Damage of the fire was estimated at $500,000. Three students walked away from the two wrecked autos in

The lower right picture tells the story of an event yet to come—the gymnastics exhibition of the Swedish men's and women's gym team in Recreation Hall, Jan. 15.

