

Discrimination--APhio Will Install Officers Tonight

He explained further that the University does not allow discrimination in professional societies, but felt that in the case of a social fraternity where people must live together, it should be left up to the group.

In view of the dissatisfaction expressed over the motion by Cabinet members, Nancy Ward, acting chairman of Judicial, proposed a substitute motion which was also defeated; none for, 16 against, and eight abstentions.

Ward's Proposal

Miss Ward's proposal was as follows: "Resolved: That Cabinet commend those student organizations on this campus that have struck out discriminatory clauses in their charters in regard to race or national origin."

Diehl McKalip, chairman of the Board of Publications, spoke against the substitute, saying that by lauding some who take an action those who do not are condemned by implication.

No Cabinet Action

Robert Dennis, president of the Association of Independent Men said he felt Cabinet should not take any action on the issue. "Discrimination to end discrimination is sometimes worse than discrimination itself," he said.

Fielding gave two reasons for making his proposal. "We have become a University and are regarded as such," he said.

"University" implies the students can transcend petty prejudices and choose their friends on the basis of cultural and intellectual standards and not by an act of God," he said.

Fielding's Reasons

He also asked why people of all races should pay taxes for the support of a state institution if their kin cannot be admitted to any and all organizations.

"I'm not trying to cram the idea down anyone's throat," he said, "I just want Cabinet to show sympathy for the idea."

The Palace of Holyrood House, in Edinburgh, is the official residence of the British sovereign in Scotland.
