

Prexy Will Attend MSC Centennial

"Top names in the news" will help to celebrate Michigan State's centennial, the Michigan State News said in a recent article.

Among these top names is that of President Milton S. Eisenhower who will attend the Founder's Day ceremonies on Saturday. Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Har-

60 Students Awarded Scholarships

Sixty students were awarded scholarships yesterday by the Senate Committee on Scholarships and Awards.

They include: John W. White Scholarships: Harrison Price, $200; Charles Biechler, $150; and Joseph Eberly, $100.

Louise Carnegie Scholarships of $75 each: Thomas B. Brown, Harrington Case, Paul Gilpin, Helen Harlin, Hal Harmon, Janice Holm, Robert Hostetter, James Ifft, Roger Klingeman, Mary Lee Lauffer, Lesley Tarleton, and Sandra Trexler.

Class of 1922 Memorial Scholarships of $100 each: John S. Boyd, Aner Carlstrom, Shirley Eagley, Baylee Friedman, Harryette Gerhart, Martha Heim, Harrison Hoppes, James Jacoby, Vanessa Johnson, Virginia Latshaw, Nancy Seiler, and John Starkey.

Helen Wood Morris Scholarships of $62.50 each: Martha Michener and James Kaleka.

Lt. Harry Edward Wagner Scholarships of $100 each: Allan Bergman, Thomas Binford, John Gruber, and James Lindner.

Nineteen-twenty Scholarships Awards of $100: Lois Beer, Joyce Barger, Luella Cook, Catharine Courtney, Fay Hilberg, David Marquis, Robert Osborne, Arlene Smith and George Yelenosky.

Vance C. McCormick Scholarship for $150: Thomas Scott.

The Lawrence J. Ostermayer Memorial Scholarships for $100 each: David W. Anderson, Richard Bal, Benjamin Belles, Edward Biskis, Robert Foreman, John Kenemuth, Richard Phillips, Marian Romberger, Edward Rygwalski, and James Sarrer.

Class of 1921 Memorial Scholarships for $200 each: Marlene Chase, Rosemarie DiMinno, Norman Galvin, Mary Hudcorich, and JoAnn Magrini.

Gatner-Rotherock Memorial Scholarship for $150, Mason Walsh.

Mary Thompson Dale Memorial Scholarship for $75, Joyce Cox.

The University's first agricultural information bulletin was published in 1859.

STATE NOW

"PRINCE OF PLAYERS"

Richard Burton Raymond Massey
Based on a Biography of Edwin Booth

Today WARNER Theatres

Centraur
"BEAU BRUMMELL"
ELIZABETH TAYLOR
STEWART GRANGER

Nittany

Doors Open 6 p.m.
Alec Guinness
"THE DETECTIVE"

WDFM Plans New News Show

A new type Friday night news broadcast will be inaugurated tonight by campus radio station WDFM.

Included on the broadcast, from 9 to 9:30 p.m., will be interviews with Dr. Edward C. Thaden, instructor in history, who will discuss the week's events in the Soviet Union; and Robert J. Miller, borough postmaster, who will discuss the Centennial postage stamp which goes on sale Monday, and the University Park post office, which will be located in the Hetzel Union Building.

The newscasts will also include the international, national, local, and sports news.

Hat Societies Provide Guides

Hat Societies will provide at least 40 guides for guests at the Centennial banquet Feb. 22.

Following the Hat Society Council business meeting Wednesday night, George Donovan, director of associated student affairs, guided the council members through the Hetzel Union Building. Donovan explained that two more tours will be provided to familiarize the guides with the building. A minimum of six guides will represent each hat society.

During the business meeting, the council decided to send a girl from Bellefonte and a boy from State College this summer to the leadership camp for high school students at Lock Haven State Teachers College.

Players Will Close 'Corn Is Green' Tonight

Players will present Emily Williams' "The Corn Is Green" for the last time at 8 tonight at Center Stage in the Temporary Union Building.

The drama of Welsh life, which was scheduled to close last semester but was held over because of student demand, has Elizabeth Ives and Edwin Grove in the leading roles. Tickets are available at the Student Union desk in Old Main for $1.

available at the booth. A two-week training course will start during this month for the student staffers.

Michigan State is looking forward to having these names in the news visit its campus. But perhaps it already has had the name visit its campus—President Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed a Convocation held in October in Macklin Stadium.

Students Should Consult Placement Service--Leetch

More students should take advantage of the jobs made available to them through the University Placement Service—a greater number of jobs this year than ever before—according to George N. P. Leetch, director of the University Placement Service.

For example, of the 74 students who graduated in Liberal Arts last semester, only 18 had had at least one interview, Leetch said.

One student had had six interviews, and this was the most taken by any one student, he said. With the number of companies represented last year each student had the opportunity to take 18 or 20 interviews, he added.

Students in technical courses are more occupation-minded than non-technical students and more of them take advantage of the opportunities provided by the employment service, Leetch said.

He said he realized that many men will be going into the armed services after graduation and therefore facing an uncertain future right now.

Last year 128 men who graduated entered the military services immediately, and within six months most graduates followed suit.

It is a good plan for graduates to work before they are drafted, Leetch said, even if it is only for a few weeks. This would give them an idea of what they would like to do after their term in the service, he said. Seventy-five per cent of the companies want to talk to students regardless of draft, and the other twenty-five per cent want personnel to fill jobs now, he said.

A report given to the Daily Collegian by Leetch shows that graduates of the geophysics and geochemistry departments of the College of Mineral Industries earned the highest beginning salaries. Graduates of the chemistry department earned the second highest beginning salary, and third were the members of the chemical engineering department, both the latter departments of the College of Chemistry and Physics.

However, there is little correlation between later financial success and the curriculum a student was enrolled in college, Leetch said.

The report, which contained the salaries and jobs of 69 per cent of last year's graduating class, shows that the average monthly beginning salary earned by last year's graduates was men—$345 and women—$225.

Most students would be surprised to know that companies such as the General Motors Co. hire many graduates of non-technical curriculums. Last year that company hired 300 graduates of non-technical courses.

Leetch said that more graduates will be better satisfied with their jobs if they talk to the various company representatives when they visit campus.

This semester representatives of approximately 300 companies will visit the campus. Visits will be announced in the Daily Collegian.

Colder Weather Predicted Today

A cold front, which was forecast to arrive late last night or early this morning, is expected to usher out the "spring fever" weather that has been present on campus for the last two days, the University weather station has reported.

Light snow flurries are expected for today. Temperatures are expected to be around freezing, dropping to a low of 10 tonight.

Yesterday's high was a pleasant 58 degrees.

Phys Ed Council Meeting

Physical Education Student Council will meet 8:30 p.m. Monday in 105 White Hall.

Among items to be discussed will be plans for Phys Ed open house and the possibility of establishing a student major club.

Pair—
2nd LT. BARS
Quality you can't meet anywhere for Valentine's Day or any day at BALFOUR'S

TODAY'S the Last Day TO BUY YOUR BOOKS AT USED BOOK AGENCY

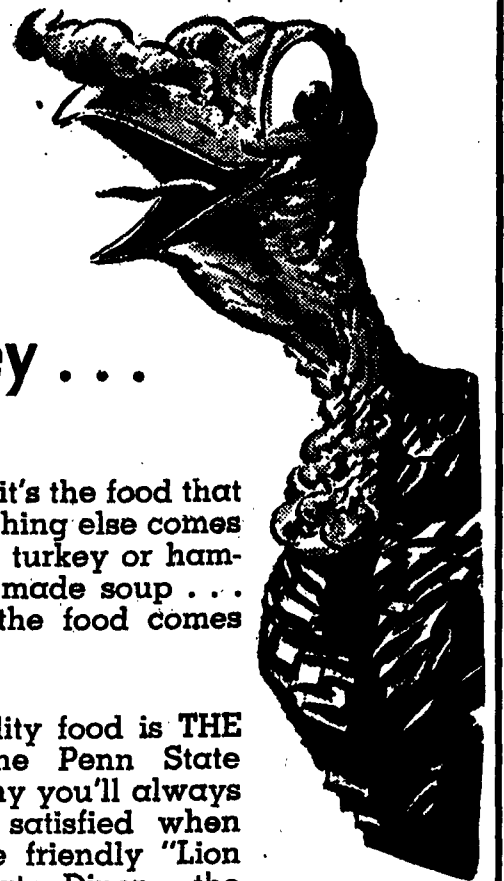

Located in the TUB
Open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. only
(in order that the Player's may present)
"THE CORN IS GREEN"

+++
Don't forget to choose your school supplies for the new semester!
+++

MONEY and UNSOLD BOOKS will be returned to students Feb. 21 through Feb. 26
+++

PENN STATE BOOK EXCHANGE

Let's Talk Turkey...

In a restaurant, it's the food that counts — everything else comes second. Talking turkey or hamburgs or home made soup... the quality of the food comes first.

And good, quality food is THE specialty of the Penn State Diner. That's why you'll always be more than satisfied when you stop at the friendly "Lion Sign." Penn State Diner—the home of good food and fast, efficient service.

PENN STATE DINER

"Stop at the Sign of the Lion"

WEST COLLEGE AVENUE