Student Waiters Needed for HUB

Students to be waiters and waitresses for the Hetzel Union Building are still needed, Harriet Schupp, food service manager of the HUB, said today.

Students will be paid in tickets, equal to 75 cents an hour, which can be used for buying meals in the dining room, Miss Schupp said. Tickets are not redeemable at the snack bar, as the Daily Collegian erroneously reported yesterday.

Students are needed to work on the grill, in the dining room, and as caterers for banquets. Students may call extension 488.

Nittany Council Elects Mauler Vice President

George Mauler, fifth semester pre-medical major, was elected vice president of the Nittany Council Monday night. Other officers elected were Frederic Martin, treasurer; and Harry Leopold, social chairman. Alfred Taylor was elected to the Association of Independent Men's Board of Governors as a representative-at-large.

The council discussed plans for Independent Week, which will be held the week of March 13. The AIM-Leonides Ball to be held at the Hetzel Union Building on March 18 will climax Independent Week.

Dancing will be from 8:30 p.m. until midnight to the music of Johny Nicolosi and his band.

The National Independent Student Association has a NISA week each year, but this is the first time AIM and Leonides have celebrated it at the University.

James W. Dean, assistant to the dean of men, said he believed working together on such a project would bring the independents closer together and would help to strengthen the unparalleled growth that AIM has enjoyed during the last two years.

On March 12 there will be an informal record dance at Waring Hall open to all students. Al Wyland and his band will play.

Independents will be recognized in the chapel service March 13. They will assist in the service and act as ushers.

March 14 will be the first day of voting for the Independent Sweetheart.

West Dormitories will have a mixed dinner with Thompson Hall March 16. Following that there will be an informal record dance in Waring Hall open to all students.

Through the week displays of independent contributions to the University will be in Waring Hall and the Pattee Library.

Centennial

Watts Guided Early Fortunes

A practical farmer, who was also a lawyer, judge and businessman, stands foremost among the early supporters of the 100-year-old University.

For 20 years Frederick Watts of Carlisle took an active part in guiding the fortunes of the young institution he had done so much to establish.

His service began Jan. 21, 1851, when he chaired a meeting of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society, which passed a resolution urging that instruction in agriculture be introduced into the Commonwealth's educational system.

Recommends Convention Two years later, when the Society named a committee to study the advisability of establishing an agricultural school, Watts became its chairman. That committee recommended a convention be held in Harrisburg, March 8, 1853, "to adopt measures for the establishment of an agricultural institution to be styled the Farmers' High School of Pennsylvania, with a model farm attached thereto."

At the convention, Watts was made chairman of a committee to develop plans for the school and draft a bill for submission to the legislature for chartering the institution. This the legislature did in 1854.

Revisions proved necessary in the first charter, however. A sec-

New Series To Be Given Over WDFM

Campus radio station WDFM is presenting a new series titled "Europe Today" on the program "Behind the Lectern."

Faculty and students who have been in Europe recently will speak on their personal experiences. They will try to give social aspects and information that cannot be found in an encyclopedia on modern Europe.

"Behind the Lectern" is produced by Dr. Dagobert deLevie, assistant professor of German, and is directed by Sandra Greenspun, sixth semester arts and letters major.

Dr. Kart Hoogsteen and Dr. Edgar Eichhorn, research associates in physics, will speak on the Netherlands at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Serge Sher will speak on France on March 15.

Dr. deLevie requests that listeners submit any questions concerning the country to be discussed during the week preceding a show.

Saddish Day—Aristophanes Lost, Mongrel Found

Something suspicious is going on in the animal world in State College. Aristophanes has disappeared.

Aristophanes, or Ari for short, is an orange-eyed, white and orange spotted cat, which is the property of Rose Ann Brooks, an instructor in sociology.

Coupled with Ari's disappearance, was the arrival of a stranger on campus. A black mongrel dog, who apparently knows his way around, has put in a sudden and dramatic appearance. The dog, seemingly a slick operator, moved in on a Spring Week committee meeting Thursday night, and toured Sparks and Carnegie buildings yesterday.

Exactly what all this means is a complete mystery unless . . . Is the long heralded revolt of "Animalism" about to get underway right here?

Scholarship Established For Senior Ag Student

The Ralston Purina Company has established a $500 scholarship at the University.

Beginning next September, the Ralston Purina Scholarship will be awarded annually to a senior in the College of Agriculture. It will be awarded on the basis of leadership, character, citizenship, sincerity of purpose in the field of agriculture, and financial need. The recipient must be in the upper one-fourth of his class.
