Work Will Begin On Bowling Alleys

By MIKE MILLER

Construction will be started on 10 new bowling alleys in the basement of the addition to Recreation Hall and in White Hall May 1, Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the College of Physical Education and Athletics, said yesterday.

McCoy said six of the alleys will be located in Rec Hall and four in White Hall. Construction of the alleys will be started first in Rec Hall, McCoy said, and then shift to White Hall as the Rec Hall alleys are completed and construction crews freed.

McCoy said the alleys would include the most modern equipment available, including automatic pinsetters, electric foul line controls, and scoreboards above the foul line which will reflect the score on the players' score sheets. The alleys will be used for physical education classes, intramural competition, and individual student use, according to McCoy.

Bowling Classes

McCoy explained that the alleys will not eliminate the need for conducting physical education bowling classes in commercial establishments in the borough, but would permit more students to take bowling in their required physical education curriculum.

A nominal charge will be made for use of the bowling alleys to help alleviate the cost of construction, McCoy said.

He said the money realized from the operation of the alleys could also be put towards the construction of additional recreational facilities.

9-Hole Putting Green

McCoy said that construction of a nine-hole putting green will be completed in the basement of the Rec Hall addition by fall.

New tennis courts are being planned for the area surrounding the site of the new women's dormitories near the corner of College avenue and Shortlidge road, McCoy said.

These courts will be constructed as the dorms are built, he said.

A rifle range "which is one of the most modern in the East" has been completed and in use for 10 days in the basement of the Recreation Hall, McCoy said.

The rifle range is available for the ROTC rifle teams and for physical education classes. No charge is made for ammunition used in the course of the class instruction, the dean said.

Last Opportunity To Show Spark Of Past Years

By DOTTIE STONE

Today is the last day of political campaigning, and the last chance for the parties to show the banner-waving, horn-honking enthusiasm of campaigns of previous years.

Voting machines will be in operation tomorrow and Thursday to tabulate the results of the 12 offices which will be filled by the elections.

Three All-University offices, six class offices, and three Athletic Association offices will be filled. Students may vote for All-University offices and their own class officers. Only men students may vote for AA candidates.

The three candidates for president offer the only true competition for AA offices as only one candidate is running for AA secretary. The candidate for AA president with the second highest number of votes will become vice president.

Although campaign literature and publicity have been spread around campus and town for the All-University and class officers by the political parties, little publicity has been circulated for AA candidates.

Political parties have been taking their candidates on tours of fraternities and dormitories at

TKE, KAT Win IFC-Panhel Sing

In a repetition of last year, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Kappa Alpha Theta were named winners of the Interfraternity-Panhellenic Council sing Sunday night in the State College High School auditorium.

It was Tau Kappa Epsilon's fifth win in as many years, and Kappa Alpha Theta's second win in a row.

In the second place spots, however, there was a complete change. Chi Phi, a newcomer to the finals this year, took second in the fraternity class and Alpha Chi Omega was second for sororities. Last year's second place winners were Beta Theta Pi and Kappa Delta.

A rotating trophy will be given to the winners at the IFC-Panhel banquet Thursday night. Permanent plaques will be given to the first and second place winners. Under a rule instituted last year, the rotating trophy will become permanent if a group wins the sing for three consecutive years.

A near-capacity crowd attended the finals, despite a heavy snowstorm which blanketed State College Sunday night.

Tau Kappa Epsilon, directed by Alexander Zerban, eighth semester music education major, sang the Alma Mater, a required song for entrants, and "Teke Toast." They have used the present arrangement of "Teke Toast" for the past three years.

Kappa Alpha Theta, directed by Dixie Waring, sixth semester home economics major, sang "Thetas Everywhere" and "Song of Praise." "Thetas Everywhere" was also used in last year's contest.

Chi Phi, directed by Richard Coolbaugh, fourth semester arts and letters major, sang "Ode to Chi Phi," as their second number.

Alpha Chi Omega, directed by Diane Haines, eighth semester

Greeks to Hold Co-ed Dinners

Greeks will continue their celebration of Greek Week tonight, with exchange dinners scheduled between fraternities and sororities.

Approximately 820 men and women from 48 fraternities and 22 sororities will participate.

Eight men from each fraternity will eat in women's dining halls and eight women from each sorority will eat in a fraternity.

Men eating in women's dining halls should be at the dormitories by 5:10 p.m. according to Robert Eisenhuth, exchange dinner co-chairman.

Fraternities will furnish transportation for women who are eating in fraternity houses. Men will meet women going to fraternities also at 5:10 p.m. in the lobby of the dormitory where the sorority suite is located.

IFC-Panhel Ball Tickets

Tickets for the Interfraternity Council-Panhellenic Council ball, to be held from 9 to 1 Friday night in Recreation Hall, will go on sale Friday at the Hetzel Union desk in the HUB.

Pollock Urges Pledges To Maintain High Ideals

O. Edward Pollock, assistant to the dean of men in charge of fraternity affairs, urged 75 outstanding pledges last night to live up to the high ideals of fraternity life.

Speaking at the Outstanding Pledge Banquet in the Hetzel Union Building, Pollock traced the growth of the fraternity movement, pointing out that there are over 3 million fraternity and sorority men and women in the United States today.

He also commented on the large number of alumni, stating that his own fraternity, Delta Upsilon, had 30,000 living alumni alone.

"Why are all these people interested in fraternities?" he asked, referring to the alumni.

Answering his own question, Pollock replied it was because they see something in fraternities. "They are trying to live up to those ideals which you find in your own aims and purposes," he said.

"These are all high ideals and essentially the same," Pollock continued.

"These people are living up to these ideals through selfless service," Pollock said.

Posing another question to the pledges, Pollock asked if they will be able to say this 10, 15, or 20 years from now.

"If you can," he said, "you are doing your job. If not I feel sorry for you."

Pollock congratulated those present on being chosen as outstanding pledges.

He called the pledge the "backbone of the fraternity," saying it is the outstanding pledge who leads the fraternity on.

"Were you a wise choice," he asked, replying that "we'll see in two or three years."

Sandford Lichtenstein, banquet co-chairman, was master of ceremonies for the banquet. Entertainment was provided by ventriloquist Philip Wein. John Carpenter, Interfraternity Council president, was also introduced.
