

Panofsky To Present 1st Lecture

Dr. Erwin Panofsky of Princeton University will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday in 121 Sparks, opening the Centennial Year Lecture series.

Dr. Panofsky, an eminent art scholar, will talk on "Texts and Pictures: Traffic Accidents on the Roads of Tradition."

Before coming to America in 1934, Dr. Panofsky was a professor of art in several German universities. In 1935 he became a professor at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University, where he has taught since that time.

In 1938 Panofsky was a contributor to a symposium on "The Meaning of the Humanities." His paper was entitled "The History of Art as a Humanistic Discipline."

He has published many other works and has lectured at Northwestern and New York Universities.

Dr. Panofsky will be accompanied to State College by Mrs. Panofsky. They are the parents of Dr. Hans A. Panofsky, acting head of the department of meteorology.

The lecture, sponsored by the liberal arts lecture committee, is open to the public.

Last Chance —

(Continued from page one) noon and in the evenings. Posters with candidates pictures and qualifications have been distributed, some windows have been painted down town, flyers have appeared on dining room tables, and banners, which lasted a few days, have been flown across the mall.

Other than the jam session held by State party Sunday afternoon, little unusual campaigning has been done. Approximately 500 attended the jam session held in the Hetzel Union Building. Lion party attempted to hold a discussion period with the three candidates for All-University president to allow students to meet the candidates and ask them questions. When this failed to work out no plans were made to stage a similar meeting.

Campaigning stunts in previous years have included more extensive use of the store windows and displays of banners in the State College Hotel. Candidates' names were heard up and down the campus from the loud speaker car, and tags and sandwich boards promoting candidates were worn by students.

Jazz Club to Meet

The Penn State Jazz Club will meet at 7 tonight in the assembly room of the Hetzel Union Building.

Plans for a concert by Louis Armstrong and his All Stars will be discussed.

New members may attend.
