

Home Ec Cafeteria Menus Fill the Bill

By LARRY JACOBSON

If there is one favorite statement of parents these days, it's "What is this younger generation coming to?" Parents seem to feel that the country will go to the dogs when the college generation takes over the reins, but if the Home Economics cafeteria is any example of youth's initiative, ability, and will to work, then it is doubtful that this country will suffer with the same generation at the helm.

11 Arrested For Auto Violations

Eight students were arrested by State College police for committing auto violations during February. Three students were also arrested by State Police for auto violations in Centre County between March 1 and 16.

Students arrested by State College police are:

Speeding: Sanford Lichtenstein, sixth semester education major; Stanley Roseberry, sixth semester business administration major; William Eggers, eighth semester business administration major.

Failure to stop at stop sign: John Chemsak, graduate student in agriculture; Roseberry; John List, fifth semester business administration major; George Burwell, third semester education major.

No inspection: Stanley Faller, sixth semester archology major.

Drunken driving: Robert Eisenhuth, sixth semester pre-medical major.

Students arrested by State Police are: Speeding: Fred Waring, second semester hotel administration major.

No current operator's license: Robert Eames, eighth semester business administration major.

Failure to stop at stop sign: Lewis Hartswick, third semester physics major, and Waring.

The photographic darkroom in the Hetzel Union Building will be ready for use shortly after Easter vacation, according to George L. Donovan, director of Associated Student Activities.

The equipment has been ordered, but has not arrived as yet he reported. He added that much of the equipment is very expensive and valuable.

Donovan said there is a possibility that only members of the Penn State Camera Club will have access to the darkroom so that the materials may be used properly and without damage. The Camera Club is open to both students and faculty.

Names of the members will be registered at the HUB desk and persons wishing to use the darkroom may get the key there, according to Donovan's plan.

Robert S. Beese, assistant in photography in the College of Agriculture, helped select the materials and equipment for the darkroom.

Donovan also reported books in the reading room will be ready immediately after Easter vacation. All that is needed at present is the labels for the books.

The books include fiction, non-fiction, biographies, art reviews, sports reviews, and many other types. Ralph W. McComb, archivist for the library helped to select the books for the collection.

Donovan Will Attend National Convention

George L. Donovan, manager of associated student activities and the Hetzel Union Building, will attend a conference of the National Association of College Unions in White Sulphur Springs, Va., today through Thursday.

Donovan is regional director for region three of the association, and is on the executive board of the association.

Campus Sweep—Plans Made To Remodel Ag Buildings

(Continued from page one) until the discrepancy was reviewed by the present Athletic Association. Only men are allowed to vote for Athletic Association officers.

All three of the new All-University officers receive seats on All-University Cabinet as do the president of the senior and junior classes. The new officers will take their seats at the next Cabinet meeting, April 14.

Seely Expresses Appreciation
Seely, new All-University president, expressed his appreciation "to the members of the student body and the members of the Campus Party who made possible my election to the office."

Seely continued: "As All-University president I will strive to maintain the high principles of this University as the official representatives of the student body have done in the past."

"It is indeed an honor and a privilege to be elected to this office and I will strive to continue the improvement of student government at the University."

Lutter Offers Congratulations
Lutter offered his "sincerest congratulations to all the candidates who were elected and now have the responsibility to carry out those promises that they made during the past election."

Leasure offered his congratulations to Seely and the other winners and also "aid and cooperation in any matter in which I may be of some assistance. I would like to urge the students, regardless of pre-election preferences, to support to the hilt their new student government representatives in order that their aims and duties may be carried out to the mutual benefit of the student body."

Party Is Grateful
"The party as whole, and myself in particular, is grateful to both parties for the carrying out of their respective campaigns on a respectable and ethical level." Sturdevant expressed his appreciation of the "student's confidence" and said he will "perform the duties of the office to the best of my ability."

Belt and Horn both wished Sturdevant success and thanked the students who voted for them for their support.

Beard Thanks Students
Beard thanked students for "putting their trust in me" and expressed the hope that he would "live up to their expectations in the conduct of my office." Seng extended his "sincere thanks to all of you who supported me" and Bond expressed the hope that students would support Beard and the other officers so that "student government will rise to its righteous position."

The victorious Campus party clique chairman John McMeekin said:

Thanks Organizations

"I want to thank all the party organizations for the work that they have done in the elections. Naturally I am very happy with the results of the election, but I am also very disappointed in the number of persons voting."

"We hope this coming year will bring students closer to their government."

Robert Spadaro, Lion party clique chairman, stated:

'Campus Party Has Ability'

"Students have made their choice. I'm sure that Campus party has the ability to fulfill this choice."

"I can do nothing but admire the determination of all the candidates. I hope that both the winning and losing candidates will work together for the University."

Rae DelleDonne, State party clique chairman, left the vote-counting center immediately following the tabulation of the ballots and could not be reached for comment last night.

Hostess' Son Stationed on Sub

Lt. Comm. Kenneth C. Gummerson, son of Mrs. Gladys P. Gummerson, head hostess in Thompson Hall, is captain of the $20 million U.S.S. Albacore, the world's fastest submarine. The April 1 issue of Colliers Magazine has a story on the new submarine.

Before Lt. Comm. Gummerson became affiliated with the Albacore, he commanded the submarine Cobia, and during World War II served aboard destroyers in the Pacific.

Due to security reasons, the speed of the Albacore cannot yet be revealed.

Miss Penn State

Organizations entering the Spring Week Miss Penn State contest should turn their applications into the Hetzel Union desk as soon as possible, according to Herbert Black, coronation co-chairman.

Groups which wish to enter and have not received applications may get them from Black at Sigma Pi.

Class Prepares Lunch

The lunch meal, served in both the cafeteria section of the dining room and the Maple Room, is run by a class in quantity cookery. Lunch is served from 11:50 a.m. at 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, on a help-yourself basis. The menu offers a choice of two meats, three vegetables, three salads, three desserts, bread, and a beverage.

Dinner, served from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., is managed by a class in tea room management. On Monday, dinner is served in the cafeteria, and Tuesday through Friday in the Maple Room.

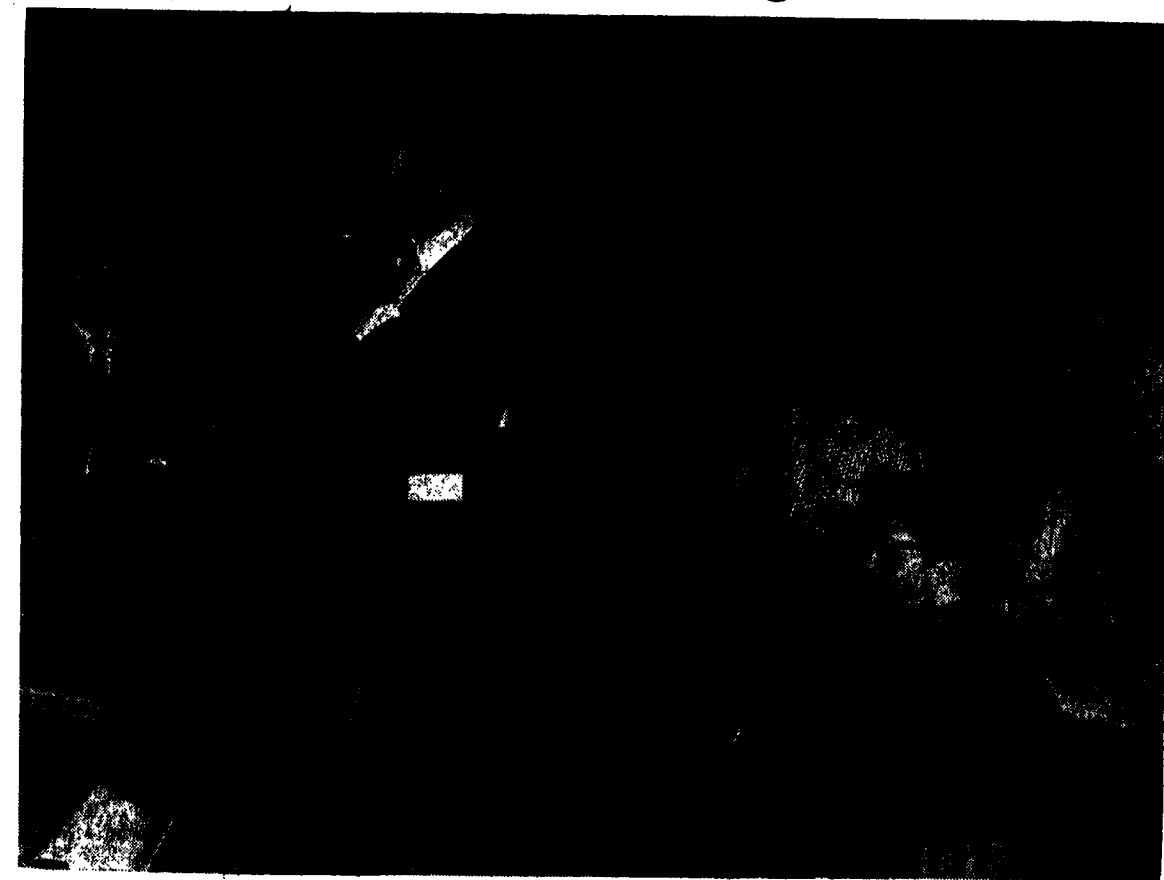

Varied Dinner Menu

The dinner menu is more varied than the menu for lunch. Steak, fried chicken, and pork chops, are among meats served. Three choices are provided for the main course, including three vegetables (patrons can have two), salad, and dessert. Bread and a beverage are included with every meal.

As with lunch, prices for the dinner meal are designed for student pocketbooks. The price of the main course rarely exceeds $1.30, a la carte; a plate meal, including entree, two vegetables, bread, dessert, and beverage, is 15 cents less.

According to Miss McDougall, the dining hall ordinarily serves about 150 people for lunch and 60 people for dinner. When asked if the new eating facilities in the Hetzel Union Building have affected the dining hall, she replied that it is too early to tell.

Charge and Countercharge

ROBERT SPADARO, Lion party clique chairman, presents his defense before the All-University Elections Committee last night. Spadaro was charged with not getting his platform in writing to the Elections Committee on time to meet the committee's deadline. The party

Three of the older agricultural buildings—Patterson Hall, Weaver Hall, and Agriculture building—may be remodeled, according to Walter Wiegand, director of the physical plant.

Although the project has not been acted upon as yet, Wiegand reported that a request has been made to the General State Authority for funds to remodel the buildings. The improvements will cost an estimated $265,000.

The GSA is a state borrowing agency.

Wiegand said the project will include a complete remodeling of the interiors of the buildings. He said additional firetowers would be added, classrooms and offices would be remodeled, and a good deal of the interior structure of the three buildings would be revamped.

Wiegand said when the buildings are completed, they will conform to all modern standards of the Commonwealth's Department of Labor and Industry. He declined to name present shortcomings of the buildings, but said they pass all State laws "or they wouldn't be here."

He said the buildings are inspected regularly by the physical plant. The State makes no regular inspection.

Commenting particularly on Agriculture building, Wiegand said the building was old and naturally not one of the best buildings on campus. He said the conditions of Weaver Hall and Patterson Hall were approximately the same.

All three buildings were constructed about 1905.

Cabinet —

(Continued from page three) scholarships, rather than as salary or compensation. A student, outstanding in his field, has as much right to be given a scholarship as an athlete does.

It was pointed out that the new Cabinet members, who will meet April 14, may raise issue again.

New Committee Passed
Cabinet also approved the proposal to set up a Joint Student Committee on Town Affairs, which will be a liaison between town students and State College. Ray Rubner, of Town Independent Men, explained the reasons for need for such a joint committee, in the absence of Robert Dennis, who was to have presented the report for TIM.

Rubner said men living downtown are not united, and therefore have no body except Cabinet to which to go with their specific problems. He said a committee could help in relations of town students with the borough.

Three Big Problems
Rubner said the main problems at present are housing conditions, landlords, and equality in parking fine distribution between town residents and students. Rubner cited an example where a town student was given four parking tickets, while none were given to town residents for parking in the same area.

Cabinet passed the proposal for the committee unanimously.

The joint committee will be composed of one member each from AIM, TIM, Interfraternity Council, WSGA, and Cabinet, with an adviser from the dean of men's office.

The joint-committee will not be a legislative body, but will be able to make recommendation to student bodies of which it is composed.

Cabinet tabled a proposal which would have recommended that student-faculty boards be set up in each College to consider student appeals on educational procedures.

In the absence of Dennis, Cabinet members tabled the motion until more definite information could be had. The major question was whether the boards would be used to hear student complaints on grades, or on the subject matter and procedures used in class rooms.
