

Aull Attends Alumni Fund Meetings

C. E. Aull, 85, who was captain of the 1891 football team was among the 1700 class agents who attended the University Centennial Alumni Fund meetings which were held in nine cities during the past two weeks.

Aull, who played on the 1889, 1890, and 1891 football teams at the University, expressed his disappointment that President Milton S. Eisenhower was not on hand to speak at the meeting which was held in Cleveland, Ohio. However, Aull said he would like to meet President Eisenhower when he comes to the campus in June during alumni reunion weekend.

President Eisenhower addressed the opening campaign on the campus and spoke at meetings in New York, Philadelphia, and Harrisburg but was forced to leave the party in Washington because of a virus infection.

Lary Dennis, administrative assistant to the President, replaced President Eisenhower as speaker at the meetings in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Erie, and Buffalo.

Also accompanying Eisenhower and Dennis were Ridge Riley, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, Bernard T. Taylor, executive director of the Penn State Foundation, and Robert E. Beam, assistant to Taylor.

Taylor said the attendance of 1700 of 4200 class agents "could well represent a new record for alumni fund drives of this kind."

The Centennial Alumni Fund goal has been set at $250,000.

The curriculum is not intended to provide professional status for its graduates as conservationists, according to the report, and therefore, will not preclude the establishment of other curriculums dealing with more specific and technical phases of conservation.

Dr. Russell B. Dickerson, associate dean and director of resident instruction for the College of Agriculture, will be in charge of the conservation curriculum.

Changes also were made in several curriculums within the Business Administration, Chemistry and Physics, Education, Engineering and Architecture, and Liberal Arts colleges.

Appeals--

Dennis said if the recommendation would be carried out within the colleges, it would present the students with an opportunity to call attention to abuses or undesirable practices within the educational system. He said he believed this would improve educational methods at the University.

New Cabinet members were installed at last night's meeting. Ross Clark, chairman of the student Tribunal, presided at the installation.

Earl Seeley, All-University president; Robert Sturdevant, All-University vice president; Philip Beard, All-University secretary-treasurer; Robert McMillan, senior class president; and Robert Bahrenburg, junior class president, received the oath of office.

'C' Average--

The adopted report also provides that students must pass a prerequisite course before being permitted to schedule a dependent course.

The former rule allowed students to continue in a dependent course after receiving a -1 grade in the prerequisite if a passing grade was maintained and the head of the department offering the courses gave his consent.

Another regulation adopted by Senate provides that students remaining on academic probation for three successive semesters without attaining a 1.65 All-University average shall be dismissed from the University for unsatisfactory scholarship. A 2-0 average is equivalent to a C under the grading system which goes into effect in September.

In other action, the Senate adopted a report which will set up a basic college which will serve primarily as a counseling division for students.

A report which will require applicants to the University not in the upper two-fifths of their high school class to pass College Board examinations was also adopted.

Inter-Varsity to Meet

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship will meet at 7:30 tonight in 405 Old Main.

The Rev. Murray Smoot, who is associated with young life work in Towson, Md., will be the speaker.

The god "Pan" was supposed to be responsible for human fears, hence our word, "panic."

pective students with the facilities and education offered by the college. Faculty and students will conduct tours planned around all curriculums. Explanations of jobs open to agriculture graduates will also be given.

Bus Ad Lectures
The program of the College of Business Administration will consist of lectures which will be given to acquaint prospective business students with fields of the college and job opportunities after graduation.

The lectures will be followed by an informal mixer with faculty and student council members in the Hetzel Union Building at which visitors may ask any questions. Students of the College of Business Administration also may attend the mixer.

Science Fair
The Science Fair, which consists of exhibits made by high school students, will be part of the program planned by the College of Chemistry and Physics. The college will offer displays, demonstrations, and guided tours of the undergraduates and research laboratories. Lectures on elementary physics and low temperature phenomena will be televised so visitors may see how TV operates in the classroom. Equipment used in chemical engineering, physical chemistry, physics, and other fields will be operating.

Nuclear Reactor Display
The department of architecture and the engineering departments of the College of Engineering and Architecture will present a series of displays involving the operation of laboratory facilities, lectures on current engineering developments, and guided tours of the facilities. As an added attraction, a large scale model of a nuclear reactor will be displayed.

The College of Mineral Industries, which will hold its program April 30, will conduct guided tours of the buildings as well as displays and demonstrations by the various departments within the college for the benefit of prospective students and other interested persons. Faculty members and undergraduates will be on hand to discuss curriculums with visitors.
