Deadline Is Extended For Matrix

Deadline for making reservations for the Matrix Table has been extended to 5 p.m. Sunday, Mary Lee Lauffer, Theta Sigma Phi president, has announced. Reservations may be made by presenting the card enclosed in the invitation at the Student Union desk in the HUB. Price of the ticket is $3.

The Matrix Table is an annual event to honor outstanding women on campus and is sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, women's national professional journalism fraternity. The banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Nittany Lion Inn. The banquet is formal.

Kathleen McLaughlin, United Nations correspondent for the New York Times, will be the guest speaker for the dinner. Miss McLaughlin has also served as overseas correspondent for the New York Times during World War II.

Three awards will be presented at the dinner to outstanding senior women. Cap Girl, chosen by members of Theta Sigma Phi, will be awarded to the senior with the most varied activities and who has been a member of hat society. Matrix Girl, also chosen by members of Theta Sigma Phi, will be awarded to the senior woman who has been active in campus activities but not a hat society member.

The Quill Girl award will be presented to one of six coeds for outstanding leadership. Those eligible for the award are the presidents of Women's Student Government Association, Women's Recreation Association, Mortar Board, Leonides, Scrolls, and Panhellenic Council.

Soph Women May Sign Up For 'Sisters'

Sophomore women interested in acting as big sisters for next year's town freshman women may sign up, beginning tomorrow, in the dean of women's office, 105 Old Main.

Women's Student Government Association Senate is sponsoring the new plan to have 20 to 40 women on campus act as big sisters to the town freshman women. The purpose of the program is to provide general counselors for the town students and to aid them with personal problems in adjusting to campus life.

Upperclass women will devote an average of two hours a week to their own sister and will be available for advice if needed. The program will begin when the upperclass women return to campus in the fall.

Several town upperclass women will also be available for specific problems of town students that may arise.

Jane Patton, town senator to WSGA Senate, will contact women who sign up for the program and explain the plan in detail. Miss Patton explained that the overall plan will be to make the town freshman women feel more a part of campus life.

Spotlighting Alpha Omicron Pi

By JUDY HARKISON

The University chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi was established April 6, 1929 as Epsilon Alpha, in honor of the local founder, Mrs. Edith Anderson of State College. On January 2, 1897, the sorority was originally founded at Barnard College, New York City.

There are 58 chapters in the United States with approximately 24,000 members. On the local scene, there are 49 members. The suite is located in 41 McElwain.

The national philanthropy of Alpha Omicron Pi is the Frontier Nursing Service in Kentucky. Recently a bake sale was held in order to raise funds for clothing, toys, and packages for the Service.

At Christmas time, the sorority also sponsored a party with Theta Delta Chi for underprivileged children.

Every year the sorority presents several awards to the members. A pledge, sophomore, junior, and senior are cited with "outstanding" awards. A cup is given for activities and a pin for scholarship. The senior with the highest scholastic average is awarded a silver platter.

The University chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi has received the JWH cup, national recognition for service to campus, community, and school. The cup is presented every two years to the chapter which has proved most outstanding in this work. In campus activities, the sorority won the Mardi Gras cup last year.

The sorority symbols are the cardinal color, ruby stone, and jangueminot rose flower.

Sorority officers are Patricia McLaughlin, president; Ann Greene, vice president; Merion Lafferty, corresponding secretary; and Joan Flebotte, recording secretary.

Puppets to Be Part Of HEc Weekend

One of the many demonstrations during the Home Economics Spring Weekend Friday and Saturday will be a puppet show, written and produced by students in Child and Family Relations 481.

"Child Rearing Then and Now" will be the title of the show, which will show changes in family and school situations through the past 100 years.

The show is designed to show teachers and other interested persons how puppets can be used and made quickly in the classroom and to show teachers and parents some changes in child rearing practices.

Approximately 14 students will take part in producing the show, which will be given at 10 a.m., 1 p.m., 3 p.m., and 8:30 p.m. Friday, and at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Nursery School in the Home Economics Building. Jane A. Bovie, associate professor of child development and family relations, will be in charge.

Puppets Made by Students
The puppets used in the show were made by the students. They range from the very simple kind, made of tongue blades with ping pong balls for heads, to more elaborate dolls with paper mache heads.

The show will present family characters and a school scene with teacher and students. Narration and conversation between the puppets will portray the changes in child rearing and typical situations that arise.

The show will be open to the public, and is designed to appeal to both children and older persons.

Weekend to Begin Friday

The Home Economics Spring Weekend activities will begin at 9 a.m. Friday. Demonstrations and exhibits will be open to the public in the Home Economics Building until 10 p.m. Friday, and will again be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels, anthropologist and professor of education at New York University, will give the main address of the weekend at 4 p.m. Friday in Schwab Auditorium. She will speak on "The American Family in a Changing World." Exhibits and demonstrations will be closed during this talk.

Tickets for Aquacade

Tickets for the Women's Recreation Association water show, "Aqua-Art in Water Color," to be held at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in White Hall will be available today in the main office of White Hall.

Admission is free.
