

SDX Holds 22nd Gridiron Banquet

THREE SDX members cast ballots in a futile attempt to name the new post office Mount Nittany.

Student Government, Apathy, Campus Leaders Are Panned

By DON BARLETT

Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional national journalism fraternity, panned everything from the University's origin to present day student government and apathy, at its 22nd annual Gridiron Banquet last night at the Nittany Lion Inn.

In lampooning the recent name change controversy and the naming of the new campus post office, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower was depicted as overruling a popular referendum which had suggested the name Mount Nittany for the post office, and used the name he wanted, that of University Park.

Student Government Hit

In panning student government, Jesse Arnelle was pictured as an All-University President who was not recognized by cabinet members because of his many absences from Cabinet meetings due to his basketball trips.

The University's birthday party was panned when several inebriated students were depicted having a party while a larger portion of the student body attended the birthday party in the Hetzel Union Building.

Golf-Playing President

Even the golf-playing of President Dwight D. Eisenhower didn't escape lampooning. In a supposed letter which was read at the birthday party, President Eisenhower blasted the fact that the University was located in such an out of the way place, but he praised the 18 hole golf course, the Centre Hills Country Club, "the friendly squirrels that scamper to and fro on the campus," and the "delightful fisherman's paradise."

In a parody depicting the manner in which coeds were first admitted to the University, a petition was read to Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower signed by "124 students and 1400 faculty members" requesting that the University be made a co-educational institution. The petition read to the effect that "... Whereas in the spring at the Farmers' High School a young man's fancy has no place to turn to, and whereas, under the present situation party raids are all but impossible, be it resolved that..." coeds be admitted to the University.

James W. Dean, who was the rebuttal speaker for the banquet, began his retorts by first placing on himself two lieutenant's bars because in his words he has been accused of "military discipline" so many times.

Dean Pans Collegian

Dean Dean, in panning the Daily Collegian, requested a formal apology from the Collegian to the Centre Daily Times, that the news appearing in the Times does not come from the Collegian, as Collegian people have been claiming through the years.

Richard McDowell, president of SDX, announced that this was the first banquet that Dr. Eisenhower has missed since he came to the University. McDowell said that because of Dr. Eisenhower's recent illness he was unable to attend.

... for every formal affair

... always look your very best

... Stop at

Hur's

chorus in gee!

Cheers greet the man in an AFTER SIX Tux!

Symphony of styling—concerto in comfort! New high note in spot-resistance: "stain-shy finish!" Enjoy nocturnes more—go

After Six BY SHAWNEE

30 Students Promoted By CPA

Central Promotion Agency has promoted 30 students, Otto Hetzel, outgoing director, announced.

Sanford Lichtenstein, sixth semester education major, will replace Hetzel as director. Other senior boarders are William Clark, fourth semester business administration major, business manager; Alphonse Coune, sixth semester applied arts major, design director; Jerome Bogutz, fifth semester business administration major, production director; Benjamin Wiltner, sixth semester business administration major, and Milton Linal, sixth semester business administration major, co-distribution directors.

The five accounting executives on the senior board are Elizabeth Kraabel, sixth semester home economics major; Ann Lederman, sixth semester journalism major; Arthur Brenner, fifth semester business administration major; Herbert Rosenberg, sixth semester business administration major; and Robert Gasper, sixth semester journalism major.

Fourteen students promoted to junior board distribution staff are Joseph Perule, sixth semester business administration major, Douglas Henderson, fourth semester industrial engineering major, Harris Dollinger, fourth semester business administration major, John Tunell, sixth semester electrical engineering major, Israel Schwab, fourth semester business administration major, Harry Yaverbaum, fourth semester business administration major, Virginia Hance, fourth semester education major, and Jack Dimler, fourth semester education major.

Accounting executive staff members are Marjorie Schenck, fourth semester journalism major, design staff, Gladys Hilton, fourth semester applied arts major, Doris Hoyet, fourth semester applied arts major, Marjorie Boyd, fourth semester education major, Judith Grant, fourth semester applied arts major, and Annette Holtz, second semester education major. Promoted to sophomore board were William Davis, second semester architecture major, Carolyn Dimmick, second semester home economics major, Mary Ann Raup, second semester applied arts major, Mary Shower, second semester applied arts major, and Robert Banes, second semester pre-veterinary major.

2220 Students Get Free TB X-Rays

More than 2200 persons took advantage of the free chest x-rays that were given Monday, Tuesday, and yesterday by a mobile unit at the University.

Women students at the University served as secretaries for the unit during its three-day stay.

The unit was brought to the campus to take x-rays of students, faculty members, and University employees.

The unit was from the Bureau of Tuberculosis Control, Pennsylvania Department of Health.

Miss Penn State Pictures

Entrants in the Miss Penn State contest may pick up their pictures at the Hetzel Union desk, Carole Avery, coronation chairman, said.

THE PERFECT PIZZA

SALLY'S

WE DELIVER AD 7-2373

2250 Students Enter Mad Hatter's Parade

Forty-nine groups and approximately 2250 students have entered the Mad Hatter's parade, which will be at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday and noon Wednesday.

Approximately 30 finalists will be chosen in the elimination parade on Tuesday night, and nine winners will be selected in the final parade on Wednesday, according to Nancy Scofield, Mad Hatter's chairman.

The hats will be judged in the divisions of artistic, original, and comic, and three winners will be selected in each category Wednesday, Miss Scofield said.

Entrants Must Follow Theme

Entrants do not have to enter under one of the four categories for the parade and carnival as long as they adhere to the parade theme of "Walk Through 100 Years at Penn State," she explained.

Each of the groups who have entered contestants in the parade will receive cards with the name and registration number of each entrant. Each card must be handed to checkers stationed on the Mall during the parade in order to total group points.

Checkers May Reject

Registration checkers who will collect the cards will be empowered to reject any hat that does not show sufficient workmanship, whereupon the individual will receive no points for his group.

The first place winners in the three categories will each receive a total of 25 points. Second place winners will receive a total of 20 points, and third place winners will receive a 15 point total.

Each entrant in the preliminary contest on Tuesday will receive five points, and five additional points will be awarded to each finalist.

Points will be totaled by the members of the Mad Hatter's contest committee and allocated to the sponsoring groups as points toward the Spring Week trophy, Miss Scofield said.

Judges, who will be stationed in front of Waring Hall across from Alpha Zeta, include Mary Filer, assistant professor of art education; Agnes Doody, instructor of speech; Dean Smith, resident of Potters Mills; and G. S. Zoretich, instructor of fine arts.

The parade participants will assemble on the little mall in front of the Home Economics Building. They will proceed to College avenue, turn right and go up the mall to Pollock. There they will turn left and proceed as far as Burrowes road, where they will turn right and go up past the judges to Recreation Hall.

The He-Man Contest will be held in Rec Hall immediately after the parade.

Mercury Reaches 88

As Campus Swelters

The campus sweltered in temperatures which reached a high of 88 yesterday. The low was 59.

Today's weather forecast calls for showers in the early morning with cooler temperatures accompanying them. Clearer weather is scheduled for the afternoon, but temperatures will remain cool.

The low temperature for today will be about 55 and the high will be between 70 and 75.

Robert Matanick, seventh semester meteorology major, submitted today's weather data.

HORSE SHOW

May 7 and 8

Sat. and Sun.

at the show grounds

Penn State Riding Club

Mothers Arise!

Yes, arise comrade Mothers, (I'm safe McCarthy does not read the Collegian) for soon it will be your day. After slaving over hot daytime serials, struggling to keep body and girdle together, THIS IS your day! Whoopee, oh whoopee!

Since this is mother's day Simon's has the perfect suggestion; said suggestion being a gift of one or more of their new spring or summer bags.

There are: washable nylon drawstring pouches; decorated summer straws in natural, white, pink, blue, navy, red and black. These straws are from Haiti, Mexico, Japan and Hong Kong—quite a collection. Lastly, lustre calf pastels make a bid—in all colors to match the ever-popular lustre calf shoes.

Simon's

109 S. Allen St.

Jazz Club Meeting

Tonight

Featuring

JOHNNY HALE QUARTET

Election of Officers Will Take Place

405 Old Main 7 p.m.

Next Week — "Spring Week"