

Miss Pennsylvania To Aid in Selection Of Miss Penn State

Barbara Sue Nager, Miss Pennsylvania of 1955, and Sherwood Reeder, president of the Pennsylvania Economy League, Inc., and his wife will be here to judge the Miss Penn State contest at 8 p.m. Monday in Recreation Hall.

The coronation committee has not yet disclosed who will crown the queen.

The queen will be chosen from among five finalists—Gail Smith, Joan Hunter, Faith Gallagher, Barbara Patton, and Louise Justin—who were chosen by 15 townspeople from among 29 entrants Monday night.

Philadelphia Native

Miss Nager is a native of W. Philadelphia where she has lived all her life. She has worked as a professional model and studied at the Philadelphia School of Ballet.

In the Miss Pennsylvania and Miss America finals she did a ballet dance for the talent test. She placed fourth in the Miss America contest. She represented Greater Philadelphia in the state contest.

With the scholarship she received she plans to go to an art school to study fashion design.

Reeder, a resident of Camp Hill, graduated from the University in 1927 with a B.S. degree in commerce and finance. He got his M.S. degree in public administration from Syracuse University in 1928.

At college he was president of the senior class, president of the student board, editor of Froth, business manager of LaVie and the student handbook, class valedictorian, and a member of Phi Kappa Psi, social fraternity; Phi Delta Phi, scholastic honor society; Lion's Paw, senior men's honor society; and Skull and Bones, senior men's hat society.

The Pennsylvania Economy League, Inc., is a privately financed governmental research organization.

Mrs. Reeder is also a graduate of the University and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Forum Fee Asked; Traffic Action Set

Several Students Fail to Appear

By TED SERRILL

Dean of Men Frank J. Simes announced last night before All-University Cabinet that disciplinary action will be taken to force about 100 students to report to Traffic Court.

In doing so, Simes recommended postponement of discussion on his previous request to Cabinet that specific action be taken regarding the delinquent violators. As long as a threat of disciplinary action confronts the students, Simes said, Cabinet need take no action until it is seen what the students' reaction is.

Also figuring in Cabinet discussions was a request to send observers to the National Student Association regional convention this weekend and a motion to allow two-year students at University Centers to buy class rings. Fourteen students were appointed to committees.

100 Fail to Appear

Last Thursday Simes told Cabinet that despite notices to students to appear at Traffic Court, about 100 have failed to do so.

Cabinet defeated a motion to send several students as observers to the National Student Association regional convention at St. Vincent College, Latrobe, this weekend. The request was made by Philip Beard, All-University secretary-treasurer.

The motion was opposed by Myron Feinsilber, chairman of the Board of Publications, and Samuel Wolcott, sophomore class president, because they felt the University is larger than most of the colleges in the association. There would be no point in sending observers there, they argued, because colleges as large as the University rarely gain anything from NSA regional participation.

Ask Observers to National

Rather than send anyone to a regional convention, they said, it would be better to send observers to the National convention this summer, Robert Smoot, eighth semester chemical engineering major, told Cabinet that even if the University sent anyone to the national convention, it wouldn't be as observers, since the University is technically still a member of NSA because dues have been paid through the fall.

The motion was almost unanimously opposed.

A second motion was passed by Cabinet last night. It granted a modified type of class ring to 200 graduating, two-year students at

Group Suggests 50-Cent Charge

By RON LEIK

The committee appointed by All-University Cabinet to try to revive the defunct Community Forum recommended last night that students be assessed 50 cents a semester to support a new "Forum." The report was tabled until next week to let representatives discuss the proposal with their groups. Cabinet also heard a financial report on the Birthday Ball, sophomore class dance, which was held April 23. Samuel Wolcott, sophomore class president, said that the dance expenses ran to $248, well under the $400 budget.

Diehl McKalip, retiring chairman of the Board of Publications, submitted the Community Forum Committee report. He said if each student were charged 50 cents a semester, the organization would have approximately $12,000 a year to work with. McKalip read the report for Kirk Garber, chairman of the committee.

Forum 'Financially Impossible' As the Forum was set up in the past, McKalip said it has proved "financially impossible" to continue its operations.

"And convinced," he continued, "that Penn State students should have access to a varied cultural program of speakers, musicians, and other entertainers, he it resolved that Cabinet set up a new organization to implement the program."

The new organization would be called the Penn State Series, the committee suggested.

Suggests 'Performers with Class' McKalip said the committee had in mind obtaining "performers with class but also with culture" to create an interest in the proposed Series.

The question was raised of whether the committee expects to accommodate an audience of 12,000 persons, since every student would be entitled to attend each performance.

McKalip said that all students also may attend the sporting events held at the University, but

Penny Voting Closes Today For 'Ugliest'

Voting is going slow, as the contest for Ugly Man enters its last day, John Brunner, contest chairman, said yesterday.

Richard Gordon, sponsored by Phi Sigma Delta and Alpha Tau Omega, is leading with $34.50. Frederick and Lawrence Cohen, sponsored by Alpha Sigma Pi and Sigma Delta Tau, is second with $31.25.

Other uglies in the lead are Francis Rice, Lambda Chi Alpha, with $22.43; Allan Cetron, Sigma Alpha Mu, with $21.48; Lamont Smith, Phi Mu and Theta Chi, with $21.09; Robert Kitchel, Pi Kappa Phi and Atherton Hall, with $17.68; and William Banfield, Sigma Pi, with $16.28.

Campaigning is still going strong, as cars zoom up Pollock road with banners waving and horns blaring. A crowd gathered at Holmes Field yesterday to watch Robert Kitchel, Pi Kappa Phi, hurled from an airplane. At the last minute Kitchel couldn't make it, so a dummy replaced him. Pledges and brothers rushed on the field as the dummy landed and carried the lifeless body off in a mock funeral procession.

The voting booth will close at 5 p.m. today, Brunner said. After that there is to be no campaigning. Four faculty members will select the winner from the seven

Sovereignty Secured By West Germany

BONN, Germany, May 5 (AP)—The West German Republic won sovereignty today and immediately pledged it will "never rest" until it gains freedom for the 18 million Germans in the Soviet Zone.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government stressed that the jubilation of its 50 million citizens at the ending of the 10-year Western occupation is clouded by what he called the slavery of East Germany.

American, British, and French renunciation of supreme authority over the Bonn Republic at noon was the crowning achievement of the 79-year-old Chancellor's career.

But opposition Socialist resentment was so bitter over Adenauer having tied up West Germany in the NATO alliance that he did not personally announce the grant of sovereignty in Parliament.

Warned that the Socialist deputies would walk out if he appeared, Adenauer forwarded a brief statement that Bundstag President Eugen Gerstenmaier read this afternoon.

Only a dozen of the 151 Socialist deputies were in the chamber. They sat grimly with folded arms while government supporters applauded Gerstenmaier.

Socialist Erich Ollenhauer, who claims that rearmament will destroy chances of negotiating with Moscow for Germany's reunification, declared:

"The end of the occupation is no cause for rejoicing. We shall only be sovereign when Germany is again united in freedom. This is the most urgent task of the entire German people."

Adenauer's government proclaimed:

"There is for use in the world only one place: on the side of the free peoples."

"Our aim is: In a free and united Germany."

To Germans in the Communist-ruled East, it declared: "You belong to us. We belong to you. The joy of our restored freedom is clouded so long as this freedom remains denied to you."

Across the Iron Curtain, the East German government news agency ADN declared that actually "only the name but not the nature of the foreign occupation of West Germany is changed."

Auker Asks GSA Construction Halt

The state legislature has been asked to halt all building of the General State Authority for five years in a suggestion offered by Representative Charles A. Auker (R-Blair County) the Associated Press reported yesterday.

The GSA, a borrowing agency of the state, finances some of the educational construction at the University, and Auker's proposal apparently would prevent future construction of any classroom facilities. University officials declined to comment.

Auker called his move an economy measure and said he knew the moratorium "will be very unpopular in some circles because it would eliminate a lot of spending."

The proposal would prevent the GSA from undertaking new projects until after January 1, 1960. Judging from past experience, if such a move were made, the construction program at the University might be severely curtailed.

So far this year the GSA has approved for the University the addition of a wing to the student health center, at a cost of approximately $800,000. It has recently approved the construction of a new classroom building, but has yet to let the contract.

In 1950, approximately $10 million was allotted the University through GSA for construction of new buildings and additional units to others. Some of the buildings which were expanded that year are Main Engineering, Buck-out Laboratory, Mechanical Engineering, Pond Laboratory, and Whitmore Laboratory.

It was also in 1950 that construction was started on the south unit of Recreation Hall, the Pattee Library wing, and the Agricultural laboratories and greenhouses.

The GSA, in 1938, approved approximately $5 million for the University. Pattee Library was expanded that year also. Other buildings which received additional units were Sparks, Burrows, Electrical Engineering, Osmond Laboratory, Fear Laboratory, Mineral Industries, Forestry, and Agricultural Engineering.
