

Trackmen's Local Opener Is Tomorrow

By ROY WILLIAMS

A nip-and-tuck battle is expected between Penn State's thinclads this weekend and Michigan's outdoor track entry when the Wolverines and Navy—the latter has already participated against the Lions move into Beaver Field for the Lions' home-opener and their second triangular meet of the 1955 season.

Michigan and Penn State are favorites to hold the bulk of the all-round strength with Navy moving in with its heavy guns set on the javelin and pole vault.

Middie Track Team to Host Lion Frosh

Freshman track coach Norm Gordon yesterday named the 16-man squad which will journey to Annapolis to meet the Navy plebes Saturday in the frosh 1955 opener. Gordon plans to enter 14 men in the nine track events and eight in the six field events. Distance runner Gus Ormrod, hurdler Ogier Norris, and sprinter Dean Rossi will share the bulk of the assignments in the track competition while weight men John Tullar, Edwin Henrie, and Gene Hanlon will do most of the work in the field events. Norris will also participate in three field events.

Coach Gordon refused to make any predictions concerning Saturday's meet. He did, however, stress the fact that these men do not represent his regular squad for the coming campaign. "These are the men who have showed the most potential in past workouts and time trials. Anyone may break into the line-up at any time if he proves himself in future practices," Gordon said.

Navy is expected to provide the frosh thinclads with stiff opposition. In Navy's opener against Penn, the Plebes recorded these following marks: pole vault, 12.6; high jump, 5.10; javelin, 184-9; 120 high hurdles, 16.6; and shotput, 41-7. Navy won the meet, 83 1/2-47 1/2.

Gordon expressed surprise at the remarkable progress the team has made since opening practice. "They have worked hard and have come a long way," the frosh coach said.

Netmen Will Host Hoyas on Saturday

By ROG BEIDLER

The Lion tennis squad will be out to raise its season record to the 500 mark Saturday when it hosts the Georgetown University netters in its sixth match of the campaign.

Sherm Fogg's netters, after dropping their first three matches, have come along to cop wins in the last two outings and to show promise of another good season.

The Georgetown Hoyas will have plenty of experience under their belts when they meet the Nittany netmen. The men from Washington have split even in ten outings; losing to Maryland, George Washington, Penn, Navy, and Princeton. They have gained decisions over Rutgers, Bucknell, Washington and Lee, Delaware, and Gettysburg.

Top Three Strong

The Hoyas are led by their top three men who have carried most of the load for the Georgetown team this year. Herb Von Urff will play in the number one position for the fourth straight year. The six foot southpaw has won 22 of 27 singles matches since his sophomore year and is rated among the top ten college players in the East.

Behind Von Urff, in the second spot, will be Tony Valenti, a junior who held down the same position last year. Although at times erratic, Valenti has plenty of experience, shown when he won the Eastern Interscholastic Tennis title in 1951. In the third slot, much improved since last year when he played one berth lower, is Alan McNabb. He is tireless, retrieves every shot, and has won many matches on his steadiness alone.

The lower three positions in the Georgetown lineup, which has been the weak point of the team this year, will be a choice among five netters. Hoya coach Bill Barnes will select from Bob Jordan, John Toolan, Tom Brett, Jim Glynn, and Bo McDermott.

Coach Fogg plans to send the same lineup against Georgetown that eked out a 5-4 win over the Lehigh net squad in the Lion's last match. The Foggmen went into the final doubles match with the score tied four-up when Al Williams and Joe Eberly pulled a "Merriwell" finish. After dropping the first set 6-8, the Lion duo rallied to drop their opponents 6-0, 6-2.

Bill Ziegler will try to get back on the winning track Saturday when he starts in the top position. Ziegler was defeated in his last outing at Lehigh and appears to have his work cut out for him against the Hoyas' Von Urff. Ed Seiling, rejuvenated after garnering his first win Monday, will shoot for his second as he will go in the number two spot.

Chris Christiansen, the Nittanies top win-getter, is slated to appear in the third position. Christiansen has three victories against two setbacks. Dean Mullen, who also racked up his first win at Lehigh, is set for the fourth slot and Doug Zuker will go in the fifth position. Zuker also has three wins to his credit. Larry Adler will be after his third win as he will round out the Lion lineup in the sixth spot.

Doubles play will pair Ziegler and Seiling, Christiansen and Mullen, and Williams and Eberly in that order.
