

Dairy Show Set for Today

The climax of several weeks of work by approximately 45 students on Ag Hill will begin at 12:30 this afternoon in the Ag Hill pavilion when the 30th Dairy Exposition gets under way.

Presiding over the show will be Sally Jo Walter, fourth semester home economics major, who was chosen queen of the show over two other finalists, Diane Hallock, sixth semester journalism major, and Jane Colclesser, fourth semester home economics major. Miss Walter's duties will include presenting ribbons and awards this afternoon and presiding over the banquet tonight.

Dairy Show Judges Pick 14 Winners

The banquet will be given by the Dairy Science Club at 6:30 tonight in the Lutheran Student center.

Among the honored guests at the exposition will be Secretary of Agriculture, Dr. William L. Henning, former head of the animal husbandry department, and his deputy, Leland H. Bull.

The first event of the day will be the judging of the showmanship and fitting of Ayrshires. Robert Eno, two year agriculture major, is the breed manager in this division.

Following the crowning of Miss Walter at 12:50 will be the competition in the Brown Swiss and the Holsteins divisions at 1:10. Alan Greiss, eighth semester dairy science major, is in charge of the first group and Jacob Guffey, eighth semester dairy science major, is in charge of the second.

At 1:55 the "battle of the squirts" will begin. This is a milking contest between experienced and non-experienced coeds. Women can register for this until the contest begins.

Jersey Judging
Judging of the Jerseys will begin at 2:25 with Ronald Harrod, eighth semester dairy science major, in charge. At 2:45 the Guernseys will be judged. Harry Douth, eighth semester dairy science major, is in charge.

Judges for the show are Cuthbert Nairn, Douglassville, and Donald Seipt, Easton.

The final events of the show will be the picking of the grand champion fitter and the grand champion showman at 3:45 and 4:05. The winners in each of the divisions compete for this award. This year's show manager is Levis Phipps, eighth semester dairy science major.

PS Club, TIM Veto Merger

Penn State Club decided to remain an independent organization rather than consolidate with Town Independent Men.

Both organizations, discussing the problem Tuesday night, agreed that neither would profit by a merger. Howard Sherman, former Penn State Club president, said the plan was considered because of declining interest in the club by independent men.

A joint committee of the two organizations is trying to find suitable space downtown for weekend social activities for independent men.

TIM also held nominations for next year's officers. Those nominated were: Robert Cole, president; Lenin Findley, vice president; Jim Rhodes, secretary. Elections will be held next Tuesday, and nominations will be open at that time.

Pollock Council discussed the possibility of starting a blue book file for the area, and made preliminary nominations for council officers Tuesday night.

Robert Waltmeyer, sixth semester chemical engineering major, was nominated for president; John Dennis, sixth semester chemical engineering major, vice president; Joseph Neville, fourth semester business administration major, secretary; David Cummings, fourth semester business administration major, treasurer; and Lee Watkins, second semester business administration major, representative-at-large.

Additional nominations will be accepted up until the time of elections.

The council appointed a committee to examine the possibilities of getting bluebooks for the proposed Pollock area file. The committee will publish a classified advertisement in an effort to get bluebooks.

Council president, Harry Martini, announced that the Pollock area will hold a Mother's Day open house, contrary to an earlier report.

The council discussed the student complaint that the dining halls were late in opening, but closed at exactly the specified hour, often turning away students who were a few minutes late.

The council will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in Nittany Dorm 20.

Dean Suspends One; Two Get Probation

The dean of men's office has suspended one student from the University for the summer and placed two others on office probation.

The action, based on recommendation from Tribunal, men's student disciplinary body, was ruled because of the students' "conduct detrimental to the University."

The first student, a second semester geology and mineralogy major, was suspended for the summer because he disrobed in public. About 11:20 p.m., April 19, in front of the Mineral Industries Building, he started to undress.

He told Tribunal members that he was coming up from town after having drunk about a quart of beer with two friends. When in front of Mineral Industries, he said he claimed to his friends that he could walk on his hands across Pollock road to Hamilton Hall, a distance of about 250 to 300 feet.

Needs More Freedom

In order to make full use of his "slight gymnastic prowess," he had to have as much freedom of movement as possible—so he began removing most of his clothes.

However, before he could begin the athletic feat, he was apprehended by James W. Dean, assistant to the dean of men, and Henry Bucher, Nittany-Pollock counselor coordinator.

The suspension means the student, after completing the semester, will not be allowed to return to the University for the summer. On returning at the beginning of the fall semester, he will be placed on disciplinary probation.

Caught by Police

The other two students were observed by police to be drinking beer on the street about 1:40 a.m. Sunday, April 17.

Both second semester students, business administration and arts and letters majors, claim that although they had drunk a quantity of beer, they were not intoxicated.

The suddenness with which police came upon them caused one of the students to drop his beer mug on the street, Tribunal heard.

The two were fined $2.50 and $11 costs on charges of disorderly conduct in front of Justice of the Peace Guy G. Mills.

Charges of office probation will temporarily be placed on the students' records.

Glee Club To Present Concert

Frank Gullo, associate professor of music, will direct the men's glee club and the varsity quartet in a Mother's Day weekend concert at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

The program will open with "Hail, Oh Hail to Pennsylvania State" by Ray T. Fortunato, supervisor of the employment division and coordinator of labor relations. Selections by the glee club will include "Russian Picnic" (Enders) with John Kelly, tenor, as soloist; "Climbin' up the Mountain" (arr. by Smith), "All in the April Evening" (Robertson), and "Rain and the River" (Fox).

The varsity quartet will present a selection of "barber shop" numbers, and the Hy-Los, a glee club comedy group, will sing "Johnny Schmoker" (Old German tune). Nan Gullo, harpist, and Roy Clark, pianist, will play "Introduction and Allegro" (Ravel).

The second group of glee club numbers will be "Great Day" (Youmans), "The Drum" (Gibson), "Ave Maria" (Schubert) with Wayne Zarr, baritone, as soloist; "Paul Revere's Ride and Concord Hymn" (Ringwald), and "The Jolly Roger" (Robertson).

A feature of this year's program will be a group of numbers entitled "Centennial Music, 1855-1955". The arrangements for this section were done by Dr. Hummel Fishburn, professor of music and music education, and Elmer C. (Continued on page eight)

Cabinet OK's Appointments Of 13 Students

All-University Cabinet approved the appointments of 13 students to committees at its meeting Thursday night.

Approved to the freshman customs board were co-chairmen Margaret Boyd, fourth semester education major, and Herbert Black, fourth semester business administration major.

Members approved are Carole Ruff, second semester business administration major; Katherine Dickson, second semester arts and letters major; Mary Lockwood, second semester home economics major; Harry Oxman, second semester business administration major; Edgar Palmer, second semester business administration major; and George Wills, second semester dairy science major.

Student Handbook appointees were Dorothy Stone, sixth semester home economics major, editor; John Gatehouse, fourth semester student, managing editor; and Inez Althouse, sixth semester journalism major, copy editor.

Robert Heck, fourth semester arts and letters major, was appointed Centennial Committee chairman, and John Riggs, sixth semester arts and letters major, Campus Chest chairman.

McKinley to Speak

Dr. David H. McKinley, assistant dean of the College of Business Administration, will address the Faculty Luncheon Club at noon Monday at the Hotel State College.

His subject will be "Heigh-Ho, Fidelity."

AIM Judicial Board Blanks Are Available

Applications for the Association of Independent Men's Judicial Board of Review are available at the Hetzel Union desk and in the dormitories from floor presidents.

Independents with 1.0 All-University averages or better are eligible for the judicial board. Applications are due Friday.

Selective Service Test Application Forms Due

Applications for the Selective Service College Qualification Test to be given May 19 must be postmarked before Monday, according to the dean of men's office.

Applications are available at the dean of men's office.

Laundry to Be Installed at Rec Hall

Part of the interior of Recreation Hall is being reconstructed to make room for a laundry. Charles Lamm, supervisor of building maintenance and operation, said yesterday.

The laundry will be in the former student drying room, Lamm said, who added that part of the equipment has already been installed. Plumbing work has yet to be done, he said.

The University now has its towels and sports clothing laundered by a commercial firm, but the new laundry will be equipped to eliminate sending the clothing out, he said.

Handball Courts
The handball courts in the north side of the building have been removed and the wrestling equipment will be moved to that space, Lamm said.

Storage space for bleachers, chairs, and the danceband platform has been made from the old locker room, he said.

Work on the interior of the Temporary Union Building has been temporarily halted, Lamm said, because of a general extension service convention.

Lounge Converted
Parts of the interior which have already been remodeled are the lounges, which were converted into large meeting rooms; the ping pong room, which was made into a meeting room; and the small game room, changed into a conference room.

Four chemistry tables are being installed in Whitmore Laboratory, Lamm said. Plumbing work on the one has been completed, he said, and the chemistry equipment has to be installed.

Paint Jobs
As spring comes on, Lamm said, painting will start on the buildings' exteriors. Agricultural Education, the power plant, and Atherton Hall will get a second coat of paint sometime during the spring or summer, he said, adding that a second coat also will be applied to the top surface of the Beaver Field bleachers during the summer.

Painting of the entire interior of Walker Laboratory was completed last week, Lamm said. Workmen also are reconstructing the freight elevator in Old Main for passenger use, he said.
