

Mat Co-Captains Named; Fornicola Receives Award

By ROY WILLIAMS

Bill Oberly and Joe Krufka were named co-captains for Penn State's 1955-56 wrestling team at the squads annual post-season banquet last night.

Larry Fornicola, who copped dual victories by winning both the 137-pound Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association title, and finally the 1955 National Collegiate Athletic Association crown, was named the outstanding wrestler of the year for Penn State.

Fornicola was presented the William N. Neidig award which is given each year to the Penn State wrestler who exhibits the ability, loyalty, and spirit and contributes most to wrestling at Penn State. The presentation to Fornicola was the sixth time the award has been made since 1950 when it was founded by Neidig's son in honor of his father.

When Fornicola and Oberly returned from Ithaca, New York, with national titles, it was the first time in the 46-year history of the sport that Penn State boasted two NCAA champs in a single year.

Fornicola and Oberly, plus Krufka who finished second, were the primary factors in the Lions vault from seventh place before the finals to a second-place position behind national champs Oklahoma A & M. The Aggies copped it with 40 points while the Lions earned a 31-point total.

In winning his title, Fornicola—the first 137-pound champ for Penn State—mowed down conference champs from the Pacific Coast, Big Ten, and Big Seven leagues.

Oberly's victory in the NCAA tourney was in the unlimited class although he wrestled in the heavyweight division during the regular season. Oberly whipped Bob Konovsky of Wisconsin 8-4 after a first-period standstill in the semi-final action. Werner Seel of Lehigh met Oberly in the finals and lost, 4-2. Seel had previously defeated Oberly in the early round of the EIGA tourney at Rec Hall to eliminate Oberly in the Eastern title battle.

Pitt copped the Eastern title for the second consecutive year when it placed three men in the finals who won titles. The Panthers edged the Lions by a one-point 51-50 margin for the East's crown.

Oberly and Fornicola each received leather-bound books hand inscribed and in water color which give a bout by bout account of their action in the NCAA tilt en route to winning their crowns. William S. Hoffman, retired dean of admissions and registrar, has given such a booklet to Lion wrestlers who have won national crowns.

Four-Year Veteran Paces Lion Golfers

By JOE CHEDDAR

The Penn State golf team has enjoyed a great deal of success in the past few seasons for a number of reasons—fine coaching and combined team effort among others. But a large measure of the team's success can be attributed to a single person—four-year veteran Warren Gittlen, captain and pacesetter of this year's team.

Gittlen began playing golf eight years ago at the Blue Ridge Country Club in Harrisburg where his father, also an avid golf fan, is a member. His interest aroused, he, with his father offering instructions, progressed rapidly. He first played organized golf while a senior in high school when his school started a team.

When Gittlen came to Penn State he reported immediately for the golf team. He made the varsity his first year and finished the season with a 2-2 record. During the summer of the same year he won the Harrisburg Junior championship.

In 1953, as a sophomore, Gittlen took his place as one of the team's standouts when he compiled a brilliant 8-1 record, the best on the team. This record assumes more importance when the calibre of his teammates is considered. Such Lion golf standouts as Rod Eakin and Gordie Stroup were members of that team.

Last year, as a junior, Gittlen once again put together the team's best record when he won seven of eight matches. He has been Blue Ridge club champion for two years running, and last year he was the Harrisburg district champion.

Gittlen's father is still his greatest fan. He seldom misses a match if he can help it, and plans to be present at New Haven Saturday when Gittlen tees off in the EIGA tournament.

Gittlen credits his training coaches, Bob Rutherford and Joe Boyle, with the moulding process that has made him a consistent winner. Rutherford and Boyle have applied the finishing touches to give him a better balanced game than he had when he first turned out for the team.

Although Gittlen's game shows a good deal of balance, he relies mostly on his woods and long irons to score most of his wins.

When he enters the Easterns Saturday he will be trying to capture one championship that has eluded him so far. A victory in this meet would be the perfect icing for the cake that has done so much for Penn State golf.
