Tri Delt, Delta Sig Lead 'Week' Points

Going into the final competitive event of Spring Week—the carnival—Delta Sigma Phi and Delta Delta Delta were leading with a total of 937 points.

The points thus far are the totals of the ugly man contest, parade, Miss Penn State and He-Man. Each entrant in the ugly man received 20 points, finalists 45 and first place winner

Pivot Sale Set For Tuesday

Pivot, the University poetry magazine, should be available to students Tuesday, according to Dr. Joseph L. Grucci, assistant professor of English composition and faculty advisor for the magazine.

A special Centennial issue with more pages and poems, and the added attraction of faculty poetry contributions, will be issued this year. Price will be 25 cents.

In the past students wrote all the items, but this year both faculty and students will be publishing poems. The magazine is organized by the English Composition 13 class. Members of the class will be selling the copies.

Gordon Sterner, eighth semester arts and letters major, is editor of the magazine this year.

Fish-fry Tickets

Tickets are now available at the Hetzel Union desk for the Association of Independent Men-Leonides-West Halls Council fish-fry to be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at Holme Field. Price is 50 cents.

4 Carnival Booths Warned Last Night

Four of the 37 booths which opened last night at the seventh annual Spring Week carnival were warned by Spring Week committee and All-University cabinet checkers, according to Joseph Barnett, carnival chairman.

The shows and the grounds were crowded throughout the evening, but no estimate on the number of students or the number of tickets sold was available.

Hat Society Chartered By Senate

Delphi, new sophomore men's hat society, officially received its charter after being passed by Senate yesterday. The society will be the tenth hat group on campus.

Nine new members were tapped at midnight yesterday in the dormitories by the society officers, and met as a group at 7:30 a.m. today at the Lion Shrine.

Tappees are William Kelly, Robert Steele, Arthur Schravensande, Robert Stroup, Edward Dubbs, Lawrence Jacobson, Frederick Keck, Richard Moon, and George Wills.

The members were selected as the outstanding men in four divisions of campus activities—publications, student government, athletics, and drama, music, and forensics. Selections were based on the point system and personal interviews, Robert Segal, Delphi president, said.

The tappees will wear signs containing the Delphi symbol, a flame atop a Greek column, for one week.

The charter members of the hat society are sponsoring a service project at the Spring Week carnival—selling programs of the week's activities. The charter members were last year's ten outstanding freshmen, selected by the sophomore class.

Cabinet Applications Due by Saturday

Students interested in serving on the All-University Election Committee, Foods Committee, and the Cabinet secretarial staff may apply until noon Saturday at the Hetzel Union desk. Applicants will be interviewed by Cabinet Personnel Interviewing Committee May 18.

The groups were warned by the checkers as not being in good taste with the standards set up by the Spring Week committee, Barnett said. If the show is not improved and in good taste tonight it will be closed, he said. There will be no second warnings, he added.

Barnett did not release the names of those warned.

The carnival will continue from 6:30 to 11 p.m. tonight and booths must be removed from the lot by 12:30 a.m. Friday, Barnett said.

Judges for the carnival will remain anonymous and visit the shows throughout the evening.

The booths were divided into four categories—Farmer's High School, Agricultural High School, Pennsylvania State College, and Pennsylvania State University—and they brought past Penn State's back to life.

Carnival-goers saw students from the last 100 years wandering through the crowds advertising their shows on the carnival grounds situated at the Windcrest area on the corner of Shortlidge road and College avenue.

Neon Signs
Numerous neon signs, dancing, girls, barkers, and singers were outside booths to lure students inside to see the shows.

The shows included anything from splitting atoms to catching a greased pig. Practically every show included dancing girls. There were also many jazz bands which added to the general confusion on the crowded midway.

No more than two tickets may be charged for each show and the tickets are on sale at several booths. All Spring Week proceeds will go to the All-University Student Scholarship Fund.

Concessions
Concession stands, rides, and a souvenir stand sponsored by Delta Sigma Phi and the Marketing Club did a good business, according to Spring Week committee members.

Rides included a ferris wheel, loop-de-loop, flying saucer, and a merry-go-round.

Fraternity housemothers were not left out of the event. They sold homemade food and these proceeds will also go to the Scholarship Fund.

Patrolmen Alerted on Coed Thefts

Campus Patrol will take precautionary measures to prevent further monetary thefts in women's dormitories, Captain Phillip A. Mark of Campus Patrol said yesterday. An outbreak of thefts occurred over the weekend in many of the women's dorms. Mark did not elaborate, however.

Although no cases were reported to Campus Patrol yesterday, Mark said the possibility of a new outbreak "especially during the week" was likely. He urged women to lock their doors, closets, and drawers when leaving the dorm.

Apprehension of the thieves is highly improbable, Mark stated, because, in all likelihood, the robberies are "inside jobs." Most women are good distances away from their dorms when the robberies occur. Mark said this pointed to the thieves being close friends of the victimized women.

Pearl O. Weston, dean of women, said yesterday many thefts had been reported to her by dormitory hostesses, but there was little she could do about them. Too many women hide their money in obvious hiding places, she said, or in places that are known to too many of their friends.

In time of need or pressing circumstances it is not uncommon for women to take money from their best friends, she stated.

Chapel Choir Elects Sones to Presidency

Newly elected officers of the Chapel Choir are Vernon Sones, president; Francis Taylor and Patricia Agnew, vice presidents; and Fay Holden, secretary.

Other officers are: George Buckhout, treasurer; Beau Barnes, historian; and Gerald Hodge, Frank Woods, Frank Podleiszek, James Baker, and John Shaffer, librarians.

4 Students Fined by Bellefonte Police

Four University students were fined yesterday by Bellefonte police for their part in a skirmish early yesterday morning on East Campus with Bellefonte and State College police. The students were given a hearing in the Bellefonte police station last night, after spending yesterday in jail.

Robert Hawk, seventh semester arts and letters major; Robert Larson, fifth semester business administration major; Chester Leone, sixth semester business administration major; and John Hayes, ninth semester education major, pleaded guilty to charges against them at the hearing.

Hawk pleaded guilty to "driving while under the influence of alcohol." He paid $150 bail and must appear in court before Sept. 4, to hear sentence passed. Hayes paid $17 fines and cost on a charge of disorderly conduct. Leone and Larson were fined -17 for disorderly conduct, and pleaded guilty to a charge of "resisting arrest." They have to appear before court to hear sentences for the latter charge also before Sept. 4.

According to police, trouble began in Bellefonte, when the students—in Hawk's car—failed to stop when hailed by Bellefonte police. Police said the car was moving recklessly through Bellefonte streets.

When Hawk's car headed toward State College, the police radioed State College police, who met the car at the duck pond located east of campus. Patrolman Mark A. Seckinger of State College, tried hailing Hawk's car with sirens, stop light, and horn. Finally, he had to crowd the car off the road.

As the three cars stopped on the by-pass road near University turkey pens, police said Hawk jumped out and began using violent language. He was warned to simmer down, but resisted. A brief hassle ensued, and police told the students they were under arrest.

During the hassle, the students scuffled with police, and, according to a Bellefonte officer, "gave them a tough time." However, at no time during the scuffle did the students use their fists or strike a blow, police said. Police reported the students appeared to be under the influence of alcohol at the time.

State police were called to escort the men to the County jail in Bellefonte.

According to Bellefonte police, the students will probably have to appear at a hearing in State College. Exact charges to be made by State College police have not been disclosed at the time.

Bulganin Requests Cold War End

WARSAW, Poland, May 11 (AP)—Premier Nikolai Bulganin told leaders of Soviet bloc countries today that Moscow wants an end to the cold war, with a Big Four conference, German reunification and world disarmament.

But he made it clear Russia and its seven European allies, whose representatives are gathered here, will go through with plans to pool their armed forces under one command. They will negotiate a treaty of mutual security and aid to offset West Germany's admission to NATO.

At the same time Bulganin called for sweeping governmental controls over newspapers, radio and other mass communications media in all UN countries—west as well as East—to head off any "utterances urging war and fomenting hostility among nations."

Represented here by their Premiers, foreign and defense ministers are Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, East Germany, Hungary and Albania. Peiping sent its defense minister as observer.

Bulganin said repeatedly that

West Germany's emergence as a NATO power created a new situation, and that letting the Bonn regime rearm is a major obstacle to German reunification.

French delegate Jules Moch said the proposals, while needing careful study, appear to "adopt nearly completely the concepts the French have never ceased to promote."

The Russian proposal for restrictions on atomic weapons "may be important," said Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester Pearson, here for the NATO conference. But Gen. Gruenther said the free world would be handicapped by abolishing the atomic bomb "because it is our only chance of equalizing the present disparity in conventional power," which favors the Reds.
