

WH Council OK's Proposed Charter

The proposed constitution of the West Halls Council was passed unanimously at the second reading last night.

Before becoming official, the document must be passed by two-thirds (11) of the area units.

According to past president James Kennedy, one of the authors of the constitution, the document contains two major changes. Under the proposed constitution, secession of office is provided, and representatives-at-large to the Association of Independent Men Board of Governor's are made voting members of the council.

2 Chairmen Cite Reports To Cabinet

All-University Cabinet heard progress reports by Diehl McKalip, Student Centennial committee chairman, and Vernon Sones, Orientation Week chairman, at a special meeting Sunday night.

McKalip said that the Centennial committee of 11, including the chairman, has met 14 times during the semester. The committee will remain active through Dec. 31, the end of the Centennial celebration, he said.

Included in a list of projects the committee has promoted or helped in, McKalip said, are the promotion and sale of 40,000 commemorative envelopes and 44,000 Centennial stamps before the University's birthday on February 22.

The committee also sponsored a Centennial Song Contest with a $50 bond as prize, but the judges could find no winner, McKalip said. The committee sponsored a Centennial dance in the Hetzel Union Building, a beard-growing contest, and the showing of the Centennial movie in the HUB.

McKalip termed the exchange dinners and parties on the evening of the Birthday Party unsuccessful. The committee planned the exchange of birthday greetings between the University and Michigan State University and the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, also celebrating centennials this year.

The committee, in supporting itself, has money on deposit, McKalip said. This was obtained by charging a registration fee of 50 cents per entry in the beard growing contest, and making a fraction of a cent profit on each of the 40,000 envelopes sold, he said.

Sones announced a tentative Orientation Week schedule, extending from Sept. 12 to 18. Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will help freshmen during the week, he said.

Each freshman will be given an Orientation Week booklet listing the week's schedule in detail, Sones said, following the procedure of previous years.

Three Groups--

Other reasons stated by Buckbee included an apparent lack of organized program in how the council would work in teaching 2500 freshmen about campus and nationwide politics. He also said he doesn't know why the council was started as the three parties will each attempt to tell freshmen of their parties during orientation week. The new council would be practically doing the same thing, he said.

An ICG interim committee, operating in the absence of a president until next semester, vetoed the idea of membership in the proposed council Friday night, Alan Maloney, member of the interim council, said yesterday.

ICG, Young Republicans Club, and Young Democrats Club are currently planning on a cooperative program of explaining national and state political affairs to freshmen next semester, Maloney said.

Television--

Coaxial cables would have to be run from the broadcast places to the receivers, according to Greenhill. Stouffer explained that the costs here would be relevant to what methods of laying the cables were possible and how direct the routes were. He approximated the cost at $500. Installation of the cable and other equipment would also be an important cost, he added. With the cost of added fixtures and installation the total would be very close to the $9500, he predicted.

Student Fees Dr. Harold E. Nelson, associate professor of speech, suggested that the project could be supported through student fees at registration. He expressed approval of the plan and said that he felt that it would give students opportunities they do not now have. Nelson also said that he thought there would be little difficulty in obtaining students to operate the television cameras.

One of the original motives behind the project which was brought up at the gift committee meeting was the hope of forestalling the need of a new auditorium for a few years.
