

Engle Wins '55' Hand, 35-0

Sabol, Lockerman Are Surprise Aces

When Penn State's Rip Engle was dealt his hand for the 1955 football prospects he found it came from a little used deck that featured several shiny, smooth cards.

In the pre-season strategy of the shrewd, poker-faced player who calculated and dared with speculation, he decided, discarded, and drew again.

When he played his hand Saturday, Engle had again come up with several of those "new" cards forming a winning play—one which originally was figured unable to whip a pair of duces.

Ike Expected To Recover In 2 Months

DENVER, Sept. 26 (AP)—An eminent heart specialist said after a new examination of President Dwight D. Eisenhower today that prospects for his complete recovery within two months are reasonably good if there are no complications.

Dr. Paul Dudley White said, that, barring complications, the NEWS YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—News of President Eisenhower's heart attack sent the stock market spinning down today in one of the greatest falls it ever has suffered.

Losses ran from 1 to 7 points in many scores of stocks and on out to around 14 points at the worst in key areas.

The unexpected news raised an obscuring cloud of uncertainties over the political and economic scene.

President should be physically able to serve a second term should he desire to seek it.

But he said complications can still come for Eisenhower, who will be 65 Oct. 14.

White added he was hopeful the chief executive can resume light official duties within two weeks and even confer with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles before the latter attends the foreign ministers conference at Geneva, Oct. 27.

In sounding his note of caution, the physician said that, "For many people some of the complications would have already come, if they had been very, very ill."

"But they can still come," he said. "You want to bear in mind that during the first week or two during this period in which the heart muscle is in a delicate state, we can still have complications. For the first two weeks we keep our fingers crossed."

The President's physicians reported at 4 p.m. (MST) that the chief executive had a very comfortable day and spent about one hour outside his oxygen tent.

It was the first time the tent had been removed since Eisenhower was hospitalized.

The first 30-minute period came this morning during a medical examination. The other 30 minutes outside came at lunch time, when the President also visited with Mrs. Eisenhower.

Prexy Indicates Deep Concern Over Brother

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the University, reportedly has been in contact with Fitzsimmons Army Hospital since President Dwight Eisenhower's attack Saturday.

A spokesman at the University said Dr. Eisenhower "feels very deeply" about his brother's attack, but does not plan, at present, to go to Colorado.

Homecoming Contest Deadline Is Monday

Organizations planning to enter women in the Homecoming Queen contest must do so before 5 p.m. Monday at the Hetzel Union desk.

The entrant's name, her address, and a picture 5 x 7 or larger must be submitted.

The contest is sponsored annually by Thespians, musical-comedy organization.

Those new cards read not as hearts or clubs, but rather as Lockerman, Sabol, Kwalik, North, Farls, Finkbeiner, and Walters.

Each of these men, along with Engle's list of veterans, formed his across-the-board-punch that whacked Boston University with a resounding 35-0 wallop.

Penn State rolled to touchdowns in the first three quarters with powerful groundwork tinged with passing accuracy, and then wound it up with the reserves scoring twice in the final stanza.

Junior Jim Lockerman bolted over from the four in the opening period for the Lions' first score at 12:35 ending a 37-yard drive after they had lost the ball to BU twice earlier in the quarter.

The Lions followed with another first-half score when Lenny Moore recovered a BU fumble on the goal and ran it out to the two. From there, the Lions rolled on a 98-yard drive needing only four first downs to get Joe Sabol, a soph newcomer at fullback, across the goal on a one-yard buck for a 14-0 lead.

At 11:04 of the third period Sabol zipped up the middle on a

Alumni Fund Nears $200,000

B. P. Taylor, executive director of the Penn State Foundation, said yesterday the alumni fund has received $195,621.88 so far this year.

The money came from some 9500 alumni, he said.

One gift of $2695 came from alumni employed by General Electric Corporation, and according to company policy it matched the contribution, Taylor said.

The fund is expected to reach $200,000 by the year's end, and to have 10,000 contributors.

Each alumnus who donates during the Centennial year will have his name inscribed in the University Birthday book.

Light Rain Forecast

Rain is forecast for this area this afternoon by the department of meteorology, the official University weather station.

Intermittent light showers are expected to begin around noon with temperatures ranging from 45 to 55 degrees. Yesterday's high temperature was 63 degrees.

2d Joint Customs Set

Freshman Customs Board has decreed today as Joint Customs Day once again, Margaret Boyd and Herbert Black, co-chairmen, have announced.

Upperclass men, for the second time this year, will be able to ask freshman women to "curtsy," while women can ask frosh men to "button."

Regular customs will also remain in effect so that women may request women to curtsy, and men may ask men to button.

First Day Success

Joint Customs Day last Thursday proved to be a success in lifting the slightly fallen customs spirit. Yesterday enforcement lagged also, as is usual with the second week of the get-acquainted period.

FULLBACK JOE SABOL turns quarterback, or so it seems, in this one as he turns to flip a lateral to halfback Lenny Moore as he was hit by three Boston U. tacklers in Saturday's game. Moore, left, awaits the flip while Sabol is about to hit the ground. Terrier Mike Ab-bruzzese, a 202 pounder gives his two teammates a helping hand. All was in vain, however, as the lateral was called illegal. Also pictured are John Bredice (66) and Lou Lovely (78) of BU, and Billy Kane (17).

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 56, No. 9 STATE COLLEGE, PA., TUESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 27, 1955 FIVE CENTS

Undergrads' Conduct Commended by McCoy

Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the College of Physical Education and Athletics, said yesterday the conduct of the students at Saturday's football game was "very excellent and very orderly."

"We were all very proud of them," he added.

Edward M. Czekaj, Athletic Association ticket manager, said he was "pleased" that there was no mass section-hopping by the students.

Czekaj also said he was disappointed that he received two telephone calls from persons who had purchased tickets for the Navy game from students.

Five to Speak At Ag Party

Howdy Night, an annual event sponsored by the Agriculture Student Council to welcome freshmen and new students, will be held at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in Hort Woods.

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the University; Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the College of Agriculture; Dr. Russell B. Dickerson, associate dean of the College of Agriculture; Pearl O. Weston, dean of women; and Frank J. Simes, dean of men, will give short talks at the affair.

Included in the program will be a song fest. Refreshments will be served. Daniel VanDuyne, chairman of the night, will act as toastmaster.

Admission is free to all Agriculture students.

He explained that the persons called the AA office to find out whether the tickets would be honored at the gate.

Czekaj said that he did not know at present if the tickets would be honored or what action if any, would be taken against the students for selling the tickets.

He said he did not know if any law forbids students from selling their tickets.

He added that the association has the power to seek identification from persons entering Beaver Field. He said adults with student tickets could be kept out in this manner.

Had Reserved Seats

Harold R. Gilbert, AA director, said when he announced the reserve seat plan that students were given regular reserve seat tickets during the 1930's. The price, section, row, and seat were printed on the ticket.

This practice was discontinued, according to Gilbert, when the

Loose Convict Caught on Way To Boalsburg

Rockview Penitentiary police captured an escaped convict on U.S. route 322 one mile west of Boalsburg, Sunday night, Major C. G. Conway of the penitentiary said yesterday. The convict, Benjamin F. Haney, had escaped from the prison early Saturday night.

Conway said Haney's absence was first noted at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, when all inmates were counted. Notification of the escape was sent out to State Police, and road blocks were established at key road intersections.

Start Search

Police pick-up cars and state police patrol cars started an immediate search of the surrounding areas as soon as Haney's absence was detected.

Rockview police Lt. L. J. Henry and Sgt. W. D. Heaton spotted Haney walking along route 322 towards Lewistown at 7 p.m. Sunday. The guards drove past Haney in a pick-up wagon, then doubled back. When Haney recognized the wagon, he started running, Conway said. But the guards caught up with the convict a few hundred feet down the road.

Admits Escape

After capture, Haney admitted climbing over the south stockade fence of the prison and heading

Saturday Is Deadline For Adding Courses

The deadline for adding courses to schedule is Saturday, according to H. A. Sperber, assistant scheduling officer.

Students have through Saturday, Oct. 15 to drop courses from their schedules, he said. All drops or additions of courses may be made at the scheduling office, basement of Willard Hall.

quizzed by an upperclassman, a freshman violator must draw a map of the campus on a sandwich-board sign including Pollock Road and the Mall. Following the new centennial theme, "Penn State Through the Next 100 Years," the title "Penn State's Campus Has Changed Since 1855" will be printed in large letters at the top.

Schedule Asked

Another penalized frosh was instructed to letter a large duplication of his schedule on a sandwich-board sign. However, upperclassmen should not hold freshmen overtime so that they are late for class. For this reason, all freshmen are urged to carry their schedules.

A 300 word paper was also assigned to a violator for failing to wear his customs dress.

The two week customs period will end at 12 noon Saturday, although all freshmen are required to wear dinks at the Navy-Penn State football game, Oct. 15.

will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 212 Hetzel Union. Violators will be summoned by the Board chairmen to appear at this time to plead their case.

Upperclassmen should turn in the names of the violators, violations, date, and their own name at the HUB desk as soon as possible.

At a meeting of the Customs Board last night six freshman violators were given penalties. Two 300 word papers were heard by the Board, entitled "The Value of Freshman Customs at Penn State," and written by frosh violators. This penalty is the minimum punishment declared.

Sandwich Board Stolen

Another frosh, who had previously committed a violation, claimed that his sandwich board had been stolen during a class. He was instructed to paint another one, entitled "I Was a Centennial Customs Violator."

Because he didn't know the names of campus buildings when
