

Budget Decision Awaits Action Of State Senate

The State Senate is expected to decide between next Wednesday and Friday whether it plans to reduce the request of $25,194,000 for the University for the coming two-year fiscal period.

According to Jo Hays, Centre County representative to the General Assembly, $131 million may be severed from bills awaiting action by the Senate.

Amendment Given 1st Approval

All-University Cabinet Thursday night took the first step to amend its constitution to require alternates for representatives to be next in line in the organization's hierarchy.

Cabinet passed the motion for the amendment for the first time Thursday. To enact the proposal into law, it must be read and approved at three consecutive meetings. It may be voted into law at the third meeting by a two-thirds vote.

Speaking in favor of his motion, All-University Secretary-Treasurer Philip Beard said the present constitution provides the right for any member of Cabinet to "challenge" an alternate. However, the alternate can be challenged and nothing else, he said.

"Teeth" in Constitution
The amendment, which would replace this article in the constitution, is designed to "put some teeth" in the constitution, he said.

Members would still have the right to challenge but would have some grounds to oppose an alternate. The proposed amendment states:

"In the absence of a member of All-University Cabinet, the constitution of the absent member's organization shall be the determining factor in permitting this seat to be filled.

Vice President Seated
"There being no such provision in said constitution, the vice president of the organization shall be seated, and thereafter, seating shall be granted to the other officers of the organization according to the hierarchy set forth in their constitution."

Last week, All-University President Earl Seely instructed Cabinet members to submit a note when they are absent, stating the reason for absence and the office held by the alternate.

The University's budget request, which was approved by the House of Representatives Sept. 16, faces possible reduction. It is approximately $5 million more than the appropriation for the last two years.

Since House approval the budget has been held by the Senate-Appropriations Committee which must approve it before sending it on to the Senate.

The budget is part of the $535 million request for public instruction.

The budget was defended by President Milton S. Eisenhower on Aug. 16 at a personal appearance before a Senate committee hearing on appropriations.

He stated that none of the items listed in the budget could be eliminated. "I've been building budgets for 30 years and I've never put any fat in them yet. I do not think it can possibly be reduced," he said.

The request, submitted by Reps. J. Dean Polen (D-Wash.) and Norman Wood (R-Lanc.) was for the exact amount Gov. George M. Leader requested in his budget message to the legislature last April.

Specifically, it provides for:

1. Maintenance and instruction—$24,783,000.
2. Agriculture experiments—$150,000.
3. Petroleum research and experiments—$66,000.
4. Coal research—$70,000, with that sum to be matched by the anthracite and bituminous industries.
5. Non-metal mineral industries—$35,000.
6. Long range mineral industries—$32,500.
7. Matching funds for mineral industries research—$57,500.

Alums to Number 100,000 by 1970

Fifteen years hence, University alumni throughout the world will number at least 100,000.

Ridge Riley, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, says the new figure is based on an expected increase in student enrollment from the current 12,000 to an estimated 20,000 in 1970.

Living alumni now number 55,000, a product of the University's first 100 years.

Sophomore Found Dead in Hotel

By DAVE BRONSTEIN

John J. Wilson, 21, sophomore in chemistry from Sharon, was found dead late Thursday night in a Harrisburg hotel, less than 48 hours after he was reported missing from his State College residence.

Thomas J. Fritchey, Dauphin County coroner, told the Daily Collegian yesterday afternoon by telephone that no official decision on the cause of death has been arrived at.

Bums Trim Yanks, 8-3, for 1st Victory

BROOKLYN, Sept. 30 (AP)—Sturdy Johnny Podres celebrated his 23rd birthday today by mixing his lefthanded fast ball with a teasing change of pace to give Brooklyn its first victory over the New York Yankees 8-3 in the third game of the World Series at Ebbets Field.

Roy Campanella, given up for dead with the other Dodgers after going hitless in two losing games at Yankee Stadium, awoke from his slump with a two-run homer, double and single to drive in three runs. This devastating show made the 34,209 almost forget his costly error that let the Yanks tie the score in the second inning.

Manager Walter Alston, criticized for going too far with Billy Loes in yesterday's game, stuck with the youngster from Witherbee, N.Y. through thick and thin. Three times he strode to the mound to talk things over with Podres and Campy only to let the pitcher continue. Each, time his faith was justified.

In the sixth it appeared that Podres, trying to go the route for the first time since June 14, was on the ropes. Gil McDougald and Yogi Berra had lined singles to center with nobody out, the first New York hits since they scored their two runs in the second inning.

The batter was Mickey Mantle, trying to play despite a torn leg muscle that forced him to hobble around center field and shift to right in the second. Trusting Podres to keep the ball low to Mantle, Alston let Podres face the Yankee hitter. Mantle worked the count to 1-1 and then lashed a rally-killing double-play ball to shortstop Pee Wee Reese. Unable to run with his usual jack-rabbit speed, Mickey was easily doubled at first, Reese to Junior Gilliam to Gil Hodges.

Although Podres teetered a bit in the seventh when a walk to Phil Rizzuto and Andy Carey's pinch-triple to the leftfield corner produced a third Yank run, he steadied to strike out hitless Bob Cerv for the third straight time.

After Hodges grabbed Phil Rizzuto's pop for the final out, he rushed to greet the grinning Podres, knocking his cap off in his enthusiasm.

For tomorrow's fourth game at Ebbets Field, Alston has named

An autopsy was performed yesterday, the coroner said, and cause of death will be made known within four days.

Wilson was found in the bathroom of his room at the Penn Harris Hotel, fully clothed, with an empty bottle labeled, "hydrochloric acid" at his side, Fritchey said.

A former student at Gannon College, Erie, Wilson had transferred to the University during Orientation Week and was boarding at 630 Franklin street. His landlady reported that he went "off to school with his school books" Wednesday morning.

When he failed to return to his first floor room that night, the owners became worried and notified the borough police.

Registers at Hotel
Wilson registered at the Penn Harris Hotel at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, according to the hotel manager. It is not certain how Wilson got to Harrisburg after he reportedly attended a morning class. His landlady said that he did not own a car.

The hotel manager became concerned when he failed to see Wilson around the hotel after he checked in. He attempted to enter Wilson's room but found it locked. He called and no one answered.

Door Forced Open
The manager ordered the door forced. Wilson was not in the room. The hinges were then smashed from the bathroom door and Wilson was found slumped on the edge of the bathtub.

In addition to the empty bottle with the hydro-chloric acid label found next to Wilson, a dark, blackish, clear liquid had been splashed in the bathroom basin, Fritchey reported.

"We found the room clean and neat," Fritchey said. "Wilson's suitcase was still packed."

Graduates in 1952
Wilson was graduated from Sharon High School in 1952. He spent two years in the service before entering Gannon College as a freshman. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wilson, 449 N. Oakland avenue, Sharon.

Wilson was called a "very studious boy" by the townfolk with whom he resided.

He did not eat at his residence but occasionally liked to watch television at the house.

"He seemed thrilled to be at the University," his landlady said.

Colds Treated At Dispensary

Approximately 200 cases of colds and sore throats were treated at the dispensary Thursday, according to Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, director of the University Health Service.

Yesterday was considered a light day by Dr. Glenn, with the number of patients dropping off considerably.

University hospital reports five out of 17 patients admitted yesterday were suffering from severe colds. Thursday, six of 24 cases were afflicted with colds.

Yesterday's rainy weather is not expected to affect the number of cold cases, a hospital nurse said.

Cloudy Skies Forecast

Partly cloudy skies with cooler temperatures are forecast for today by the department of meteorology. The high is expected to be near 65 and the low Sunday morning near 35. Yesterday's high was 66 degrees.

Apple Orchards Declared Taboo For Students

Students have been warned not to take apples from the University orchards, near the new cattle barns.

Dr. David G. White, associate professor of pomology, said that apples on trees in a special research plot in the orchards are coated with a chemical known to produce cancer in white mice.

As yet there has been no indication that the chemical—a hormone used to improve the coloring of the apples—will cause cancer in humans, White said.

But he added that the experimenters will not risk eating apples coated with the chemical.

White said that several bushels of apples have been reported missing from the area adjoining the special research plot during the past several weeks.

He warned that students who pick the apples in hope of getting a free meal might accidentally get some of the coated apples.

Apples can be bought at the fruit parking shed on farm eight. The shed is open daily from 8 a.m. until noon and 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

AAUP to Meet

Dr. William B. Edgerton, assistant professor of Russian, will address the first meeting of the American Association of University Professors at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 12 in 121 Sparks.

Dr. Edgerton will report on a recent study trip he made to Russia.

President Begins Recovery Program

DENVER, Sept. 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower prepared today to start a long, slow march back toward active command of the government and his physicians looked forward to plans for possibly greater official activity in a week or so.

As doctors in Fitzsimons Army Hospital reported that the President had an "excellent night" for the first time and that his progress continues to be satisfactory without complications, there were these developments:

1. Eisenhower made ready to put his "D. E." initials to two government documents. That action will be the first business he has transacted since he was stricken with a heart attack last Saturday.

2. The hospital announced that Dr. Paul Dudley White, the eminent heart specialist who examined Eisenhower shortly after he suffered the attack, has agreed to return to Denver from Boston about the end of next week.

The purpose of the return visit, said White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, is to consult with other physicians on the case with respect to the President's condition at the time, and make plans for the rest of the period he will remain in the hospital.

White already has estimated that Eisenhower will be hospitalized about a month.

The conference here next week will deal, Hagerty said, with such questions as whether the chief executive should be permitted to have visitors, hold meetings with government officials, and study federal documents.

3. Dr. White told a national television audience this morning that if he were Eisenhower he "would not want to run" for reelection.

This afternoon Hagerty was told at a news conference that White later, in explaining his remark, declared he has "no objection" to the President running again if he has a good recovery.

A reporter wanted to know whether the White House had been in touch with White in advance of the second statement of the doctor, one of the world's foremost heart specialists.

Hagerty replied there had been no such contact—"none at all." The secretary said the only contact with White was with respect to his return visit to Denver next week, and that the conversation was "entirely medical."
