Debate

Men's Debate Team Announces Schedule

The annual International Debate and the Pennsylvania Interstate Debater's Congress, both to be held on campus, are two of the main events on the Men's Debate Team schedule for this year.

The International Debate will be held against Cambridge University on Nov. 1 and two men will represent each team. This event will not be judged.

Representatives of approximately 20 Pennsylvania schools and a few out-of-state schools will attend the Congress with an average of six men per team.

To Debate With Many

The team will also meet the University of Vermont, Boston University, College of William and Mary, Muhlenberg College, the University of Pittsburgh, West Virginia University, the U.S. Military Academy, and Dickinson College will also participate in regional tournaments and the Eastern Forensic Championships, Jon Plaut, manager, said.

Last year the University team won the Forensic Championship.

The team, headed by manager Benjamin Sinclair, also were the Marshall-Wythe debate champions.

Debate Held Annually

The tournament is held annually at the College of William and Mary. The best southern debate teams and some northern teams are represented, Plaut said.

The team was eliminated in the quarter-finals of the National Debate Championships held at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, ranking fifth in the nation in college debate teams.

Approximately 30 men will make up the complete team this year.

Team Tryouts

Students interested in trying out for the Men's Debate team should report at 7 tonight to 316 Sparks.

Candidates must give a five-minute speech on any phase of the national debate topic. The topic is Resolved: That the non-agricultural industries of the United States should guarantee their employees an annual wage.

Sorauf to Speak

Dr. Francis J. Sorauf, instructor in political science, will speak to members of the Young Democrats Club at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 209 Hetzel Union.

Dr. Sorauf will speak on prospects for the 1956 political convention.

Early Arrivals To See Parade In Richmond

Thomas P. Bryan, mayor of Richmond, Va., yesterday invited students and other supporters of the Nittany Lions to arrive in Richmond early enough Friday to watch the Tobacco Festival parade.

Penn State meets the University of Virginia Saturday afternoon, climaxing the festival.

The parade, which will include 75 floats and mobile units and 50 marching groups, will begin at 5:45 p.m. (EST). The Blue Band will participate in the event.

The parade will be held on Broad street, which lies directly across the major routes coming into the city from the north. Traffic will be halted during the parade.

Bryan issued the invitation in a letter to Ernest B. McCoy, director of athletics and dean of the College of Physical Education and Athletics.

Marketing Club to Meet

William King, sales manager for Dix Cadillac, State College, will address the Penn State Marketing Club at 7:30 tonight at Phi Kappa. New members may attend.

Students Stop

That's right students, do stop and think a moment. Now the Student Dry Cleaning Agency is at your dormitory. This is a service that gives some students a job; it is for the benefit of all students however. You can save yourself time by sending your clothes to be cleaned through the Student Dry Cleaning Agency which functions for you. Of course Balfurd's is also working with the agency so when you take your clothes to the agent in your dorms ask that they be sent to . . .
