Nittany, Pollock, and West Halls Councils, and Town Independent Men voted to support the plan by which all the

700 Community Concert Series Tickets Sold

Seven hundred tickets to the Community Concert Series have been sold, Woodrow W. Bierly of the Public Information office, announced yesterday.

Memberships to the series have been selling slower this year than in any of the previous five campaigns, David H. McKinley, president of the Association, said. He expressed the hope that the goal of 1230 memberships will be reached.

The Philharmonic Piano Quartet has been scheduled for Oct. 22 and Virtuosi di Roma for January, but the complete program cannot be arranged until after the close of the campaign, when the budget for the series can be determined.

McKinley pointed out that student support of the series has been lagging during the past few years, although reports made at the student encampment expressed concern about the need for more concerts on campus.

The memberships are available through student workers in the various residence halls but also may be obtained at the headquarters in the lobby of the Hetzel Union Building. The campaign will close at noon Saturday.

Chem-Phys Council Votes Unanimously For Penn Holiday

The Chemistry-Physics Student Council Wednesday voted unanimously in favor of a half holiday on Oct. 29, the day of the Penn State-Pennsylvania football game at Philadelphia.

This Council is the third one to favor this action. Liberal Arts Student Council and West Halls Council previously voted in favor of the half holiday.

The Council planned tentatively to hold its student-faculty mixer, Tuesday, Nov. 1 in the Hetzel Union ballroom. It was announced that the faculty banquet would be Nov. 16, at the Eutaw House.

Men Vacate 2 Pollock Dormitories

Pollock dormitories one and two have been vacated for efficiency reasons, Otto E. Mueller, department of housing director, said yesterday.

Men living in these halls have been moved into other residences because of the poorer condition of Pollock one and two. Inferior conditions have occurred for these reasons: 1. They are located near the dining hall than the other buildings and have had a higher number of occupants over the years. 2. They are located at the bottom of a hill where water drainage accumulates. Casement windows were installed in them instead of the usual double-hung type and have not proved as durable.

Mueller pointed out that all the Nittany and Pollock dormitories are war surplus with approximately a ten year utility period. Their longevity was to expire in 1952. They have served well, and will continue to be useful as long as they are needed, Mueller said.

The dormitories vacated were an aid while used as staging areas, but are too much in need of extensive repair if they are to be used for the entire school year. Tentative plans are to remove the Nittany and Pollock housing facilities after the proposed women's dormitories are ready for use.

Dispensary Sees Steady Decline In Cold Epidemic

The lowest number of cold cases treated at the dispensary in the past two weeks was reported yesterday by dispensary officials.

Approximately 90 students received treatment at the dispensary. Of these, only 33 were suffering from colds and sore throats.

Officials at the dispensary pointed out that yesterday's low number does not mean that the cold bug is disappearing from the campus. The current 'cold wave' is expected to plague University students until the end of the month.

Medical Entrance Exam

The next Medical College Admission test will be held at the University Oct. 31. Bulletins of information and application blanks are available in 117 Buckhout Lab. All applications must arrive at Educational Testing Service, P.O. Box 592, Princeton, N.J., no later than Oct. 17.

Women Requested to Move Extra Furniture From Rooms

Women living in residence halls have been requested by the department of housing to remove drying racks, clothes trees, and portable wardrobes from their rooms.

Additional furniture such as typewriter stands, record players and stands, and book shelves may be used in those residence halls which do not have such modern facilities as Simmons, McElwain, and Thompson halls, Otto E. Mueller, director of housing, said.

Currently, any extra furnishing in a residence hall must be there with special permission from the department of housing. Offenders of this rule will be asked to send the articles home, Mueller said.

Students have been bringing additional furniture from home even though they have been instructed that the rooms are already furnished, he said. Many women forget them at the end of the term or ask for storage space. This is impossible because most rooms are used in the summer for conference groups.

The housing department has been trying to get a good understanding of the needs of the students, Mueller said, and is thinking of providing rooms with combination bookshelves and drying racks. These plans are not definite.

The British Museum holds first rank among the great libraries of the world with more than 5,000,000 printed volumes and manuscripts.
