Eight Men Selected For Debate

Eight of the sixteen men, who tried out for the Men's Debate team were selected for the team. They are Stephen Billstein, Gerald Bogus, Jay Feldstein, Donald Herskovitz, Byron LaVan, Donald Melvin, Robert Neff, and Stephen Weitz.

They spoke for five minutes on either the affirmative or negative sides of the national debate topic which is Resolved: That the non-agricultural industries of the United States should guarantee their employees an annual wage.

Judged the Event
J. F. O'Brien, professor of public speaking and team coach, and John Brillhart, graduate assistant in speech and newly appointed assistant debate coach, judged the contestants.

The first debate will be against Cambridge University on Nov. 1 at the University. Two men will represent the team and this event will not be judged.

The team will also meet the University of Vermont, Boston University, College of William and Mary, Muhlenberg College, the University of Pittsburgh, West Virginia University, the U. S. Military Academy, and Dickinson College. It will also participate in regional, state, and national tournaments.

Placed Fifth
Last year the team placed fifth in the nation in the national tournament.

New members will meet with old members at 7 p.m. Oct. 12 in 316 Sparks, according to Jonathan Plaut, manager.

TV

ter said, of the 50 teachers connected with the experiment, more than 30 were making an attempt to breach the change-over from conventional to television teaching.

Carpenter felt that students taking the TV courses this year would probably benefit more from them. Last year, no changes were made in the content of courses or in their method of presentation to adapt to TV. This year, the courses have been changed to take advantage of every possibility TV may offer.

The classroom television experiment is being run on the same lines as it was last year, Carpenter said. Each televised course is divided into two sections. Students are placed in either the room where the lecture is originating, or a room that is receiving the lecture on a television set. Periodically, these groups are interchanged.

Results of student marks, reaction, and interest, in each course will be compared with results of students taking the same course with conventional teaching.

Findings of the experimental courses are being sent to universities and colleges all over the country, to act as models for TV experiments at these institutions. As a direct result of last year's findings at the University, New York University is establishing experimental television courses, Carpenter said.

The University also acts as a proving ground for the company supplying equipment for the television experiment. Every time a new piece of equipment is developed, it is sent to the University, and we try it out, Carpenter said.

Euwema Set As Speaker For Chapel

Dr. Ben Euwema, dean of the College of the Liberal Arts, will speak at Chapel services at 10:55 a.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

His topic will be "Security." Dr. Euwema, a native of Chicago, was graduated from Calvin College with a B.A. degree and received his M.A. degree from the University of Michigan. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago.

He began teaching at Kent State, Ohio, and later joined the faculty of Michigan State University, rising to the head of English and director of languages and literature. In 1946, Dr. Euwema was appointed dean of the College of the Liberal Arts at the University.

The Chapel Choir will sing "O Be Joyful, All Ye Lands," from The Psalms (Gretchaninoff) as the anthem, under the direction of Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, professor of music education.

George E. Ceiga, organist, will play the prelude, "Wachet auf, ruft uns die Stimme," and the postlude, Fugue in G minor (The Lesser), both by J. S. Bach.

Newman Club Radio Series

The Newman Club radio committee will present its first program in the 1955-56 series at 7:30 p.m. Monday over station WMAJ.

Concert

Concert Campaign To Close at Noon

The membership campaign of the Community Concert Association will close at noon today.

About 800 tickets have been sold, David H. McKinley, president of the association, announced yesterday. Only if the 1230 quota is reached can the best possible program be arranged, McKinley said.

Earl Seely suggested at All-University Cabinet Thursday night that fraternities and other organizations buy several tickets to the series. Members of the group who wish to attend the individual concerts could then divide the use of the organization's tickets.

Four groups of the Association of Independent Men; Nittany, Pollock and West Hall Councils, and Town Independent Men, bought a block of 30 tickets for the series. The plan is aimed at allowing independent men to attend single concerts rather than buy a season ticket to the concerts.

Season Tickets Sold
Tickets are sold only on a season-ticket basis. The goal is determined by the seating capacity of Schwab Auditorium where the concerts are presented. Memberships will not be available after the campaign closes today, McKinley said.

Tickets may be purchased from the volunteer solicitors in the residence halls or at the campaign headquarters in the lobby of the Hetzel Union Building.

The Philharmonic Piano Quartet will open the series on Oct. 22. The members of the group, Gisela Richter, Moreland Kortkamp, Emmet Vokes, and Herbert Rogers bring their pianos with them. The receipt issued for the memberships, rather than the ticket, will be used for this concert because it comes so early in the season.

13 Soloists to Perform
The Virtuosi di Roma, composed of 13 soloists, will present a concert in January. The group is returning to the United States for the fourth tour in five years. The ensemble will include Ornella Santoliquido, Italian pianist; and Massimo Amfiteatrof, cellist. Amfiteatrof heads the group.

The association placed holds on these two attractions so that it would be possible to include them on the 1955-56 series. The other numbers of the series will be arranged after the close of the campaign when the budget for the year will be known.

Brandow to Speak At ICG Meeting

Dr. George E. Brandow, professor of agricultural economics, will address members of the University chapter of the Intercollegiate Council on Government at 7:30 p.m. Monday in 103 Willard.

His topic will be "The Big Issue in the 1956 Presidential Campaign—Farm Price Policy."

Dr. Brandow is expected to explain Republican and Democratic farm policies, with special reference to how the two parties differ on price support and subsidy.

The meeting is open to the public.

'Rainmaker' Will Open Play Series

The Broadway hit "The Rainmaker," the first 1955-56 Center Stage production of the Penn State Players, campus dramatic society, will open Friday at the Extension Conference Center.

"The Rainmaker" performances will be given at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and on successive Friday and Saturday evenings throughout the weekend of Nov. 19.

Located on Campus
The Extension Center is located on campus, and was formerly called the Temporary Union Building. Until last year the group performed at Woodman Hall in State College.

All Center Stage plays during the current academic year will be given at the Extension Center.

Tickets for the show will go on sale at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Hetzel Union desk for $1.

Directed by Robert D. Reifsnider, associate professor of dramatics, the cast includes William Sample as "H. C. Curry," Gerald Denisof as "Noah Curry," Patricia Doll as "Lizzie Curry," Derek Swire as "Jim Curry," William Taylor as "File," Emil Hass as "Starbuck," and Ford Minsker as "Sheriff."

'Mikado' to Be Given
The Players will give performances of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Mikado," at Schwab Auditorium Nov. 3, 4, 5.

The second Center Stage production will be "Picnic" to open Dec. 2. The last performances will be the weekend of Jan. 13, 14.

Center Stage, an arena-type theater, started on campus in 1946 and in the following year became a permanent part of the Players' program.
