

'Take Ten'

The depression and Second World War's grim nature carry over too far into the acting. It too was grim. Only dancing girls in black tunics doing exercises add interest to the plight of a poor little boy trying to get into the Army.

Others in the supporting cast deserving honorable mention are Alan Freidberg, Dominic Landro, Wein, for his supporting roles with magician Robert Little and photographer Marvin Jackson.

"Take Ten's" good fellows, who should get recognition for musical numbers and spritly lines, are Michael Rosenfeld, Wein, and Fryman, who were able to write, direct, and launch an enjoyable Home Coming production.

For all its inventive musical numbers, witty spoofery, over-stuffed brass, and mawkish satire on such goodies as "the Metzger Indians," and "Old Man Gramms and his boys," Thespians prove that given some "old folk lore," it can produce an original review with as much punch as last week's jug of cider.

AIM Delegation To Attend NISA

George Mauler, president of Nittany Council, and Robert Cole, president of Town Independent Men, will represent the Association of Independent Men at a regional convention of the National Independent Student Association this weekend.

The convention will be held at Cornell University.

Other schools to be represented are the University of Connecticut and St. Lawrence University.

Cabinet--

In the report, the committee felt concern that the "tradition of courtesy" at recreational events is becoming a thing of the past at the University. It felt that something should be done to prevent the University from completely losing this spirit of courtesy. Cabinet decided to refer the section to the Athletic Association.

The problem of obtaining a new place to show Sunday movies on campus and expansion of movie-showing facilities was discussed in the report. Cabinet decided the item needed no referral, as the Cabinet Movie Committee would undoubtedly take up the question.

A final part of the report on Spring Week was passed as Cabinet decided to take up the question under new business.

Edgerton--

(Continued from page five) machine which will enable a blind person to read a page of an ordinary book in four minutes. The machine, now in mass production, is expected to be released in December and, according to Dr. Edgerton, seems workable. One scientist told him that the United States would probably be able to import one for study purposes.

Spring Week --

(Continued from page one) 57 or 1957-58 two half-holidays in the fall and one full holiday in the spring, all to be floating and determined by Cabinet.

Stays With Cabinet
However, because Cabinet took no other action on the article, the suggestion goes no further than Cabinet's hands.

Robert McMillan, senior class president, said he talked with University Provost Adrian Morse last Tuesday about a half-holiday. McMillan said a representative of the administration would attend a Cabinet meeting to talk about a half-holiday.

After McMillan's interview Tuesday, Morse told The Daily Collegian the senior class president asked him about the possibility of having a half-holiday for the Penn game Oct. 29. Morse said he would raise the question before the Council of Administration at its next meeting Tuesday.

Cabinet and four other student organizations have gone on record as favoring a Penn half-holiday. Morse said a representative from the administration would attend a Cabinet session to talk about a floating holiday for future years if Cabinet requested it.

"The Russian scholars are eager to have normal contacts with other scholars everywhere," Dr. Edgerton said, "and there is a great need for such association. It is only through such relationships that we will be able to gain a mutual understanding."

LUCKY DROODLES! LUCKY DROODLES! YEA!

WHAT'S THIS?
For solution, see paragraph below.

A FLIGHT OF IMAGINATION prompted the Doodle above—it's titled: Flying saucer with Lucky-smoking crew. But it's a down-to-earth fact that Luckies taste better than any other cigarettes—and for down-to-earth reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that light, mild tobacco is toasted to taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, "Glurg shrdlu!" (In saucer language, that means, "For taste that's out of this world, light up a Lucky!")
