

Dulles, Ike 'Hope' Nations Deadlocked In Security Council

DENVER, Oct. 19 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today that President Eisenhower shares with him a "measured hope" for concrete progress at the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Geneva on issues dividing East and West.

Dulles got Eisenhower's final "counsel and advice" on the conference opening Oct. 27 in a 25-minute meeting with the chief executive at Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

Then, at a news conference at the Denver White House, the secretary said that while he doesn't expect "spectacular results," he does think that he and the British, French and Soviet foreign ministers will make "concrete progress toward unification of Germany within a framework of European security."

He said he also looks for definite progress on increased contacts between East and West and on clearing away some of the misunderstandings that seem to have arisen over the disarmament issue.

Second Meeting

It was the second Eisenhower-Dulles meeting since the President's Sept. 24 heart attack. The first was a week ago yesterday.

With the doctors continuing to report that Eisenhower is making satisfactory headway without complications, Dulles said that he found "very distinct evidence of more vigor—more vigorous health." He said the President's mind was as vigorous as it could be at their last meeting and "this time there was more evidence of physical robustness."

Improving Daily

Every day, the physicians are letting the chief executive sit up a bit more in a chair. He gets in a daily sun bath on a hospital terrace. And by the end of this week or early next the doctors hope to have him taking his first steps.

After conferring with the President and reporters, Dulles took off for Washington. Flying with him was Livingston Merchant, assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Merchant Consulted

Merchant didn't talk with Eisenhower. But Dulles said he left the President's hospital room once or twice to consult with him during his huddle with the chief executive.

Dillon Anderson, Eisenhower's special assistant on national security affairs, followed Dulles in to the President's room and spent 15 minutes there. He, too, was on the Washington-bound plane, along with Eisenhower's youngest brother, Milton, president of Pennsylvania State University, who has been here since Monday.

Body Identified As Altoona Girl

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19 (AP)—A body found in a shallow, leaf-covered grave in a park here 10 days ago was identified today as that of an Altoona, Pa., girl, and a warrant was issued for her suspected strangler.

Detective Capt. David E. Kerr said a check of fingerprints identified the girl as Gloria Ferry, 18, who had been missing from her home since Sept. 12.

A murder warrant was issued for Louis Statler, 68, a former wrestler and laborer who lived in Altoona but who was last heard from Oct. 3, the day the coroner said the girl was slain.

The body, clad only in underwear and decomposed beyond identification, was found by a mushroom picker in Brookside Park, Oct. 9.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Ferry, said in Altoona that Gloria had received several threats after it became known that she was to testify against Statler on a charge of contributing to her delinquency.

The Russians also want India, Indonesia, Egypt and Communist-dominated Romania to be named to the first board of governors. Canada, which has played a leading atomic role from the start, is not mentioned.

Suspect Given Lie Detector Test in Probe

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—A lie detector test for a window washer was the focal point today as police pressed their investigation into the knife slaying of Mrs. Susan Holden, 52.

"As far as the circumstantial evidence is concerned," said sheriff Clarence E. Johnson, "at this point in our investigation, he is the logical suspect."

Two troopers from state police headquarters' criminal identification bureau arrived here from Charleston today with the polygraph. The Morgantown Negro, 23, has been in police custody for questioning—without charge—for more than 24 hours.

Motive Strengthened

At the same time, the sheriff said that robbery was strengthened as a possible motive by the report that $60 to $100 was missing. This came from John Holden, husband of the woman. Mrs. Holden was an English instructor at West Virginia University.

Mrs. Holden's body was found by neighbor women yesterday, clad in nightclothes and sprawled on the bed of her Suncrest addition home.

Sheriff Johnson said the window washer would be given the lie detector test "sometime between now and midnight." He said the man had been taken to Dr. M. L. Hobbs, West Virginia pathologist, for "certain tests."

Was Mental Patient

It was brought out, meantime, that the man held had been a patient in a mental institution. Authorities at Lakin State Hospital said he was a "constitutional psychopath" admitted there in June, 1952, by order of Circuit Court.

He was arrested in December, 1952, and charged with the assault and robbery of an elderly parking lot attendant in Morgantown.

Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, other top-ranking prospects for the presidential nomination, are down for one speech each and may be booked for others later.

Steel Bridge Collapses

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 19 (AP)—An old steel bridge, 1½ miles east of Titusville, collapsed into Pine Creek today after an auto rammaged into it.

Richard Gustafson, driver of the car, was taken unconscious to Titusville Hospital. He is reported not serious.

dominated Romania to be named to the first board of governors. Canada, which has played a leading atomic role from the start, is not mentioned.

This was disclosed in the text of the Soviet communication replying to a note from the United States giving the proposed statute of the agency expected to gram laid down by President Eisenhower.

Copy Became Available

A copy of the confidential document became available as the UN Assembly's Political Committee debated proposals for setting up the proposed agency. Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.), U.S. delegate on the committee, put before the delegates a revised resolution suggesting an international conference be called to approve the statute after it is drafted.

The Soviet delegation, headed by First Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov, is backing a resolution proposing a conference of experts from "interested countries" for the purpose of drafting the statute.

Calls on Lodge

Kuznetsov and his deputy delegate, Jacob A. Malik, called on U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., last Sunday in an effort to work out a resolution, but they could not agree. The Russians report they still are trying for an agreement before the committee votes.

The Soviet plan differs from the United States' in this manner: The United States wants the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union to be the central part of the board.

It wants Australia, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Portugal, and South Africa to be named also to the board of governors in a less important category than the five primary atomic powers. Finally, the American plan calls for all the countries signing the atomic energy plan to elect six other countries to the board.

Nations Deadlocked In Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Philippines, firmly backed by the United States, fought to a draw today with Communist Yugoslavia in the second round of voting for a UN Security Council seat.

Faced with a deadlock for the second time, the UN Assembly wrangled heatedly for two hours and then approved, 29-8, an American proposal to vote for seats on the Economic and Social Council and the Trusteeship Council. The date for the next balloting on the Security Council was not set.

Represented Victory

This represented a victory for Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate. Yugoslavia long has been a candidate for the Economic and Social Council. The Yugoslavs, supported by the British Commonwealth and the Soviet Union, formally announced their candidacy for the council today.

Lodge, who has made this contest a matter of prestige for the United States, and the Philippine delegate, Carlos P. Romulo, were jubilant at the Assembly decision to pass on to the voting. The Yugoslav delegation, which actually would like to hold places on both councils, was glum.

Receives 46 Votes

Yugoslavia was elected to the Economic and Social Council on the second ballot, receiving 46 votes. Three countries were elected on the first ballot. They were the United States 50 votes, Canada 48, and Indonesia 44.

Backers of the Philippines contend that Yugoslavia's election to the Economic and Social Council weakens Belgrade's chances for the Security Council. Under UN rules, it is possible for a country to be on two of the major councils but the tradition is to give such honor only to the big powers. There have been exceptions.

Fearer and his passengers were bound to Cumberland when the truck overtook their sedan, smashed over it and dumped part of its load of aluminum sheeting upon the twisted wreckage.
