

Convocation to Discuss Land-Grant Education

By SUE CONKLIN

The Centennial Convocation, to be held tomorrow and Saturday, will define and study the many questions concerning the land-grant concept of education and the future of the land-grant institution.

Principles of the Morrill Act, a land-grant legislation enacted ninety-three years ago, are still as valid, and are still being followed as much as when the act was first passed.

Frosh Council Elects Robey To Presidency

Penelope Robey, freshman in arts and letters from Smethport, was elected vice-chairman of Freshman Council last night.

Nancy Hansgen, freshman in education from McKeesport, was elected secretary-treasurer of the council at the same time.

Anne Nitrauer, sophomore senator to Women's Student Government Association Senate, is chairman of the group.

The council also decided to enter a booth in the Mardi Gras, annual carnival held by Mortar Board, senior women's hat society. Miss Robey was appointed chairman of a committee to consider suggestions for the type of booth.

A candidate for Mardi King will be sponsored by the group. Lynn Ward, freshman in business administration from Paoli, was appointed chairman of the committee to decide on the council's candidate.

Possible revisions in the organization of freshman elections of dormitory unit officers were discussed. No definite decision was reached.

Federal Exam To Be Given

Applications for the Federal Service Entrance Examination will be received until Nov. 18 for those desiring a career in the federal government, the United States Civil Service Commission has announced.

The written examination will be given for graduates of the Colleges of Agriculture, Business Administration, the Liberal Arts, Home Economics, Education, and Physical Education, for work other than teaching.

The examination is given during the fall and must be taken by mid-year and June graduates interested in any areas of government work.

Additional information and applications may be obtained at the University Placement Service, 112 Old Main.

Former Economics Instructor Buried

Funeral services for Kenneth Hutchinson, former staff member of the department of economics, were held Saturday in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Hutchinson, 55, who died at his home in Brookline, Mass., last Wednesday, had been chairman of the marketing department at Boston University's College of Business Administration for 10 years before his death.

He earned degrees at Oberlin College and Harvard University, and taught at Harvard Nichols Junior College, West Virginia University and the University before going to Boston University. He is survived by his wife.

Harshbarger to Conduct Demonstration Fireside

A demonstration fireside discussion will be conducted by the Rev. Luther H. Harshbarger, University chaplain, at 7 tonight in McElwain Lounge.

Students and organizations interested in firesides have been invited to attend.

'News and Views' Candidates

Candidates for Home Economics News and Views staff will meet at 6:30 tonight in 209 Home Economics.

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower in his Centennial Birthday Party address on February 22, said "The Morrill Act had four interdependent goals, all designed to strengthen the nation through better education of its youth."

Eisenhower Presents Goals
Dr. Eisenhower said, "First, was that of providing a new type of liberal and practical education at the university level to supplement the classical education we had inherited from Europe."

"This objective quickly crystallized into a second and specific goal to develop systematic training in agriculture and the mechanic arts. The Act and Justin Morrill, its author, stressed yet a third objective, namely, training for children of farmers and workers in the many pursuits and professions of life."

Military Training Stressed
"The fourth objective was to insure a systematic system of military training for a reserve or civilian army, as the cheapest and most democratic method of providing for the national defense."

Material submitted for background material for persons participating in the nine round-table discussions of the convocation shows that the approach of educational leaders of today still parallels that of Morrill.

Guidance to be Discussed
Included in the discussions at the convocation will be the problem of helping to train those who will guide and direct the work of the primary and secondary schools.

Educational leaders will also discuss "the new type of liberal" as well as practical learning described in the first goal of the Land-Grant Act.

Armed Forces Specialize
Increasing specialization in the armed forces has not eliminated the need for the civilian reservist trained to take up arms in an emergency. This phase of the Morrill Act will also receive attention in the round-table talks.

Enrollment trends will probably highlight much of the discussion at the convocation. Although total enrollment in the fall of 1953 at the University was 12,815, it is expected to be 21,000 in 1970. Secondary schools in the country have already felt the impact of this increase.

Increase Expected
The increase in college students is expected partly because of the large increase in college age population, and partly because trends show that an increased percentage of that population will desire higher learning.

WRA Votes Hibbs Fund Contribution

Women's Recreation Association Executive Board Tuesday night voted unanimously to give a sum of money to the Hibbs Memorial Fund.

Mary Conrad, WRA secretary, and Sally Cushman, WRA vice president, will represent WRA at the Pennsylvania Division of Athletic Federation for College Women Convention to be held on Oct. 21-22 at Cheyney, N.Y.

Friday and Saturday nights have been set aside as "Play Nights" in White Hall. All coeds have access to any facilities in the building from 7 to 9 p.m. Bowling, swimming, badminton, bridge, and basketball are included in the many activities. Refreshments are served every Saturday night.

WRA will hold a Field Hockey Sports Day on Saturday with Bucknell University and Lock Haven State Teachers College. A three-team tournament will take place during the afternoon.

Lois Piemme is chairman for the affair, and will be assisted by the following committee heads: Patricia Farrell, hostess; Miriam Jones, refreshments; Kathleen Queensbury, registration; Myrna Paynter, bulletin board; Judith Armstrong, programs; Charlotte Klippel, swimming; Mary Hudcovich, equipment; Louise Needham, uniforms; and Ann Farrell, officials. Dr. Mildred Lucey is the adviser.

Bucknell will host the University on Oct. 29, for a return Hockey Sports Day at Lewisburg.

Pat Barnitz, intramural chairman, reported that the IM Board decided to give five participant points to each winning team in the Hockey League.

Folk Dancing To Be Taught

A beginners' class in folk and square dancing will start Oct. 31 in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

Separate classes will be held Monday through Thursday nights. Students will receive six one-hour lessons.

Students who wish to join the dance class may sign up today at the Hetzel Union desk.

The classes will be sponsored by Agricultural Extension, Future Farmers of America, Hillel Foundation, Newman Club, Penn State Grange, Penn State 4-H Club, Penn State Recreation Society, Pre-Vet Club, University Christian Association, University Park Promenaders and the Outing Club.

Carbon Monoxide Fills Hosler Home

Charles L. Hosler, assistant professor of meteorology, and his family escaped possible injury early Tuesday morning when their home filled with carbon monoxide gas.

The gas had leaked from a faulty coal furnace, making the Hosler children extremely ill with upset stomachs and severe headaches.

Cries from the children's bedroom awakened Hosler and his wife. It was not until the doctor arrived that the couple discovered the cause of the children's illness. The gas is odorless.

WDFM Announces New Programming

A complete new programming schedule, including two nights of broadcasts aimed at a specialized audience and five new programs covering everything from student employment to modern jazz, have been added to the program of student radio station WDFM.

In announcing the new schedule, which went into effect this week, Morton Slakoff, station manager, stated that the series of live and recorded programs eliminates all but one of the all-transcribed programs previously used by the station.

Under the new schedule, the Wednesday evening programming will be aimed at students and other listeners who do not choose to listen to "pop music" or an all-classical program. Striking an in-between note, the schedule will consist of Broadway music, lectures, operatic and other vocal music, and a news roundup.

Wednesday Features "Oldies"

The Wednesday evening programs are not new, but shifted from other nights to round out the specialized schedule.

Two familiar programs, "Marquee Memories" and "Behind the Lectern," will be heard on Wednesday. "Music of People," a program of vocal music from other countries, will follow.

The one transcribed show remaining in the Wednesday schedule, "The BBC Weekly" will be heard from 9 to 9:15 p.m. This is a weekly roundup of world news, as seen from the British viewpoint.

A new classical music program, "Virtuoso" produced by Dominick Landro, will be heard from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"Campus Beat" Is New

Another of the new programs is "Campus Beat." Produced by Sandra Greenspun, station program director, the show will be built around a news and interview format, with members of the news staff taking part. It will be heard from 8:30 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

"The Jazz Club Show," directed by James Munz, a member of the Jazz Club, will keep listeners posted on the happenings in the jazz music world. It will be broadcast from 8 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursdays.

Another "pops" record program, "Starlight Review," will be presented from 7:30 to 8 p.m. Thursday. Charles Bowman will be the man behind the mike.

Charles Bowman and Jack J. Huber, assistant to the director of the University Placement Service, will present a program called "Student Employment," giving students information on how to obtain part-time jobs. The program will have its debut at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday.

News Also
The news staff of WDFM, under George Mastrian, news director, will present a fifteen minute news roundup Monday through Thursday evening at 9:15.

The Sunday program schedule, directed by James Morton, will accent cultural drama and music. The programs will be primarily aimed at a faculty audience.

The station is on the air from 7:15 to 10:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and from 7:25 to 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Blood Drive Committee

The Red Cross Blood Drive Committee will meet at 7 tonight, second floor Hetzel Union Building.

Leonides Plans Open Meeting For Women

Leonides will sponsor an open meeting for all independent women at 6:30 p.m. Monday in 203 Hetzel Union. The meeting will be conducted to acquaint independents with the operation and functions of Leonides.

Women attending have been requested to bring ideas and suggestions for program planning and activities.

A committee has been appointed to arrange for fraternity mixers with independent women. On the committee are Jane Drawbaugh, Rosetta Kearney, Sheila Teplitz, Arabel Wagner, Virginia Watson, Judith McFarland, and Eleanor Daniels.

Leonides will again sponsor a booth and a candidate for king at the Mardi Gras carnival Nov. 11. Arabel Wagner, sophomore in journalism, from Hamburg, was appointed to coordinate work on booth suggestions for the carnival among women from Thompson and McAllister Halls.

Independents will elect unit social chairmen in each residence hall for the purpose of arranging mixers during the year.

The square dance scheduled for Friday night has been cancelled because of the mixer being sponsored by Town Independent Men from 9 p.m. to midnight in the HUB.

17 Selected For AIM Band

Seventeen students have been chosen for the Association of Independent Men's Dance Band.

The selections were announced by Eugene Magill, graduate student in music education from Croyston, director of the band.

Chosen were: Harry Brown, piano; David Morrow, drums; Robert Waterstradt, bass; David Boltz, Warren Dougherty, James Friesell, Larry McAfee, Alan Miller, and Paul Stoerker, sax.

Jerre Friday, Gordon Graham, Glenn Gerber, and James Ressler, trumpet; and William Cunningham, Samuel Parsons, John Sapper, and Paul Snyder, trombone.

The band is sponsored by the office of the dean of men.

Alpha Lambda Delta

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's scholastic honorary society, will meet at 7 tonight in Grange playroom.
