

Educational Program To Be Re-evaluated

By NANCY SHOWALTER

A team of approximately 60 men will arrive on campus Nov. 6 to begin a three-day re-evaluation of the University educational program.

They will decide whether or not the University will remain on the list of accredited schools compiled by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This is the official accrediting organization in this area.

The team is composed of faculty members of schools accredited by the association and representatives of national societies, such as the American Chemical Society. The society members will make two reports—one for their separate societies and one for the association.

Ag Council Discusses Fund Plan

The Agriculture Student Council last night passed a motion to appoint Norman Shue, treasurer, as a committee of one to investigate the possibility of placing all council funds under Associated Student Activities.

The motion was made by Douglas Moorhead, Horticulture Club representative, after Shue reported that his account book had not balanced with that of the University's inter-class finance secretary, who is presently in charge of the council's funds. Shue said that according to his book the council's balance had been $117 in the black. Upon checking with the secretary he found that the council was $30 in the red.

Shue explained that the discrepancy had occurred when some bills were sent straight to the secretary's office instead of passing through the treasurer's hands. He said that she was in charge of signing all checks except those which were paid through an emergency checking account which the treasurer handles.

Moorhead moved that the investigation be made so that future discrepancies might be eliminated. Shue also said that he would talk with the secretary to possibly arrange that all bills would pass through his hands for authorization before being paid.

The constitutional revisions committee reported on the progress of the revisions. The council discussed clauses for membership in the council and appointment of alternates when the delegate can not be present. The first reading of the revised constitution will be given at the next meeting, Nov. 8.

President Fred Seipt appointed Moorhead chairman of the elections committee and Gene Seifrit chairman of the county agents coffee hour, which will be held in December.

An announcement was made that tryouts for the master of ceremonies for the Ag Hill Party will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in 105 Agriculture instead of tonight.
