

Mitchell Talk to Climax Bus Ad Career Day

James P. Mitchell, United States Secretary of Labor, will speak at the final session of the third annual College of Business Administration Career Day Nov. 1.

The program is a day-long series of seven panel discussions, followed by Mitchell's address at 8 p.m. in Schwab Auditorium.

Both are open to the public.

The panel discussions, which begin at 2 p.m., will be divided into sections, each dealing with a certain phase of business. The panels will be headed by representatives from various business fields.

Band to Play At Penn Rally, Pep Parade

The pep rally for the Penn State football game will begin at 7:45 tonight with a parade led by the Air Force ROTC band.

The rally will begin at 8 p.m. in front of Old Main. Frank J. Simes, dean of men, will present a gold and mahogany trophy to the sophomore class, winner of "The Big Pull" tug-of-war between the freshman customs violators and a team of sophomores. It will be presented to Samuel Wolcott, president of the sophomore class.

Members of the football team and coaching staff will speak, and a skit will be enacted by Howard Levine, Senior in pre-med from Spring Valley, N.M., and Harris Coleman, junior in arts and letters from Allentown.

The parade will form between Carnegie Hall and Thompson dormitory and will march into the West Hall quadrangle. From there it will move to Women's Building, McAllister Hall, and disband in front of Old Main.

Hat men and women will meet at the formation of the parade, and round up students in the dorms along the route.

Skull and Bones, senior men's hat society, and Scrolls, senior women's hat society, will sponsor the rally.

Unknown Man Attacks Woman

The dean of women's office reported yesterday that a graduate woman student was attacked by an unidentified man near Atherton Hall Monday night.

Dean of Women Pearl O. Weston said the student managed to break away from her attacker before he could harm her.

The girl, who lives in town, was walking past Elm Cottage when she heard a rustling noise in the bushes near the sidewalk.

Immediately after she heard the noise, a man with a handkerchief wrapped around his face jumped out at her. He attempted to put his hand over her mouth but she broke loose and ran to Atherton Hall.

The incident occurred before closing hours and the doors to the dormitory were open.

The Campus Patrol was unable to locate the attacker since the student could not identify him.

The accounting panel in the Mineral Industries auditorium will be led by I. H. Krekstein, president of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants. Krekstein, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, was formerly deputy secretary of revenue and director of the bureau of corporation for the state.

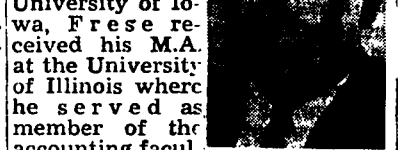

Krekstein

He is now a member of the firm of Laventhol, Krekstein, and Co., certified public accountants.

Also representing the accounting field is Robert C. Perry, controller of the New Products Division of the Corning Glass Works and vice president of the National Association of Cost Accountants.

Perry was awarded the 1955 Lybrand award for articles published in the NACA Bulletin. He will represent careers in private and industrial accounting fields.

The final speaker on the accounting panel will be Walter F. Frese, director of accounting systems, Division of the United States General Accounting Office. A graduate of the University of Iowa, Frese received his M.A. at the University of Illinois where he served as member of the accounting faculty.

Frese

He has also worked for the United States Treasury Department as assistant chief accountant and special treasury representative. Frese will discuss the field of government service.

The economics panel in 124 Sparks will be headed by Dr. Charles Sarle, marketing research counselor for National Analysts Inc., a subsidiary of the Curtis Publishing Co. A graduate of Cornell University, Dr. Sarle holds an M.S. degree from Drake University and a Ph.D.

Student Tags Several Town Residences as 'Fire Traps'

Certain town rooming houses have been termed "fire traps" by a town independent University student in a letter addressed to Dr. Martin McFeathers, chairman of student affairs committee.

Robert Cole, president of Town Independent Men and a member of All-University Town Affairs Committee which reviews problems concerning town independents, said the problem of housing was brought up at the last borough chamber of commerce meeting.

A committee has been appointed, Cole reported, to contact State College fire marshal, Bruce Homan. Homan will be asked to "spot check" several rooming houses, Cole said.

Homan was unavailable for comment last night but Burgess David Mackey said Homan had been contacted after last fall's student encampment about the housing problem and had agreed to investigate.

If Homan sees fit to conduct such an investigation and finds violations of fire and safety rules, Cole continued, he (Cole) and William B. Crafts, town independent dean of men, will ask him to advise owners to install necessary fire and safety equipment. In his letter to McFeathers, the town student, who asks that his name be withheld, said "some buildings students are now living in are fire traps and are almost at a point of what might be considered a housing problem and had agreed (Continued on page eight)
