Englishmen to Argue American Wage Issue Cambridge To Oppose University

Kenneth J. W. Post and John C. York, of Cambridge University, England, and Jonathan Plaut and Edward Klevans, of the University, will take part in the 22nd annual International Debate at 7:30 tonight in 121 Sparks.

They will debate: "Resolved, that the non-agricultural industries of the United States should guarantee their employees an annual wage." Post and York will debate the affirmative and Plaut and Klevans the negative.

Following the debate will be a forum in which the audience may take part. Chairman of the debate, which is open to the public, will be Harold P. Zelko, professor of public speaking.

York, a graduate of Cambridge, is a lawyer and active in the Labor Party. Post, also a graduate of Cambridge, is studying archeology. Post and York will tour and debate in the U.S. for three months.

Plaut and Klevans are members of the men's debating team. This is the first debate of the year for the team which won the Marshall Wythe Debate Tournament at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., and the Eastern Forensic Debate Championship last year.

Plaut, junior in industrial engineering from Long Island, N.Y., has debated for three years and is men's debate manager. He was a member of the two winning teams last year.

Klevans, a junior in electrical engineering from Roaring Spring, was a member of the formerly undefeated team which lost on speaker ratings to Notre Dame University at West Virginia University last year.

The International Debate is held annually with representatives of different countries who come to the U.S. The representatives were from Oxford University last year and from India in 1953-54.

The University debate team will participate in the Muhlenburg tournament, Allentown, and the University of Vermont tournament on Nov. 19. These two tournaments cover practically all of the northeastern colleges.

University Receives Prints From Society

The Society of American Graphic Artists has given 200 prints to the University in memory of the late Dr. Warren B. Mack, professor and head of the department of horticulture, who died in 1952.

Dr. Mack, whose hobby was wood engraving, was a member of the society and exhibited work in many of its shows, winning several prizes.

A selection of prints from the collection will be on exhibition throughout the month at the Hetzel Union Art Gallery.

Also on display will be several prints by Dr. Mack which will be presented to the University by his wife, Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, who served until 1952 as director of the Ellen H. Richards Institute at the University.

When complete, the Mack collection will consist of 41 prints.

A demonstration of graphic arts techniques will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in 10 Sparks to mark the opening of the exhibition. Mrs. Mack, now at Texas State College for Women, Denton, Texas, will be present for the opening of the exhibition.

Ward to Demonstrate

The demonstration will be conducted by Lynd Ward, famous lithographer and engraver and president of the Society of American Graphic Artists, who will demonstrate wood engraving.

Carl M. Schultheiss, etcher and engraver, will show etching and engraving techniques. Lithography will be demonstrated by George S. Zoretich, assistant professor of fine arts at the University. The demonstration will be televised on a closed circuit.

The idea of a memorial for Dr. Mack was originated by Mr. Ward, a personal friend of the late professor, and Charles T. Douds, of Englewood, N.J., a University alumnus and a member of the class of 1922. It was decided that the memorial should be in the form of a gift of prints to the University. Most of the prints in the collection have been donated by the artists.

Douds to Attend

Mr. Douds, who is director of the second region of the National Labor Relations Board in New York, and Mrs. Douds will attend the opening of the exhibition and the demonstrations.

The exhibition has been arranged by the University Art Committee. Francis E. Hyslop, Jr., associate professor of fine arts, is

WATCH YOUR TALK!

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in both social and business advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, self confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a 24-page booklet, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation whatsoever. Simply send your request to: Conversation Studies, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 4457, Chicago 14, Ill. A postcard will do.
