

U.S. Urges Arab, Israeli Parleys

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The United States today prodded Israel and the Arab states to hold high-level peace talks instead of trying to fight out their "explosive" border dispute.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said such talks "would be welcome." He thus endorsed a call by Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, for face-to-face parleys with Arab leaders.

Byrnes Hits Assertion By Truman

COLUMBIA, S.C., Nov. 3 (AP)—James F. Byrnes denied and called "shocking" today an assertion by former President Truman that Byrnes falsely claimed the support of Franklin D. Roosevelt in seeking the Democratic vice presidential nomination in 1944.

Byrnes, who was Truman's secretary of state and later governor of South Carolina, also denied another statement in Truman's newly published memoirs—that Truman scolded him for going beyond his authority in the 1945 foreign ministers conference at Moscow.

Supports Stand

In support of his stand, Byrnes released for publication an autograph inscription in a book which demonstrates, he said, that Truman sought his friendship as late as August, 1952. The South Carolinian commented:

"It is difficult to reconcile Mr. Truman's privately expressed desire for my friendship with his publicly expressed reflections upon my integrity and my public service." Asserting he kept Truman informed to the extent communications permitted, Byrnes declared:

Would Have Resigned

"Had President Truman read to me in January, 1946, the 'lecture' he now reports, I certainly would have resigned immediately; not in personal pique but because of my deep conviction that the President of the United States must at all times have complete confidence in his secretary of state, and that it would have been detrimental to the national interest for me to remain in office if I did not enjoy such confidence."

As for the charge he misled Truman on the vice presidential nomination, Byrnes said:

"I did not tell him President Roosevelt would advocate my nomination. I did not know that the President favored him."

In Cairo and Washington, however, Arab leaders challenged Ben-Gurion's sincerity.

Statements from Egyptian officials in Cairo and from Egypt's embassy in Washington contended border fighting which flared today was planned even as Ben-Gurion urged peace talks yesterday.

White told his news conference today the United States is concerned about fighting along the Israeli-Egyptian border. He said the State Department is "exploring ways and means by which the United Nations can be helpful to this situation."

East Explosive

White said the Middle East picture "has been explosive for some time." In view of the new fighting, he said, "it's getting worse."

The chief responsibility rests with the United Nations, whose Security Council is specifically charged with maintaining world peace. The Council could, for example, investigate and recommend solutions—but its actions are subject to a Soviet veto.

'Urging Sobriety'

White said the United States is "urging sobriety" in Cairo and Tel Aviv. He said U.S. diplomats there are doing everything possible "to calm tempers."

But he recalled a recent observation by Secretary of State Dulles that the United States can't resolve all the world's tribulations.

Dulles is making a personal appeal to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov at the Geneva conference on the subject of Communist arms shipments to the Egyptians.

Ike Takes Walk; Leaves Wheelchair

DENVER, Nov. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower discarded his wheelchair around his hospital quarters today and for the first time walked onto an outdoor terrace to soak in sunshine and brisk air.

For several days now, the President has been able to stroll at will around his room and through the corridors on the eighth floor of Fitzsimons Army Hospital. Today his doctors told him he could walk anywhere around the one level—the sundeck and an auditorium included.

Leader Says Duff Slowed Progress

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 3 (AP)—Gov. Leader contended tonight that Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa) is "calling the signals" for legislature Republicans "to impede and thwart the progress of my administration."

"Sen. Duff realizes it would be a tremendous political liability to him next year if the Democratic administration in Harrisburg made a good showing in cleaning up the fiasco of Republican rule over a 16-year period," the governor told a Lackawanna County Democratic Committee dinner here.

Reply to Duff

Leader made the statement in reply to an address by Duff in which the senator termed the governor's leadership "a short pants administration" and described Leader as a "boy scout."

The governor called on Duff to "pass the word to his legislative spokesman in Harrisburg to free the Democratic industrial development bills now frozen in the Republican-controlled Senate."

"Obviously," Leader declared, "for political reasons he doesn't want us to come up with a progressive program that will breathe new life into stagnant industrial conditions."

The governor added that "senator Duff figures the worse the situation becomes, the worse it will be for the Democratic party."

Flood Damage Report Given

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Rev. Roger C. Stimson, head of the flood control committee of Stroudsburg, Pa., today gave a word picture of his flood-damaged community to the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

The committee is studying the possibility of a federal insurance program against natural disasters.

The Rev. Mr. Stimson, pastor of the Methodist Church Center in Stroudsburg, said that during the Aug. 18-19 flood 93 houses were destroyed in Stroudsburg and 547 were damaged.

The American Red Cross is attempting to rebuild 39 buildings and is in the process of raising funds to repair 297, he testified.

Turnpike Extension To Be Dedicated

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3 (AP)—Gov. Leader said today the first section of the proposed 110-mile northeastern extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike will be dedicated Nov. 22.

At the same time, the governor said through his office, that the following day is tentatively set for opening the 37-mile stretch to traffic.

West Says Russia Is Violating 'Spirit'

GENEVA, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Western powers accused Russia tonight of violating the "spirit of Geneva" by refusing to offer any plan for the unification of Germany by free elections.

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Marold Macmillan, and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay reproached Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov for his opposition to giving the Germans free choice of their destiny. Molotov sharply challenged the West's ideas on German unification.

Accused Last July

The Western ministers accused him of violating the letter and spirit of the Big Four summit conference here last July. That conference directed the foreign ministers to reunify Germany "by free elections in conformity with the national interests of the German people and the interests of European security."

For the second time in 24 hours, Dulles assured Molotov "there is before us a realizable vision of security in Europe by means of a treaty."

Insists on Point

But he insisted again this depends on making "similar progress with respect to the reunification of Germany."

In a 3000-word speech, the American sought to make Molotov's opposition to free German elections untenable before world opinion. He accused the Soviet diplomat of "complete failure" to comply with the summit conference's directive on this point.

He condemned the Soviet plan for an all-German council, made up of parliamentarians from the East and West republics, as contemplating "not the reunification of Germany, but the cooperation of two German states."

Boston Fugitive Shoots Self

MANCHESTER, Mass., Nov. 3 (AP)—A Boston advertising executive shot and killed himself today while police were seeking him on a murder warrant in the death of a 22-year-old Pennsylvania girl bank teller whose skeleton was found Tuesday in Connecticut.

Police Chief Allan Andrews said that Medical Examiner Winfred G. Stickney reported that William R. Turner, 40, committed suicide by firing a shot into his abdomen.

Turner's body was found propped against a seawall. His stomach was ripped open by a shot or shots from a .45 caliber pistol.

Detective Lewis Penman of the Pennsylvania State Police said Turner was being sought at the time on a warrant charging murder in the death of Miss Doris Hatch, 22, of Cambridge Springs, Pa.

The girl's skeleton was found Tuesday by a hunter at Stafford Springs, Conn.

Penman said the warrant for Turner was issued by Justice of the Peace C. L. Saunders of Meadville, Pa., after the girl's skeleton was found.

The girl, a former bank teller in her hometown, had worked parttime for Turner in his family hardware store.

UN Agency Given Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 3 (AP)—The office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees was awarded the Nobel peace prize today.

Established in 1951 to protect racial, religious and political refugees, the office administers the UN refugee emergency fund which provides financial aid for the neediest among them. The peace prize cash award of $35,066 will go directly into this fund.

Agency in Geneva

The refugee agency headquarters is in Geneva. Its director is Dr. G. J. Van Heuven Goedhart, an Amsterdam editor and former Dutch minister of justice.

A committee of five selected by the Norwegian Parliament names the peace prize winner. Reasons for the award never are stated. Today's award was for 1954. The committee postponed naming a winner for 1955.

An aide said the prize money probably will be devoted to a single project of the refugee office. Officials at UN headquarters said the refugee agency's funds presently are at a low point, only 2½ million dollars having been pledged by 16 countries toward a goal of $4,200,000 this year.

Arranged Meeting

A special committee had arranged a meeting today to seek more pledges to the refugees fund before the Nobel award was announced.

Van Heuven Goedhart, a wartime resistance leader and once chief of the Dutch UN delegation, was named to head the refugee office when the International Refugee Organization expired.

Vaccine Called Effective Against One 'Cold-Type'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Public Health Service and Johns Hopkins University today jointly announced successful trial of a still-experimental vaccine against a common form of "cold-type" illness.

But illness against which it has shown evidence of high protection is only one of many cold-type ailments, the Health Service said.

The joint announcement said experiments with prisoner volunteers indicate that the vaccine provides "substantial protection for human beings" against one of the nine "APC" viruses.

That's a family of respiratory viruses discovered several years ago. The initials stand for adenoidal pharyngeal, conjunctival. The APC viruses usually attack the adenoid, throat and eye tissue.

Deals With Type 3 APC

The current research dealt with Type 3 APC virus, which causes a five-day illness marked by fever, sore throat and conjunctivitis, or "red eye." This sickness can occur sporadically or in sharp outbreaks or epidemics.

The researchers stressed that "there is no prospect for production of the vaccine for public use in the near future."

Moreover, they emphasized that:

1. The present vaccine is designed against only one of the nine APC organisms, and that research must be undertaken to develop an experimental vaccine against the entire group.

2. Infections caused by all the APC viruses constitute only part of the over-all problem of common respiratory—or cold-type diseases—which strike the average American six times a year and cost the nation several billions of dollars in terms of absence from work or school and resultant lowered productivity.

The announcement concerning the experimental vaccine was made coincident with publication of a technical report by the researchers in the Journal of the American Medical Assn.
