

Campaigns to Continue In Dorms, Fraternities

Campus and Lion parties have reached the half-way point in campaigning for freshman and sophomore class candidates.

Campaigning in dormitories and fraternities will be held today, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. All-University elections will be held Thursday and Friday.

Freshman male candidates are campaigning during the evenings in the West dormitories and the Nittany-Pollock dormitories.

Sophomore male candidates are campaigning in the men's dormitories in the evenings as well as at the fraternity houses during noon and evening meals.

New Publication Presented to MI Student Council

The first issue of "The Prospector," Mineral Industries Student Council publication, was presented to council members at a meeting Wednesday night.

James Stratton, sophomore in geophysics and geochemistry from Philadelphia, is editor.

The publication will appear monthly. Copies are being distributed free of charge today at the Mineral Industries Building.

Contents of the magazine include a message from Dr. Elbert F. Osborn, dean of the College of Mineral Industries, the MI dean's list, a message from Edwin Tocker, president of the council, club and honorary societies reports, and an article on academic honesty by Benjamin F. Howells, chairman of the Senate Committee on academic honesty.

Donald Kauffman, junior in petroleum and natural gas engineering from Huntingdon, was elected Council secretary-treasurer to succeed James Varshay, who has resigned.

Richer Named Chairman Of Advisory Council

Dr. A. Chester Richer, professor of soil technology, has been elected chairman of the Faculty Advisory Council for the current year.

Other officers named at the organization meeting of the council are George J. Free, professor of education, vice chairman; and Dr. Evan Johnson Jr., professor of mathematics, secretary.

Chem-Phys Council

The Chem-Phys Council will hold a student-faculty banquet November 16 at the Eutaw House.

The agenda for the banquet includes discussion on the annual Chem-Phys Open House and Science Fair held in the Spring, student-faculty relations, and course evaluation.

State Rally--

Entries in the banner contest were judged on originality of slogan, artistic appearance, esprit de corps, overall group appearance, cohesiveness of group with banner, and participation.

Judges for the contest are Suzanne Scholl, junior in home economics from Glenshaw; Marilyn Seltzer, junior in home economics from Lansdowne; Margaret Pearce, junior in journalism from Reading; Daniel Land, junior in industrial engineering from Ardmore; Harry Fuehrer, junior in industrial engineering from Havertown; Thomas Hollenbach, junior in architecture from West Milton; Joyce Koch, junior in education from Rahway, N.J.; Patricia Jones, junior in business administration from Shamokin; and Barbara Hendel, junior in medical technology from Holidaysburg.

Some entrants in the contest had as many as three signs. Several sang songs or chants, and several gave cheers according to their respective signs. A few entries had torches, and several presented skits for the audience. One group carried in a lion, and another a wounded body. The general theme for all the entrants was "Crush the Orange."

NSA Report--

Beard asked to delay further talk until he receives a reply from NSA. He affirmed his faith in the democracy of NSA and said he feels that NSA is "in no way subversive." He cautioned council presidents not to tell their groups, "We think NSA is subversive." Cabinet will merely attempt to find out what the case is.

George L. Donovan, director of associated student activities, concurred with Beard saying that Time magazine in its latest issue implied that the Fund for the Republic, sponsor of the report, was too liberal and loose in its talk.

Beard said that NSA obtained and sent out copies of the report for one of two reasons. Either it wishes to point out the existence of the report to college students, or the Association agrees with the philosophies voiced by Watts.

Entries Due Today For Mardi Gras King

Today is the last day organizations may enter a contestant in the Mardi Gras king contest. Pictures of the candidates must be turned in by noon today at the Hetsel Union desk.

The Mardi Gras, sponsored by Mortar Board, will be held Nov. 11.

'Mikado'--

Ken Cooper, playing the role of a high official, falls into the category of poor singing with some acting ability.

The orchestra, conducted by Raymond H. Brown, assistant professor of music, contributes as much as anything to the high plane of the production. If not for this contribution of music, the play would have floundered.

Music may be excellent, but costuming and make-up leave much to be desired—as bobbysocked actors with gauntly painted faces strut the stage.

Players, in attempting a Gilbert and Sullivan production, took a long, large leap. But by combining forces with the music and drama departments, affords an enjoyable evening's entertainment with good presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's sprightly lyrics.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"It sounded good to me"

Charles Poole, B.S. in Business Administration, Boston University, '52, is working for New Jersey Bell Telephone Company as a Traffic Superintendent. For a young man he has a lot of responsibility. And responsibility is what he likes. He has three New Jersey exchanges under his supervision—Dover, Madison and Washington—which total nearly 16,000 customers, and he manages a force of some 160 operators, including nine chief operators and fifteen service assistants.

"It's the type of job," says Charlie, happily, "where you can never say you're caught up. There's always something to do." Each day brings Charlie new problems, new experiences. And with every passing day his grasp of the telephone business is getting stronger, his value to the company is growing.

That spells the kind of future that Charlie wants: the opportunity to take an ever-increasing part in an ever-expanding business.

"It sounded good to me," Charlie says, remembering what he thought when the telephone interviewer had finished telling him about the company and its future. And, as you might expect, it still sounds good to him.

Charlie Poole is typical of the many young men who are building careers in telephone work. Similar opportunities exist today with other telephone companies, and also with Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has the details.
