

Blood Donations Exceed Half Of 900-Pint Goal

By MARIAN BEATTY

The student blood drive reached the halfway mark of its 900-pint goal yesterday as 290 students donated blood in the second day of the drive.

Ninety-six of the 222 students scheduled failed to keep their appointments, but this was offset by 104 walk-ins who gave blood. An additional 23 volunteers were rejected for physical reasons.

Almost 300 walk-ins will be needed tomorrow if the drive is to reach its goal. Walk-ins must come to the bloodmobile by 3:40 p.m.

Judging Team Takes Honors In Competition

The University dairy cattle judging team took top honors in three recent judging contests.

The team competed Oct. 3 at the National Intercollegiate contest in Waterloo, Iowa and placed among the highest in judging Ayrshires. The team took third place in Holsteins and Brown Swiss. This was also the third time for the team to take first place in individual breeds.

The team ranked fourth in total scores at the International Intercollegiate contest Oct. 10 in Chicago. This event was a feature event of the International Dairy Show. In addition, Penn State placed first in judging Brown Swiss at the Eastern States Exposition Sept. 19 at West Springfield, Mass.

Coldest Day Reported

Yesterday, with a low temperature of 32 degrees and a high of 36, was the coldest day of the year, according to the meteorology department.

Weather today will be partly cloudy and continued cold with a high of 36. Occasional snow flurries are also predicted.

Judicial Recommends Probation for 3

The Association of Independent Men's Judicial Board of Review last night recommended to the dean of men's office that two freshmen from the Nittany area be put on disciplinary probation, and that a third Nittany area freshman receive office and board probation.

The two who received disciplinary probation, the heavier of the two penalties, were involved in an incident of lighting a fire in one of the Nittany dormitories.

They allegedly poured shaving lotion, which contained alcohol, under the door of a nearby room and ignited it. The students said they meant only to play a prank on the occupant of the room.

The counselor who reported the case said that he appeared on the scene shortly after the incident occurred and found bits of burnt paper and marks where the floor had been charred by the fire.

The other student was accused of lighting a firecracker in the same dormitory not long after the previous incident occurred. He admitted walking through the dormitory and seeing the students lighting the shaving lotion under the door. He said he ran over to his own dormitory, obtained the firecracker and came back with the intention of setting it off to add to the horseplay.

However, he found the dormitory hall empty on his return, so he set off the firecracker and ran out of the dormitory. When he learned that the students who were involved in the earlier incident were also being blamed for the firecracker incident, he turned himself in to the residence counselor.

The board felt the incident, which might have received a much stiffer penalty in view of the University's specific rule against firecrackers, received a somewhat milder recommenda-

Leonides To Sponsor Hostess Tea

Leonides, independent women's organization, will sponsor a tea in honor of 19 housemothers at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 21 in the main lounge of McElwain Hall.

Judith Pendleton, Leonides president, announced that the tea will be held in place of the regular meeting of the group.

The council voted to put into effect the plan to establish blue book files for independent women in each dormitory. Miss Pendleton, Camelia Blount, Ruth Kaplan, Barbara Butler, and Judith McFarland were appointed to a committee that will work up details on the checking system to be used and the place for filing the blue books.

Originally, independent women were asked to bring blue books to the Leonides office in the Hetzel Union Building for filing. Miss Pendleton said this central location plan would not operate effectively because there are so many independent women on campus that the demand would far exceed the service that could be offered from the HUB. Independents have been asked instead to give their blue books to the Leonides representative in their dormitory.

Four "jills-in-the-box" will carry out Leonides' theme for their booth in the Mardi Gras festival. Socks will be rolled up to use as throwers. For successful "hits," lollypops will be given as prizes.

AFC to Meet, Discuss FMA

The Association of Fraternity Counselors will discuss the future of the Fraternity Marketing Association at its meeting at 6:30 tonight at Sigma Pi fraternity.

FMA has recently been the subject of much discussion in Interfraternity Council. The group, which acts as a buying agent for member fraternities, has failed to secure a majority of fraternities as members. FMA has threatened dissolution if more fraternities do not join.

AFC is composed of fraternity advisers. The group acts as a sounding board for fraternity problems, but cannot legislate on fraternity affairs.

Evaluators Study Education Program

By NANCY SHOWALTER

The University's educational program is undergoing a thorough evaluation under the scrutiny of 58 members of an accrediting association.

The team arrived at the University Sunday afternoon, and have been interviewing University officers, faculty members, and students.

The program will continue through this afternoon, although some team members may stay over until tomorrow to visit departments they did not have time to visit previously.

The team is made up of members of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the official accrediting organization in this area.

Named to First List The team will determine whether the University will remain an accredited University. The University was on the association's first list of accredited schools in 1921. Since then the group decided to re-evaluate every ten years. This is the first time the University will be re-evaluated.

The students interviewed by the team were chosen at random by the college deans and department heads to meet with the team in groups.

The evaluators also visited several classes. The visit to the University is the last step in the evaluation program.

Questionnaires Returned Questionnaires dealing with the objectives of the University were filled out earlier by faculty members and submitted to the association. Before visiting the campus, the evaluators visited the extension centers.

The organization has no set
