

Class Elections Start Today

12 Candidates Running For Frosh, Soph Posts

By TED SERRILL

Freshmen and sophomores will begin voting for their class officers today in the card room of the Hetzel Union Building.

Voting will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and tomorrow. Only first through fourth semester students may vote.

Samuel Moyer, Lion party, and Bruce Walsh, Campus party, will oppose each other for freshman class president.

Big 4 Still Deadlocked On Germany

GENEVA, Nov. 9 (AP)—Russia kept alive the European security issue tonight in the deadlocked Big Four conference with last-minute proposals to cut rival German armed forces and pull out half the foreign troops in Germany.

In a maneuver that caught the three Western foreign ministers by surprise, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov committed them to return to his security proposals next week after they finish discussing the two remaining points on the agenda—disarmament and East-West contacts.

Molotov proposed:

1. Reduction of the number of foreign troops in Germany "by, say, 50 per cent." He set no time limit for this.

2. Reduction of the total armed forces of the Big Four powers by a number equivalent to their troops withdrawn from Germany. He did not quote figures but such reductions were unofficially estimated at 150,000 for Russia, 125,000 for the United States, 50,000 for Britain, and 30,000 for France.

3. Reduction in the strength of the armed units in both the East and West German republics. The East Communist forces exceed 100,000 men. The Bonn republic's only armed contingents are 20,000 frontier police.

4. A non-aggression treaty by the 15-power Atlantic Alliance and the seven power Western European Union with the Warsaw pact bloc of Russia and six Communist satellites. The treaty had been suggested by Premier Nikolai Bulganin at the summit conference but withheld by Molotov from the foreign ministers until tonight.

Running for sophomore class president are William Coale, Campus party, and Edward Long, Lion party.

Other campus party sophomore candidates are Richard Holman, vice president; and Patricia Moran, secretary-treasurer. Freshman class candidates are Alvin Clemens, vice president, and Dolores Dodson, secretary-treasurer.

4 on Lion Ticket
The remaining four running on the Lion party ticket are Richard Schlipp, sophomore vice president; Barbara Rinehart, sophomore secretary-treasurer; Arthur Pfautz, freshman vice president, and Mary Nash, freshman secretary-treasurer.

Students must present their matriculation cards to vote. Voters' names will be checked off lists of all freshmen and sophomores. Two voting machines, procured by the All-University Elections Committee, will be placed in operation for the elections. Voters may either vote for all candidates in a party or may split their tickets.

Subject to Discipline
Any students found voting more than once will be subject to disciplinary action by the deans' offices.

Ten days of campaigning by the parties ended at midnight last night as candidates canvassed the last of the dormitories on their campaign schedules.

In lieu of regular platforms, Lion party submitted an open letter to students and Campus party released a statement of policy. They have been used during the campaigns as statements of the parties' beliefs and suggestions towards bettering students' campus life and activities.

Suggests Four Points
Campus party suggested four points: the establishment of freshman and sophomore class advisory boards; better communication between freshmen and upperclassmen, possibly by a change in the Orientation Week program; better and more diverse recreation facilities; and further extension and use of Cabinet Personnel Interviewing Committee, possibly by having class officers use the

Sunday Movies Await 3 Week Legal Interval

Sunday movies will not be shown in the borough for approximately three or four weeks, Robert G. Neilson, manager of the three local theaters, said yesterday.

The reason for the delay, Neilson explained, is due to legal procedures that must be followed when a referendum of this sort is approved.

Neilson said the theaters are obliged by law to wait for five days for the opposition, if there is any, to contest the election.

Accreditors Terminate Evaluation

The school's evaluation program officially closed yesterday when most of the 58 accreditors left the campus.

A few stayed over until today to finish what they didn't have time to finish previously.

The team will determine whether the University will remain an accredited university for the next 10 years. At that time the school will be evaluated again.

Results Available in January
The results of the visit will not be available to the University until January, after the individual member reports are compiled into one.

The evaluators, who arrived Sunday, interviewed University officers, faculty members, and students, and visited classes.

Students were chosen at random by college deans and department heads to meet with the team in groups.

The team represents the official accreditation organization in this area, the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Determined Objectives
In interviewing and attending classes, they attempted to determine how well the University's objectives are being carried out, and the objectives themselves, are the basis for the evaluation, rather than whether or not the school's educational program reaches set standards.

After the five-day waiting period, the board of elections must officially approve the vote. The board of elections in Centre county is composed of the county commissioners.

Following the approval of the vote, the theaters must then be notified officially that the showing of Sunday movies has been approved.

The voters of State College approved the measure by a 222-vote margin in Tuesday's election. This is the largest margin either way since the issue was first put on the ballot in 1947.

3 Precincts Vote Against Measure
Three of the six borough precincts voted against the measure. The south precinct, the largest in the borough, returned a 238-vote margin in favor of the referendum.

The Rev. Melvin Whitmire, who headed a group of nine ministers who voiced opposition to the measure in the election campaign, said yesterday that only time will determine the wisdom of the decision.

In a prepared statement, he said: "The folly or the wisdom of the decision to approve Sunday movies will be validated by time, as will the clarification of whether they are peripheral or central to the moral and spiritual tone of our community."

Opposed for Effect on Community
He stressed the fact that he opposed the showing of Sunday movies only from the standpoint of their effect on the community and not the campus.

The Rev. Whitmire said the outcome of the vote has not changed his opinion of the issue but that he did not consider it a "preaching issue."

In addition to the borough, College Township and Philipsburg also approved the measure.

Eng Dean Wins Seat On Council

Dr. Eric A. Walker, dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture, was the sole University faculty-staff member to win a seat on the borough council in Tuesday's elections.

Five faculty-staff members were among eight nominees for the four council seats.

Complete unofficial returns showed that Dr. Walker, Republican, polled the largest number

Individual totals in Tuesday's elections:
Dr. Eric A. Walker (R) .. 2319
Robert H. Breon Jr. (R) .. 2254
Mrs. Gladys Tanner (R) .. 2142
Ned C. Cummings (R) 2054
Mrs. Edith Anderson (D) .. 1853
Ralph W. McComb (D) .. 1629
Dr. Pennoyer English (D) 1416
James F. Keim (D) 1334

of votes among the eight candidates with a 2319 total. He was followed in the voting by three Republican running mates.

The four defeated faculty-staff candidates, all Democrats, were Dr. Pennoyer F. English, professor of wildlife management; Mrs. Edith H. Anderson, secretary in the Division of Intermediate Registration; Ralph W. McComb, University librarian; and James F. Keim, associate professor of agriculture extension.

The four Republicans won despite Democratic charges of a Republican monopoly and a lack of a Democratic viewpoint on the council.

Lion Candidates

Cabinet Committee Suggestions Due

Presidents of the student councils may turn in their suggestions of students for an All-University Cabinet committee to investigate the possibilities of holding Sunday evening recreation programs in the student government office in the Hetzel Union Building before Cabinet meets at 7 tonight.

All-University President Earl Seely requested at last week's Cabinet meeting that council presidents having suggestions should refer them to him.
