

Leader Says Budget Won't Be Increased To Construct Dorms

By ROY WILLIAMS
Daily Collegian Sports Editor

Governor George M. Leader said at his weekly press conference yesterday he seriously doubts that the proposed $24.5 million state appropriation for the University during the next biennium can be increased, despite criticism from Harrisburg correspondent Duke Kaminsky that present dormitory facilities are inadequate and antiquated.

Leader, who emphasized he was wholeheartedly behind the expansion program at the University and President Milton S. Eisenhower's plans for development, said he doubts that the appropriation will go beyond the present request.

The present budget request for the University—$24.5 million—is $4.5 million over the last state appropriation.

The state budget is now in committee and will not be brought before the General Assembly at least until it convenes Monday.

Kaminsky Condemns Dorms

Kaminsky, Harrisburg political reporter for the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, asked what was planned for the Nittany-Pollock dormitories, which he said were "not fit for swine to live in," while the construction of cattle barns was subsidized by the state.

Leader explained that state money cannot be used for dormitories. He explained that the Nittany-Pollock dorms must be self-liquidated and not financed by state money.

One method for the University to raise money for dormitory construction is by floating bonds through the General State Authority, a state borrowing agency. Leader said the dormitories would eventually be replaced.

No Serious Problems—Leader. The Governor said, in effect, that the University was not having any serious dormitory problems.

"Some of the dorms at the state teacher's colleges are in worse condition than Penn State dormitories," Leader said.

When he opened the discussion, Kaminsky asked the governor if he planned to make a personal inspection of state-financed colleges and universities.

Leader answered, "I hope to inspect all state financed schools, although I haven't as yet."

Leader Has Visited
Leader visited the University last spring during the Centennial celebration. He said he has not yet seen the Nittany-Pollock area.

Kaminsky, a former student at the University, asked the questions specifically to "get a local touch" for a visiting journalism class taught by Dr. Frederick B. Marbut, professor of journalism. Dr. Marbut took the class to Harrisburg for a tour of Capitol Hill and the governor's press conference.

Fraternities Will Hold Open House Sunday

Fraternities at the University will hold open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Robert Bullock, IFC president, said yesterday.

The open houses, held in conjunction with the IFC rushing program, is to better acquaint the freshman with fraternity life.

Bullock urged students to visit as many fraternities as possible.

LA Student Penalized For Cheating

A student in the College of the Liberal Arts has been placed on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the academic year by the college's committee on academic honesty.

The student was found using crib notes while taking an examination on Oct. 26. Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, has announced.

Kenworthy said the case was the first of the semester involving the academic honesty program which was referred to his office for approval. Only recommendations of disciplinary probation or suspension are referred to Kenworthy.

The disciplinary action was invoked by the college committee on Nov. 4. The student admitted to the committee he was guilty of cheating, Kenworthy said.

Disciplinary probation requires that a student not hold an office or participate actively in a campus activity or organization, although he may remain a member of the organization.

Under the academic honesty program begun at the University last semester, any cases of dishonesty are reported to the heads of the departments and the deans of the colleges in which the acts are committed.

Types of dishonesty and penalties given include premeditated cheating requiring probationary memorandums, premeditated cheating requiring disciplinary probation; and cooperative, premeditated cheating, such as sending a substitute to an examination. The latter requires a penalty of suspension from the University.

Phi Kappa Tau Fined by IFC

Phi Kappa Tau fraternity was fined $35 by Interfraternity Council Board of Control Wednesday night for violating the fraternity pledging and rushing code.

The violated rules states: "The official pledging list and the two dollar pledge fee must be turned in not later than two weeks following the date of pledging."

It was the second case of pledging and rushing violation discovered by the Fraternity Affairs Office within the past month. Alpha Phi Delta was fined by IFC Board of Control three weeks ago.

Frosh, Soph Vote Returns Are Light

950 Voters Cast Ballots On 1st Day

First-day voting was light yesterday as only 950 of 7021 eligible voters, or 13 per cent, went to the polls to elect freshman and sophomore class officers.

The centralized polling place, located in the television room in the basement of the Hetzel Union Building, will reopen at 8:30 a.m. today. Voting will end at 5 p.m. today.

Three hundred twenty-eight of 2919 eligible sophomores cast votes, while 622 of 4102 freshmen voted, according to Elections Committee tabulations.

Sophomore Vote Reported
Voting sophomores represented 11.2 per cent of their class, while 15.1 per cent of the freshman class cast votes.

In last year's elections, which were held for one day under a decentralized system, 24.7 per cent of the sophomore class voted to 41.9 per cent of eligible freshmen.

Roger Beidler, chairman of the All-University Elections Committee, said yesterday that voting was poor, especially among sophomores.

Beidler said he expects a greater turnout today, providing that the weather is good. He explained that more classes are scheduled on Fridays than Thursdays, causing more people to be on campus and closer to the HUB.

Voting Heaviest Between Classes
He also said that voting was heaviest during intervals between classes.

In order to vote a student must present his matriculation card so members of Elections Committee may check his name from the master list of eligible voters. Sophomores present their matriculation card at the first desk inside the room. The freshman registration table is in the rear of the room. Voting machines are being used to tabulate the votes.

Candidates Listed
Campus party candidates for freshman offices are Bruce Walsh, president; Alvin Clemens, vice president; and Dolores Dodson, secretary-treasurer.

Lion party freshman candidates are Samuel Moyer, president; Arthur Pfautz, vice president; and Mary Nash, secretary-treasurer.

Lion party candidates for sophomore offices are Edward Long, president; Richard Schilpp, vice president; and Barbara Rinehart, secretary-treasurer.

Campus party-sophomore candidates are William Coale, president; Richard Holman, vice president; and Patricia Moran, secretary-treasurer.

The two students are Nicholas Richards, sophomore in electrical engineering from Churchtown and Edwin Nichols, sophomore in arts and letters from Washington, D.C.

Encampment Report Accepted by Cabinet

All-University Cabinet last night accepted a report of recommendations on student government that included a recommendation that Cabinet reconsider its own membership.

Several recommendations were referred to Cabinet committees and would-be committees. The report was submitted by Robert McMillan, senior class president and member of the Student Encampment Student Government Committee.

The recommendation of Cabinet membership was referred to a special committee. The referendum, as moved by Robert Bullock, Interfraternity Council president, asked All-University President Earl Seely, to appoint the special committee to report back to Cabinet within four weeks.

The Student Government Committee felt some of the organizations represented on Cabinet do not represent a majority of the students. Four groups specifically identified were the Women's Recreation Association, the Athletic Association, the Board of Dramatics and Forensics, and the Board of Publications.

The committee recommended, as possible additions or replacements, the inclusion on Cabinet

Got an 'A'?
A Free Froth
For Lucky You!

They're givin' 'em away—Froth, that is, to anyone having a 4 or an A on a bluebook.

Yes, lucky students who have earned a A may pick up their free copy of Froth between 11 and noon today at the Corner Room booth.

Accompanied by Sigmund Fraud and a Streetcar Named Unconscious, Froth has escaped from the psych lab and should be of interest to all white mice, psychopaths, neurotics, and psych pros.

So beware! And don't be influenced by this mixed-up issue of ridiculous absurdities.

Molotov Scores Air Inspection Plans

GENEVA, Nov. 10 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov declared tonight President Dwight D. Eisenhower's proposal for immediate U.S.-Russian exchange of military blueprints and reciprocal air inspection "would strengthen mutual distrust."

The Russian told the Big Four conference the President had good intentions but his idea for quickly wiping out fear of surprise atomic attack would, instead, increase international tension. Molotov said the American proposal could only be considered in the final stage of world disarmament. His negative reaction deepened the gloomy atmosphere of the conference. It meant the foreign ministers disagreed on practical approaches to disarmament. They had already failed to agree on European security and German reunification.

On the only other remaining point of their agenda—development of East-West contacts—an experts committee has made no substantial progress.

The foreign ministers will meet in private tomorrow to chart the final course of their negotiations, expected to conclude next Wednesday.

Molotov criticized the Eisenhower "open skies" plan with these allegations:

1. "It does not diminish the danger of a new war and does not relieve the peoples of the heavy burden of arms taxation," because it is isolated from a general disarmament program.

2. It covers only U.S. territory and not U.S. bases overseas or those of America's allies.

3. It is too costly and prolonged an operation.

4. It would aggravate suspicion rather than increase confidence.

5. It provides no security for the Soviet Union, and in fact, would supply Russia's enemies the "appropriate information for a surprise attack."

Molotov added that his government would alter its "negative attitude" if the President's proposal were made part of a general reduction of armaments and prohibition of atomic weapons.

Frosh-Soph Mixer To Be Held in HUB

The freshman and sophomore classes will sponsor a joint mixer from 2 to 5 p.m. tomorrow in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

The Tri-Tones, a combo, will provide music for dancing. Arthur Schraivesande, freshman class president, and Samuel Wolcott, sophomore class president, will give farewell addresses.

The new freshman and sophomore class officers will be elected tomorrow and Friday.
