Elections—

(Continued from page one) sophomores out of an eligible 2919 voted in the election. This was a percentage of 25.1 or 4 per cent higher than last fall's percentage of 24.7, when 698 out of 2818 sophomores voted.

These figures show that more freshmen and sophomores—1936—voted last fall than the 1896 students who voted in yesterday's election. For the first time, fall elections were held on two days, Thursday and yesterday, rather than on one day as in the past.

Use Voting Machines
Voting machines, obtained by the Elections Committee, were placed in use this fall instead of ballot-collecting in decentralized locations as used in the last freshman and sophomore elections.

Since last spring's elections, using voting machines in the card room of the Hetzel Union Building were carried off well without the time-consuming recounts sometimes needed in ballot elections. Elections Committee decided to use voting machines again this fall.

This was the second election in which Campus party has entered candidates since its birth last semester. In last spring's All-University officer and junior and senior class elections, the party swept all nine positions from Lion party and the now-defunct State party.

Remaining Frosh Winners
Remaining winners in the freshman election race were, Arthur Pfautz, Lion party, who beat Alvin Clemens, Campus party, for the vice presidential post by a vote of 586-572; and Mary Nash, Lion, who defeated Delores Dodson, Campus, for freshman class secretary-treasurer with a 608-552 vote.

Richard Holman, Campus, won over Richard Schilpp, Lion, by a 390-342 vote for sophomore class vice president. For the sophomore class secretary-treasurer post, Patricia Moran, defeated Barbara Rinehart by a vote of 388-344.

Pollock Council To Hold Dance After Mill Ball

Pollock Council will hold its Fall dance Dec. 10 in the Hetzel Union ballroom. Howard Bink's five-piece orchestra will provide the music.

Robert Waltermeyer, council president, said the dance will provide entertainment for independent men who will have imported dates for the Military Ball weekend.

Bruce Keeler, projects committee chairman, said the Nittany-Pollock dining halls get new loud speakers for playing dinner music next week.

Jack Hocutt, council advisor and dorm counselor, will head a projects committee which Waltermeyer said, "will enable the council to become more closely associated with the administration of food service."

Waltermeyer also appointed a committee to investigate the possibility of changing the present area rule which restricts parents from dormitory units at all times.

A committee will also investigate the ruling stating that coats and ties must be worn to Sunday noon meals. It is stated in the Pollock constitution that resident councilors shall have the right to decide on the dress rule.

Mardi Gras King Finalists Selected

Five finalists for Mardi Gras king were chosen by penny vote at the Mardi Gras last night.

The five were selected from 22 candidates sponsored by women's organizations on campus.

The finalists and their sponsors are: James Musser, Kappa Delta; James Parmiter, Alpha Epsilon Phi; Charles Miller, Alpha Omega Pi; Alfred Klimcke, Sigma Sigma Sigma; and Robert McMillan, Alpha Chi Omega.

The finalists are listed in the order of the number of votes they received, but official totals were not available last night.

The five finalists will appear tonight at the Mardi Ball, the closing event of Mardi Gras weekend. The king will be chosen by ticket vote rather than by the applause system which has formerly been used. The change was made because it was felt the applause system was unfair. Each couple will cast two ballots.

Dance Set Tonight
The dance will be held tonight from 9 to midnight in the HUB ballroom. It is sponsored by Chimes, junior women's hat society.

The king will be crowned during intermission by Marlene Bischoff, president of Chimes. He will be given a crown engraved with his name and the name of the group sponsoring him. The crown, an idea being introduced this year by Chimes, will be kept by the king for one year. He will then give it to his successor. The crown will be given to the new Mardi Gras king each successive year.

Gifts to Be Given
Each of the four runnersup will receive a $5 gift certificate.

Music for the informal dance will be by Jack Huber with Fran Spatafore vocalist. Tickets are $1.50 per couple and are on sale at the Hetzel Union desk.

Proceeds of the dance will be used by Chimes in establishing a scholarship fund.

Proceeds from Mardi Gras king voting will be turned over to the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Scholarship fund. Mrs. Eisenhower was a Mortar Board adviser on campus.

Substitute Plan Tabled By Council

Education Student Council this week tabled a proposal to elect three or four permanent alternates who would sit on council for members student teaching or for absentees.

Natalie Moskowitz, acting president, who made the proposal, said the alternates could be chosen from those who were runners-up in the elections.

A question was raised about the legality of and whether or not voting privileges should be extended to the alternates.

The council will sponsor the first in a series of coffee hours, planned for the students in the college, between 4 and 5 p.m. Dec. 1 and 6, dining room C, Hetzel Union Building.

Students who are on dean's list will be among the first group to be invited. Invitations will also be sent to faculty members.

Heather Lohrentz, freshman in education from Pittsburgh; John Bott, freshman in psychology from Arlington, Va.; and Vincent Carlone, junior in education from Chester were additional appointments to the coffee hours committee. Already on the committee are Katharine Dickson, sophomore in education from Brookline; Frances Cox, junior in education from Malvern; and William Tucker, senior in industrial arts from State College.

150 Swap A's for Humor(?) Magazine

Approximately 150 scholars presented 'A' bluebooks for free copies of Froth at the Corner Room both between 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. yesterday.

In its attempt to make a "great contribution to American education" the Froth staff lost nearly $40.

The long line of students waving bluebooks extended past the New College Diner. Because of the crowd, the original noon deadline for free copies was extended.

The largest amount of free copies was given to students in engineering, chemistry, and physics.

Not only did A's on bluebooks pay off. One student walked away with a free copy after presenting a small scrap of paper marked with a 4 and signed by a professor.

A thoughtful coed, clutching a copy of The Daily Collegian claimed a Froth for her roommate whose name was on the infirmary list.

Free Froths were also given to six coeds who proudly displayed their hard-earned A's in field hockey.
