

Parmiter Named King At Chimes' Mardi Ball

King Absent At Crowning Ceremony

James Parmiter, senior in arts and letters from McKeesport, was elected Mardi Gras king Saturday night at the Mardi Ball.

Estelle Kaplan, president of Alpha Epsilon Phi, Parmiter's sponsor, received Parmiter's awards. Parmiter had been called out of town unexpectedly earlier in the day. Marlene Bishoff, president of Chimes, junior women's hat society, made the presentation.

Winners of the Mardi Gras gold cups were also announced at the Mardi Ball. Alpha Omicron Pi won first place by receiving 1185 tickets with its "Casino." This is the second consecutive year the group has won a Mardi Gras cup.

Phi Mu Second

Phi Mu received second place with 559 tickets for its "Kissing Booth." The cups were awarded to the two groups having the highest number of tickets, which were used for admission. Each booth charged one ticket for admission.

The exact total grossed by the Mardi Gras was not known yesterday afternoon, but Janet Feaster, Mardi Gras chairman, estimated the proceeds at about $1600. The total includes general admission charge, receipts from booths and shows, and totals from the penny voting which selected the Mardi Gras king.

Proceeds will be turned over to the Helen Eakin Eisenhower scholarship fund.

Received Crown

Voting for the Mardi Gras king was done by ticket vote. The king received a crown engraved with his name and the name of the sponsor, and a $10 gift certificate. Runners-up were given $5 gift certificates.

The four runners-up are James Musser, junior in mechanical engineering from York, sponsored by Kappa Delta; Alfred Klimcke, junior in arts and letters from Monessen, sponsored by Sigma Sigma Sigma; Charles Miller, senior in petroleum and natural gas engineering from Havertown, sponsored by Alpha Omicron Pi; and Robert McMillan, senior in pre-medicine from Waynesburg, sponsored by Alpha Chi Omega.

Engineering Groups To Meet Tonight

The Centre County subsections of the Institute of Radio Engineers and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will hold a joint meeting at 7:30 tonight in 220 Electrical Engineering.

The program will consist of two lectures, by Dr. Arthur H. Waynick, head of the electrical engineering department, and by A. J. Ferraro, instructor in electrical engineering.

Dr. Waynick will speak on "The Program of the Ionosphere Laboratory." Ferraro will speak on "An Electronic Multiplier for Use in Analog Computers."

The meeting is open to the public.

Miss Ross attended the University and is a member of Sigma Delta Tau.

Mr. Schneider, who was graduated from the University in 1953, is a member of Phi Sigma Delta. He was recently discharged from the Army and is now associated with his father in business.

Art

Centennial Exhibit Selected for Tour

The University Centennial exhibition of "Pennsylvania Painters," has been selected by the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C., for a nationwide tour.

The exhibition, which was assembled by a University art committee, headed by Dr. Harold E. Dickson, professor of fine arts, to present the outstanding work of the leading painters of Pennsylvania, was held in the Mineral Industries art gallery from Oct. 8 to Nov. 6.

The exhibition will be shown in museums and galleries throughout the country under the auspices of the Traveling Exhibition Service of the Smithsonian Institution. Tentative plans call for the first showing in the Toledo Museum of Art, Toledo, Ohio.

Shipped to New York

The paintings in the exhibition are being shipped to New York, where they will be reassembled and packed for traveling. Several paintings on display at the University will not be available for the tour. Substitutions will be made, according to Dr. Dickson, who served as chairman of the Centennial exhibition.

The exhibition catalogue, prepared by Dr. Dickson, will be on sale at all showings. It is sold locally in the Hetzel Union Building and may be ordered by mail, postpaid, from the Pattee Library. The 124-page catalogue, with 50 full-page plates, offers a concise history of painting in Pennsylvania.

48 Paintings Shown

The Centennial exhibition showed 48 paintings valued at more than a quarter of a million dollars. It was the first major loan exhibition ever brought to the University and the first ever held on the theme of the history of painting in Pennsylvania. Paintings were borrowed from museums and private collectors throughout the country.

Forty-six painters from the early 18th to the 20th centuries were represented in the exhibition. Living artists were not included. Thomas Eakins and Benjamin West were represented by two paintings each, and the other artists by one work each.

Pennsylvania College To Get New Name

Pennsylvania College for Women will change its name to Chatham College today, according to Dr. Paul R. Anderson, president.

Founded in 1869 at Pittsburgh, the college is a privately supported liberal arts institution with an enrollment of 445 women. After reviewing 125 alumnae, faculty, and student suggestions, the college Board of Trustees selected the new name, which honors William Pitt the Elder, the first Earl of Chatham.
