Queen Entries For Mil Ball Are Due Today

Entries for the Military Ball queen contest must be submitted by 5 p.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk.

The contest is open to women who will attend the ball. They may be sponsored by a campus organization or a Reserve Officers' Training Corps cadet.

The application must include a 5 by 7 inch or larger photograph with the name of contestant, address, telephone number, and name of sponsor written on the back.

Five finalists will be selected by judges from Penn Military College, Chester, Pa. The queen will be selected at the ball by the three professors of military science and tactics.

Tickets for the ball are still available at the detachment offices for $5 per couple.

Ray Anthony and his orchestra will play from 9 p.m. to 1 in Recreation Hall. Dress will be military formal.

Weekend Snowfall Totals 2.5 Inches

A low pressure area from Texas moved much faster than anticipated and caused the snowfall of 2.5 inches over the weekend, according to students in the department of meteorology.

Today's weather forecast is for considerable cloudiness this morning, with possible showers late tonight. The high temperature will reach approximately 50 degrees. The low will be 25.

Yesterday's high was 37, with a low of 25.

Judging Teams Take Honors In Farm Show

The University meat judging team and the livestock judging teams have returned with honors from the Eastern National Livestock Show held Tuesday in Baltimore, Md.

The meat judging team took second place out of a field of ten colleges entered in the competition. The team placed first in the pork judging contest, second in the lamb grading contest, and fourth in the beef grading program.

The livestock judging team placed fourth out of eleven competing teams, taking five of the top positions in individual competition.

Larry E. Hilgendorf, senior in animal husbandry from Reading, paced the meat judging team with 935 points out of a possible total of 1040, winning individual first place honors for the entire contest. In the separate divisions, Hilgendorf took first place in the pork judging and second in lamb grading.

The meat judging team will take part in the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago next Saturday.

Six Men Initiated Into MI Honorary

Six men were initiated into Sigma Gamma Epsilon, Mineral Industries honorary fraternity, at the fall initiation held last Friday.

The initiates are Walter Cox, junior in geology and mineralogy from Glenside; Donald Ferguson, senior in petroleum and natural gas engineering from Allison Park; Thomas Forkin, junior in geology from Morris Plains, N.J.; Dean Presnall, junior in geology and mineralogy from Washington, D.C.; Richard Quimby, senior in meteorology from Reading; and Robert Zartman, junior in geology and mineralogy from Lititz.

Schwenzfeier will be able to perform in it even though he is ineligible for further college competition.

zontal bar, and calisthenics. Hans Eugster, Jack Gunthard, and Joseph Stalder—three gold medal winners in the 1952 Olympics—will be included in the Swiss team.

Eugster won his award performing on the parallel bars, Gunthard won his on the horizontal bar, and Stalder won his medal on the basis of his outstanding all-around performance.

The Swiss yeodlers will be included in the musical theme of the exhibition meet. They will be accompanied by an accordion player to lend atmosphere to the program.

Karl Schwenzfeier, captain of last year's Lion gym team, will be making his final home appearance before Penn State fans. Since the meet is only an exhibition, Schwenzfeier will be able to perform in it even though he is ineligible for further college competition.

Debate

Teams Win Second In Vermont Match

Debate teams representing the University tied for second place with a record of eight wins and two losses at the University of Vermont debate tournament.

Teams attending the Muhlenberg College debate tournament had a record of three wins and five losses.

The affirmative team, composed of George Haines, junior in education from Nottingham, and David Scott, junior in agricultural economics from Chatham, N.J., won four rounds and lost one. They defeated Wooster Polytechnical Institute, Harvard University, McGill University of Canada, and New Haven State Teachers College. They lost to Rutgers University.

Negative Teams Win Four

Jonathan Plaut, junior in industrial engineering from Rockville Center, N.Y., and Edward Klevans, junior in electrical engineering from Roaring Spring, composed the negative team which won four rounds and lost one. They defeated St. John's University, Wesleyan University, Bates College, and Brooklyn College. They lost to Dartmouth College.

Schools tying the University for second place were Harvard University, University of New Hampshire, Bates College, Brandeis College, Columbia University, and the University of Maine. Dartmouth College won the tournament. No individual speaker awards were given. Forty-nine schools attended the tournament.

Muhlenburg Tournament

Carl Saperstein, senior in arts and letters from Washington, D.C., and Thomas Muller, junior in business administration from Newark, N.J., composed the affirmative team at the Muhlenburg tournament. They won one round and lost three.

The affirmative team defeated Messiah Bible College and lost to Hamilton College, St. Peter's College, and the University of Scranton.

The negative team was composed of James Cramer, junior in business administration from Freeport, and Edward Fegert, junior in arts and letters from Milwaukee, Wis. They won two rounds and lost two by defeating Princeton University and Misericordia College while losing to Wilks College and St. Peter's College. Twenty-five schools attended, and St. Peter's College won the tournament.

Dr. Joseph F. O'Brien, debate coach, accompanied the Vermont teams to Burlington, Vt., and John Brillhart, assistant in debate, traveled with the Muhlenberg teams to Allentown.
