

AIM Judicial Asks Delay For Dining Hall Case

The Association of Independent Men's Judicial Board of Review last night recommended to the dean of men's office that a case involving misconduct in the Nittany dining hall be postponed until a further meeting because of lack of evidence.

The board also recommended that a junior from the West Halls be given judicial warning for creating a noisy disturbance in the dormitory.

ODK Initiation Held for 25 Upperclassmen

Twenty-five junior and senior men were recently initiated into Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership society.

The initiates include Philip Beard, George Buckhout, Robert Bullock, Donald Calvert, William Childs, Charles Christiansen, Sol Cohn, Thomas Dye, Douglas Finemore, Louis Fryman, John Gruber.

William Johnson, George Mauler, Frank McFaden, Robert McMillan, Stanley Michalski, James G. Musser, Frederick Romig, John Seastone, Leo Tarkett, Daniel Van Duyn, Dean Vesling, Phillip Wein, Marsh White, and George Yingling.

Prerequisites for the society are scholarship (in the top 35 per cent of the class); leadership in student government, athletics, publications, scholarship, or the dramatic and forensic arts; and character.

Only junior and senior men are eligible from the student body. However, outstanding faculty and administration members may also be tapped.

AIM Car Hearing Blanks Available

Letters of application for hearings by the Association of Independent Men's Car Interviewing Committee are still being accepted at the Hetzel Union desk.

Freshmen who feel they should be allowed to have a car on campus or in the borough of State College should apply for an interview, according to David Cummings, chairman of the committee.

The committee has heard approximately 20 applications and granted six permits. Cummings said that in the past few weeks very few students have applied for hearings by the committee.

Strong to Head Test

The federal government General Services Administration has named Dr. Earl P. Strong, director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University, to supervise tests on the practicability of changing the arrangement of keys on a typewriter.

The GSA is the government agency which has control over the buying and maintenance of all government office equipment. According to Dr. Strong, the tests will be conducted on both the standard keyboard and a keyboard which was developed by August Dvorak, of the University of Washington, in 1934.

At the conclusion of the experiment, which should end some time in May, Dr. Strong said he will make a report to the GSA. If the report is favorable, the government may decide to adopt the Dvorak keyboard, he said.

The tests were drawn up earlier this year by Dr. Strong.

Halls be given judicial warning for creating a noisy disturbance in the dormitory.

In the first case, the students put forth a nearly complete refutation of the report of the counselor who reported the case to the dean of men's office. The board felt that since the counselor was not present at the meeting to give his views on the case, it should be postponed even though they considered it to be one of a rather minor nature.

Claimed Just Pushing Chairs

The students said that they had been involved in an incident whereby they were merely pushing some chairs against one another in the dining hall when a person came across the room and demanded identification from them.

They said they refused to give their identification because the person who accosted them did not identify himself but merely showed some sort of identification card, which they did not get a good look at.

The board notified Harold Perkins, assistant to the dean of men, on the matter. Perkins said the students were in the wrong under any circumstances for not submitting to the counselor's questions. Perkins also said that it should have been evident to the two that the man was a counselor, since no student would have gone to the trouble of imitating a counselor.

No Tact—No Manners

The students maintained that the counselor used no tact and no manners in asking them for identification. They added that this was their reason for giving the man the negative attitude which they used. They said that he did not identify himself verbally but only gave that quick show of a card which apparently was a card identifying him as a representative of the office of the dean of men.

The student who was placed on judicial warning will be placed on the records of the judicial board, but the incident will not be placed on the student's permanent record.

Nittany Area To Vie For Yule Prizes

Nittany Council will award a total of $30 in prizes to four Nittany dormitories for inside and outside Christmas decorations in the annual Council Christmas decorations contest, which will be judged Sunday, Dec. 18.

The best decorated dorm foyer and the best outside decoration will receive a prize of $10. Prizes of $5 each will be awarded the runners-up in both divisions.

The contest will be judged by Council officers and Council adviser, Frank Hartman, graduate in psychology from Falls Church, Virginia.

Council president, George Mauler, pointed out that the Council's contest is separate from the Association of Independent Men's contest which will consider only inside decorations.

Mauler reported to the Council that President Milton S. Eisenhower expressed his approval of an east dormitory newspaper in a special meeting with a group of independent men Monday evening, Nov. 21, at his residence.

Mauler said Eisenhower voiced the sentiment that the men of the east area have common problems and environment.

Mauler announced that a special meeting of Nittany-Pollock area residents interested in an east area newspaper will be held at 10 p.m. Thursday in Nittany 20.

Fee Ruling—

Jerome J. Shestack, attorney for the University, asked the court to dismiss Pastorini's exceptions, declaring Judge MacNeille's ruling had been correct.

Miss Witte said yesterday that she was not present for the hearing and that she did not know her uncle, through his attorney, had filed exceptions to the Sept. 6 ruling.

Miss Witte also said that she has a scholarship which covers the out-of-state tuition fees she is being charged. A University spokesman said yesterday that this would indicate that the case is being fought as a matter of principle.

C. O. Williams, University registrar, said that all aliens, according to University policy, whether they are residents or non-residents of the state, are subject to non-resident fees.

LaVie Staff Pushes To Meet Deadline

By PAT HUNTER

With one eye on the fast moving calendar and the other on previously won honors and awards, the 1955 LaVie staff is hurrying to meet its February deadline.

LaVie, the University yearbook, was first published in 1889. It has been distributed to seniors every year since then except during the war when the publication was stopped by the paper shortage.

Plans for the 1955 issue were started last March. At that time an outlined description of the book's contents was sent to a commercial artist who drew up a page-by-page layout of the book.

Romig Heads 3 Staffs

Following the layout, the three staffs of LaVie, headed by Frederick Romig, editor, wrote articles, scheduled pictures and are now assembling the material according to the artist's plans.

The cover of the book is designed by the 15 members of the senior board, who are also responsible for editing and copy-reading the articles. The senior board also serves as an advisory group for the sophomore and junior boards.

Advisers for LaVie are Andrew W. Case, professor in fine arts, who has been art adviser for 27 years, and Woodrow W. Bierly, news assistant for Public Information, who as editorial adviser, checks the book before it goes to the printer.

Cooperation Necessary

"The cooperation of the senior class is necessary if we are to meet our deadline," Bierly said. "One student failing to report to have his picture taken at the scheduled time can upset our printing date."

Assembling the material is not the staffs' only job. Thousands of pictures have to be scheduled and collected.

Lacrosse, baseball, and golf pictures must be posed for the sports section, since these seasons are over when LaVie is sent to press. Also, mailing lists of seniors graduating in January must be compiled and copies mailed to each.

Divided Into 5 Sections

This year's LaVie, which will cost nearly $14 a copy to produce, will be divided into five main sections—seniors, administration, athletics, activities, and organization. Approximately 2700 copies will be printed.

For the past six years LaVie has been rated among the best college yearbooks by the Associated Collegiate Press, and in 1951 was named the All-American Yearbook.

HEc Council Plans Spring Demonstrations

Live demonstrations and displays will be the project of the Home Economics Student Council for the Home Economics Spring Weekend, April 21 and 22.

Luther Walbridge, senior in hotel administration from Wellsboro, is chairman of the council project.

All 12 curriculum majors in the College of Home Economics will be represented in the displays Friday and Saturday during the weekend. The project will be held in a foods laboratory because it can be converted easily for all types of exhibits.

The council will hold a mixer with the Business Administration Student Council Tuesday, Dec. 6, in the Home Economics Living Center. A member of the Senate subcommittee on academic honesty will speak to the group.

Thomas Williams presented a report to the council of his committee on faculty-course evaluations. It was suggested that individual professors in the College of Home Economics compile questionnaires to hand out to their students one week prior to the end of the semester. Students would hand in the results, unsigned if they wanted, at the final examination in the particular course.

Suzanne Scholl announced that the freshman-faculty tea will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Jan. 8.
