14 Capture IM Boxing Bouts; 7 on Decision, 4 by Forfeit

Twenty fraternity boxers stepped into the Intramural Boxing ring last night for the first time this year as IM Boxing entered its second night of action. There were no Television cameras and no World Title was at stake, but the fraternity men displayed more aggressiveness than is seen on some of the TV boxing shows.

Altogether, fourteen men advanced into the second round, four by forfeit. Seven other bouts were won on decisions while the remaining three were stopped before they reached the three-round limit.

In the first bout of the evening Tom Smith, of Theta Chi, displayed an aggressive attack in an 155-pound bout as he ground out a unanimous decision over Pi Kappa Phi's Reed Eschallier. Smith kept his opponent on the defense throughout the match with his hard right-hand punches.

Angie Capuano, of Sigma Phi Epsilon, displayed a willingness to fight in his battle with Barry Hough, but he could not match the offensive attack of his Phi Gamma Delta foe. Capuano, a left-handed swinger, battled on even terms with Hough until the third round. Then Hough un-corked a series of lefts and rights that forced the bout to be stopped.

Fred Miller, Alpha Chi Sigma, stepped closer to the 145-pound title in gaining a split decision from John Bedford, of Acacia. It took a few minutes before Miller could get started, but when he did, he unleashed a powerful jab that kept Bedford on his toes.

The next bout was also won on a split decision. And it, too, was in the 145-pound class. Jack Farese, Sigma Phi Epsilon, although almost six inches shorter than his opponent, John Riggs, Kappa Delta Rho, used a wild-swinging attack to cop a victory from Riggs. From the beginning of the match, Farese took charge, standing up to punches thrown at him by Riggs.

In the fastest match of the evening, Don Zellem, Theta Chi's 165-pound gladiator stopped Bill Gingrich, Lambda Chi Alpha, in 21 seconds of the first round.

Fred Donahoe, Tau Kappa

Epsilon, used a good left jab and a solid right cross to decision Jack Mogart, Kappa Delta Rho. Donahoe floored Mogart twice, once almost knocking him out of the ring. Mogart possessed a good right handed punch but could not match the style of his TKE enemy.

Dan Land, Sigma Nu, and Dick Angell, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, gave one of the best boxing performances of the evening in a 128-pound match. But Land out-classed his opponent so much that the outcome was never in doubt. The bout was finally stopped in the third round.

Bob Schrader, another Sigma Nu man, gained a split decision over Jim Wentz, Theta Xi, in the closest scrap of the night. Schrader was knocked down in the first round, but came back with a flurry of left jabs in the final stanza to gain the nod.

John Pepe, substituting for Jim Pastorius, powered his way to a decision over Tom Mulhern, Pi Sigma Upsilon. Pepe, a varsity wrestler from Delta Upsilon, was in control throughout
