Centennial Group Will Vote Monday On Suggested Gifts

The Centennial Committee will vote Monday night on the gift for which they will spend their remaining funds—approximately $100.

Three suggestions were brought up by committee members last Monday. They are a gift to the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel, a gift to the Pattee Library, and a scholarship for an outstanding freshman.

The committee felt that giving a particular item to the library or chapel would be a more lasting reminder of the Centennial Year than giving a donation to an individual to use at his discretion.

A scholarship for an outstanding freshman would be based on academic standing at the end of the first semester and activities. The freshman class was picked by the committee because it is the Centennial class.
