that some sort of dress rule be put into effect.

Seely said, "If Cabinet does not have the power to make suggestions concerning the general welfare of the students who compose one of its constituent member organizations, then Cabinet, as such, should not exist."

Bruce Lieske, AIM president, whose letter inaugurated the court proceedings, briefly stated his position in the case. He gave the reasons why he thought the dress rule was unconstitutional.

Lieske said he felt that the area councils should decide whether or not they wanted the dress rule since they all have different problems.

Both Favor Dress Rule

Both Lieske and Seely emphasized that they were in favor of some sort of dress rule in the men's dormitories. Lieske said that the councils have already held referendums on the matter.

Commenting on the Court's right to decide on legislation, Seely said he thought it would be an area situation, in the future, when the Supreme Court would decide if Cabinet has passed legislation in violation of the All-University constitution.

"It is the responsibility," Seely said, "of the All-University president, who is chairman of Cabinet, to make a decision concerning the constitutionality of any legislation being considered, before it is debated on the floor of Cabinet."

Court Questions Two

After the court heard the statements of Seely and Lieske, they questioned the two briefly on the remarks they had made and adjourned for approximately five minutes to make their unanimous decision.

In individual voting this week Pollock Council showed that they favored some sort of revision in the present dress rule because of existing conditions in that area. Nittany and West Halls Councils voted to wait until the Supreme Court decision issued before taking any action on the matter.

Suspension --

A deferred suspension means that the student will be able to continue studies until the end of this year. If at that time he has been in no kind of trouble and has kept up his studies the suspension will be dropped. If he should get into any sort of trouble he will be automatically suspended.

Simes said that leniency was shown in this case because of the circumstances. He warned, though, that students should contact the dean of men's office before bringing a car on campus. He said that in future cases, excuses offered by the student might not be acceptable and the student could be suspended.

The oldest building on the Penn State campus, Oak Cottage, was built in 1857.

Club Considers 4 Jazz Groups For Appearances

Jerry Mulligan, the Jai and Kai Quintet, the Australian Jazz Quartet, and the Charlie Mingus Jazz Workshop are among the possible future concerts which the Jazz club considered at its meeting this week.

Added information will be discussed at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in 105 White Hall. The club is considering the groups for a concert to be held early next semester.

At the meeting Tuesday the club will discuss amending the constitution to include a nominating committee for club officers. At present, nominations are presented from the floor on the night of elections.

The club will also consider pressing records of the Kenton concert for sale to members.

Probation--

bance in the first place, and were secondly at fault for refusing to give their names to the counselor.

Office probation places the student under the surveillance of the dean of men's office and subjects him to a call by the dean for consultation about his behavior since his case was heard. Judicial warning means that the student may receive a harsher penalty if he should appear again before the judicial board.

Any recommendation of the judicial board is subject to appeal to the dean of men's office within five days after the case is heard.

Student Dies --
