

Senate Passes Folk Dancers' Constitution

The Senate Committee on Student Affairs passed the constitution of the Interlandia-Folk Dancers Wednesday, Wilmer E. Kenworthy, secretary of the Committee and director of Student Affairs announced.

The Interlandia-Folk Dancers is a group founded in the belief that better world understanding can be acquired through a working knowledge of customs of foreign peoples.

The group, which meets from 7 to 10 every other Friday night, also studies foreign folklore, language, food, and costumes. Several of the members are making their own costumes for the dancing.

Dr. K. Y. Tanabe, assistant professor of dairy research, is in charge of the group. Folk dancing has long been his hobby, and he has traveled all over the United States to increase his knowledge of different types of folk dancing.

Officers of the group are: Maria Hammel, sophomore in home economics from Pittsburgh, president; Hans Huth, freshman in mechanical engineering from Philadelphia, vice president; Mary Lou Bieber, sophomore in home economics from Bethlehem, secretary; Frank Krieger, sophomore in forestry from New Kensington, treasurer.

The club is open to all students.

Farm Show--

Close to 12,000 entries are expected in the competitive displays of farm and farm home products for which place winners will share a record $55,968 in cash premiums, offered by the Farm Show Commission.

The 25 departments of the show include beef and dairy cattle, swine, small grains, potatoes, apples, vegetables, and poultry. Other attractions of the show are the educational and administrative meetings of nearly 50 Pennsylvania farm organizations, recent developments in farm machinery and attachments, agriculture and homemaking demonstrations, and the judging of over 6000 head of livestock and poultry.

The Pennsylvania farm show had its origin in the Pennsylvania agriculture society which was founded in 1851. The first farm show was held in 1917 in a small arena in Harrisburg. The show moved into its present quarters, the huge state arena, in 1934.

This year's show, which appears to be the biggest one yet, has been declared by agriculture experts as a forecast of the bigger part the farmers of Pennsylvania will play in the future development of the nation's resources.

You're Confused! Try Avon, Conn.

Last year the trustees established University Park as a separate post office for the University. Ever since then there has been a state of confusion about which mail goes to University Park and which goes to State College.

If you think you've a right to complain about the confusion between "State College" and "University Park," consider the plight of the student attending Avon Old Farms, a school in Connecticut.

His mailing address is Avon, Conn. The railroad station is Hartford. The telephone exchange is Farmington, and telegrams go via Hartford.

Fire Kills Woman,

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5 (AP)—A swift moving, pre-dawn fire killed a 31-year-old woman and left 24 other persons homeless today as it swept through a row of seven frame homes in the city's west end.

Mrs. Anna Stork, an accounting clerk, suffocated in the second floor bedroom she rented from Mrs. Florence Burkhardt. Mrs. Burkhardt, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad cleaning lady, was at work.

A bus driver turned in the fire alarm after he noticed flames spurting from the home. Fire Chief Stephen P. Adley estimated damage at $40,000.

Adley said the fire apparently started in the kitchen. Cause of the blaze has not been determined. Families in the other six homes fled into the early morning darkness and a chilling 20 degree temperature.

What's doing at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

U. S. Jets Dominate International Air Transport

Many engineering graduates would like to be concerned with air power of the next generation. One way to fulfill that ambition is to pursue a career alongside engineers who have consistently produced the world's best aircraft engines.

Most major U. S. airlines, recognizing the future of jet flight in commercial transportation, have placed their orders for jet-powered transports. Of added significance, however, is that American-made equipment will be flown also by foreign airlines in the age of jet travel.

Flying Douglas DC-8 Clippers or Boeing 707 Stratoliners, these domestic and foreign airlines, circling the globe, will shrink it 40 per cent. For power, the entire fleet will rely on Pratt & Whitney Aircraft jet engines. Such achievement is evidence of unchallenged leadership.
