

Welcome Frosh

4-Day Orientation Program For New Students Finished

New freshmen and transfer students finished a four-day Orientation program on Friday with the usual meetings, tests, and social events. The program began Tuesday when students met with the dean of their college and were assigned a faculty adviser. New students were required to take tests in English composition, psychology, and speech and to report for a health examination. The new women students, all transfers, were introduced to members of the dean of women's staff. Dean Pearl O. Weston spoke to the girls and they also heard talks on the Women's Student Government Association, Women's Recreation Association, Leonides, Panhellenic Council and sorority rushing. The men had meetings with their student counselors. A mixer sponsored by Cwens, sophomore women's hat society, and the Cabinet Student Orientation Committee was held in Atherton Lounge for both men and women students. Student leaders and faculty members attended. No customs program has been planned for the new students.

County Hospital Reports Condition Of Cope as 'Good'

Edward Cope, junior in arts and letters, is reported in good condition at the Centre County hospital. Cope was a passenger in a car that ran out of control and overturned on Wednesday. John Sparks, junior in arts and letters from Lansford, was driver of the car that ran up on the concrete divider strip on N. Atherton street near the Greyhound bus station. The car then skidded for over 200 feet on its top, police said.

Cope suffered cuts of the scalp and back injuries, along with brush burns. Sparks, who police said will be charged with driving too fast for conditions and reckless driving, was treated at the hospital and later released.

Registration Termed 'Smooth'---

(Continued from page one) combine a major in such fields as history, political science, economics, or geography with a group of courses from five departments, all of them focused on the Soviet Union. A third factor seems to be the combination of last summer's Geneva warmth and last fall's post-Geneva frost. Together they have apparently contributed to the growth of the conviction that the problem of coping with Soviet Russia is likely to remain with us for a very long time and requires a far deeper public understanding of Russian affairs than now exists.

FAMOUS LAW CASES: NO. 1—GRANSMIRE VS. MIDDLE ATLANTIC BUS AND DRAY CO.

Gransmire, the plaintiff in this celebrated case, lived with his daughter Ernest and a canary named Whirlaway on Elm Street in Cooch, Delaware. The Middle Atlantic Bus and Dray Co. started operating a bus line on Elm Street. The passing buses caused a cut-glass chandelier in the Gransmires' living room to begin tinkling. The chandelier tinkled in the key of E-flat. This so unnerved the canary, Whirlaway, whose key was C-sharp, that the poor bird moulted out of season, caught a chill, and died untimely. Ernest, Gransmire's daughter, was herself so unsettled by the death of the canary that she flunked her final exams at the Boar's Head Beauty and Barber College, where she had been a promising student, majoring in bangs. Now removed, willy-nilly, from the skilled labor market, Ernest found work carrying a sandwich sign for the old Vienna Chow Mein parlor.

Here she met a bus-boy named Crunch Sigafos. Although Crunch was not especially attractive — he had, for one thing, a large bushy tail — he was always clean and neat and kept his shoes shined, and after a decent interval, he and Ernest were married.

Ernest soon learned that Crunch's large bushy tail was not as anomalous as she had supposed: Crunch was a werewolf. After a while Ernest got sick of staying home at night while her husband went prowling about, so she asked him to change her into a werewolf too, which he did with an ancient Transylvanian incantation. Then, together, the two of them would lope out each night and meet a lot of other werewolves and maybe kill a few chickens or hear some book reports or just lay around and shoot the breeze.

Meanwhile, Ernest and Crunch's landlady, a miser named Mrs. Augenblick, noticed that Ernest and Crunch never used their room at night, so she, in her greed, started renting it to transients. One night a Mr. Ffolliett stayed there. In the morning while brushing his hair, he took a bottle that looked like hair tonic out of the cabinet, poured some, and rubbed it vigorously into his scalp. Unfortunately, it was not hair tonic, but a bottle of glue which Ernest had bought to mend a model airplane that Crunch had given her for their paper wedding anniversary.

As a result of Mr. Ffolliett's grisly error, he was unable to remove his hat and was, therefore, barred from his usual occupation which was lecturing to women's clubs. He sued Mrs. Augenblick, who sued Ernest, who went to her father, who sued the Middle Atlantic Bus and Dray Co. who had started the whole horrid chain of events.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the defense attorney in his opening address, "this case, though very ramified, is covered by law. Indeed, every facet of life is covered by law. Law governs the homes you live in, the cars you drive, the food you eat. Even the cigarette you smoke is strictly regulated in its purity and uniformity. The gentleness, however, is Philip Morris's own idea. Out of their vast experience as tobacco people, out of their profound regard for the astuteness of your palate, the makers of Philip Morris have evolved a gentle, new cigarette, with a taste as mild as a May morn, as subtle as gossamer, as welcome as money from home. I thank you."

Whereupon everybody rushed to the tobacco counter to buy bright red, white and gold packs of Philip Morris and were all rendered so amiable after a few gentle puffs that the whole complicated case was dropped. This later became known as the Delaware Water Gap.

We, the makers of Philip Morris, sponsors of this column, rest our case on our new, gentle cigarette in our new, smart pack.
