

Two Take Lion Posts During Special Meeting

Robert Spadaro took over control of Lion party Sunday night.

Spadaro, junior in arts and letters from Philadelphia, was elected party clique chairman, the post which he resigned last spring, by approximately 100 persons who attended a special clique meeting in 121 Sparks.

Bryon LeVan, sophomore in business administration from Philadelphia, was elected vice clique chairman, the post left vacant by the resignation of William Snyder. Snyder is now vice clique chairman of Campus party.

Neither Spadaro nor LeVan was opposed.

Dye announced his resignation at the meeting. He said he was resigning for "personal reasons." He would not elaborate on "personal reasons."

Dye opened the short meeting by outlining the procedure under which the meeting would be conducted—"the majority will rule, but the minority will be heard."

After eliminating the minutes of the previous meeting—he said the secretary had forgotten them and that they were "irrelevant"—he ran down the agenda, arriving within a minute to "new business."

He then announced his resignation. Nominations were in order, he said.

Jane Mort, sophomore in arts and letters from Harrisburg, came to the front of the room to nominate Spadaro. Standing behind the lecturer, she read Spadaro's "list of accomplishments."

Spadaro, sitting in the left corner of the room, walked to the nearest side aisle and gave his acceptance speech.

He said the party must have "determination" and "eliminate factions" to win the spring elections.

Almost before he could return to his nearby seat, it was moved and seconded that nominations be closed. The vote to close nominations was almost unanimous.

Dye then instructed Nancy Marshall, party secretary, to cast one vote for Spadaro.

LeVan was elected a few minutes later almost in the same manner.

Dye then handed over the meeting to Spadaro. A party steering committee meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in 217 Willard.

He also said that "all present appointments, except elected positions, are now null and void."

In talking of the upcoming elections, he said: "We can't afford to make mistakes. Mistakes cannot be tolerated."

Patient Finds Patience Pays On Birthdays

By DOTTIE STONE

Patricia Dolinsky, sophomore in bacteriology from Harrisburg, found out that birthdays aren't so bad after all.

Pat has been in the Centre County Hospital six weeks for treatment of rheumatic fever, and Friday was her 19th birthday. It was going to be just another day of keeping quiet, reading, and staying in bed. She explained that her parents wouldn't be able to come up for her birthday as her father is a Harrisburg pharmacist.

But as it turned out, Pat wasn't forgotten. A former rheumatic fever patient, who only met Pat once, and four of her friends dropped in to really surprise Pat with a surprise party. And then the many cards and letters are a "big lift," she said.

But the best came on Sunday, when her parents came to visit her.

Counseling Service Set Up For High School Seniors

The Student Advisory Service is organizing a counseling service to help high school seniors determine for which careers they are best suited.

The counseling service, which will be set up at the University's centers and on campus, will be a battery of tests given throughout one day.

Cost for the service, which is scheduled to start in April, will be $17.

The high school seniors who take the tests at the centers will come to the University and spend another day on campus.

The tests will be designed to determine the aptitudes and interests of the student and to pick his field accordingly. The student need not, of course, follow the field.

Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, professor of psychology and director of the psychology clinic, is in charge of the service.

A similar counseling service for freshmen is now in operation at the University, Dr. Bernreuter said.

He also announced yesterday that the results of the tests which freshmen took last September, and of the ones given about a week ago, are available.

Lewis to Speak On Jet Engines

Robert B. Lewis, assistant general manager of the research division of the Curtiss-Wright Corp., will speak on "The Jet Engine of the Future" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in 119 Osmond.

The lecture, which is open to the public, is sponsored by the Society of the Sigma Xi.

Lewis, who will direct research activities at the Quehanna branch of Curtiss-Wright, will discuss the proposed research activities planned for Quehanna.

Dems to Debate Young GOP's

Two members of the Young Democratic Club have been chosen to oppose the Young Republicans Club in an informal debate on Feb. 21, in 121 Sparks.

Last week, the Young Republicans challenged the Young Democrats to a debate on "The Record of the Eisenhower Administration."

Roy Rubner, junior in agricultural engineering from Clarks Summit, and Ralph Volpe, freshman in arts and letters from Lansdale, will represent the Young Democrats. Young Republican debaters are David Scott, junior in agriculture economics from Chatham, N.J., and Carl Saperstein, senior in arts and letters from Washington, D.C.
