

Tribunal Asks Probation For Two Sophomores

The dean of men's office Thursday approved one Tribunal recommendation and referred another to the subcommittee on disciplinary action of the Senate Committee on Student Affairs.

Tribunal recommended office probation for Richard King, sophomore in business administration from York, and disciplinary probation for Richard Arthur, sophomore in journalism from Greenville, after they were caught Saturday night trying to enter a movie theater through the back door.

Constitution Change OK'd By Ag Council

The Agricultural Student Council approved an amendment to its constitution at a meeting of the council Tuesday night.

The new amendment provides that the date for the election of Ag Council officers be selected by the elections committee of the council.

The purpose in the amendment is to enable the president of the Council to report to the meetings of the All-University Cabinet at an earlier date. Officers previously were elected at the second regular meeting in April.

The council also heard a report on the Ag Hill Party. The report stated that 1501 tickets were sold for the affair. Recommendations for improvements for next year's party were made to the council.

The attention of the council was brought to the fact that fewer students were enrolling in the Agriculture school. Council discussed this problem and finally decided to appoint one student to the faculty committee on recruitment of students for the Ag school. The representative, who would be appointed by the president of the Ag Student Council, would sit in on the meetings of the recruiting committee and make suggestions to the committee on how enrollment can be increased in the future.

A suggestion was made to the Council that more Liberal Arts courses should be required to be taken by students in the school of agriculture. Several arguments for and against this proposal were made to the council but no definite recommendations were made.

The dean's office approved office probation for King, but referred the recommendation for Arthur to the subcommittee.

The students told Tribunal Tuesday night they had been to a fraternity house with their dates on Saturday night and had a few glasses of beer.

Arthur said he and King took their dates back to their dormitory at 11 p.m.

While passing through town, Arthur said, they decided to see a movie and tried to enter the movie through the back door since they didn't want to pay 65 cents for 35 minutes of entertainment.

Unable to open the door, the pair started walking down a street when an officer stopped them. The officer had apparently seen them trying to enter the movie, Arthur said.

The patrolman asked them for their matriculation cards. Arthur's card had been changed, listing his age at 22. Arthur told Tribunal he is 19.

The students were fined by Justice of the Peace Guy G. Mills $10 apiece plus $11.50 costs.

Arthur told Tribunal his matriculation card had been forged by a strange student some time ago when he was sitting in the Hetzel Union Building with some "acquaintances."

The stranger was a friend of his "acquaintances" Arthur said, and told Arthur he could forge a matriculation card with an eraser and lead pencil.

The stranger said he could prove it and Arthur gave the student his card because he didn't believe a card could be forged.

The stranger forged the card and Arthur said he put it in his pocket meaning to change it later.

Arthur said he completely forgot about the card until the officer asked for it Saturday night. He said he told the officer he was 22 because he thought the officer would let the pair go home without trouble.

Subcommittee Plans Social Events List

The Senate subcommittee on social affairs will set up a master social calendar of all University entertainment events for the coming school year.

This is the newest function of the subcommittee as officially defined by the Senate Committee on Student Affairs at its meeting Wednesday, according to Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs.

Other regular duties of the subcommittee as set forth by the Senate Committee on Student Affairs are to recommend changes in social regulations to Kenworthy's office and to make recommendations for improvement of the University's social program.

The recommending of changes in social regulations takes up most of time of the subcommittee, O. Edward Pollock, subcommittee chairman and assistant to the dean of men, said yesterday.

Pollock said the subcommittee began working on the correlating of entertainment events sponsored by campus organizations last December.

In essence, the subcommittee will only grant perfunctory permission for campus groups to hold social events at any time they please. But when a planned event appears to conflict with another event and both events are of sufficient student interest the subcommittee will only allow the group with first priority to hold its function at that time.

The second group to apply for that same time would have to plan another date for its event. Pollock explained that the subcommittee would rarely ask an organization to pick another date. Such a request would only be made if the subcommittee feared a weekend could become crowded with four or five "big" functions while the following weekend would have none.

Pollock said all campus organizations will receive forms to fill out, listing any events they plan to hold next year. From these the subcommittee can set up its master calendar. The calendar, he said, would essentially be no different from that issued every year by the Student Union.

Student to Give Comedy Show At TIM Mixer

Norman Shoupe, sophomore in chemical engineering from Sewickley, will present a comedy routine which will include jumping over ten sand bags at the Town Independent Men sponsored ice mixer from 7-10 p.m. tonight at the University Rink.

Shoupe has appeared in ice skating shows previously and was described by John Tannenbaum, mixer chairman, as being practically "a professional performer."

The program will also include several types of individual and competition skating. Prizes and gift certificates will be awarded to winners.

In one form of competition a balloon will be tied to one leg of each skater. Skaters will attempt to break each other's balloons with the survivor being declared the winner.

Special skates for mixing purposes will include: couple, trios, foursome, advance couples, ladies choice, singing trios, waltzing, and ladies only.

Town students and dates regardless of TIM membership will be admitted free. Others will pay a 25 cents admission fee.

Fred Mock will serve as program director and will be assisted by Linda Quinn, Arthur Carrol, Stephen Weitz, and Harry Stack.

The Campus Party steering committee will meet at 2 p.m. Sunday in 108 Willard to plan party policy for the upcoming All-University elections. New appointments to steering committee posts will be voted on.
