Attorney Tells Of Bribe Try By Oil Firm

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—A just-resigned U.S. attorney testified today oil company lawyer John M. Neff tried to hire him to lobby for the natural gas bill and then attempted to give him $500 for his children.

Testifying through tears at times, the former Lexington, Neb. official, Donald R. Ross, said Neff made these overtures—and he rejected them—after he arranged meetings between Neff and Nebraska's Republican Sens. Curtis and Hruska.

Ross was the first witness as a special Senate committee unexpectedly reopened and broadened an inquiry into a $2,500 campaign contribution offered by Neff to Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) but rejected by the senator.

Several other inquiries—one by a federal grand jury—are under way with the prospect some may go into the whole field of lobbying and campaign contributions. The lobbying question was a factor in President Eisenhower's veto of the gas bill.

Prof Talks On Eclipse At Luncheon

By PAT EVANS

The annular eclipse Dec. 14, 1955, was the subject discussed by David C. Whitmarsh, associate professor of engineering research at the Ordnance Research Laboratory, at the Faculty Luncheon yesterday.

Whitmarsh was the leader of a group of six professors from the University who traveled to Merqui, Burma, to observe the eclipse. They were one of 11 groups from American colleges and universities who were chosen to study the eclipse for the Air Force.

Object Was Shadow Study
The object of the study was to determine the exact time that the shadow passed the earth by use of photographs and photo-electric equipment.

The results were to be used by the Air Force to calculate just how spherical the earth actually is, according to Whitmarsh.

The group left for the coast Nov. 21. They were in Honolulu for Thanksgiving and then traveled to Asia where they spent three days in Bangkok, Thailand, before going to Burma.

Flew for 65 Hours
Whitmarsh estimated that he traveled 11,500 miles in six days, for a total of 65 air hours. The average speed was 300 miles per hour.

The lecture was illustrated by the use of colored slides.

Francis R. Nitchie, associate professor of engineering research at the Ordnance Research Laboratory, introduced the speaker.

Next week's Faculty Luncheon will include a general discussion on housing conditions in the borough. The moderator will be Robert T. Oliver, professor of speech.

UBA Reports Sales High, Money, 400 Books Claimed

According to John Knaff, manager of the Used Book Agency, business was high for the agency yesterday, the first day that students could claim unsold books or money.

About four hundred books were returned throughout the day, but the figures on the amount of money returned cannot be released, Knaff said.

"However, it was approximately one half the total amount to be returned," he said.

Figures of the total amount of business done by the agency have not been released either.

Books Available in BX
Money is available in the television room and books are available in the Book Exchange, both located on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building.

About 1200 books are still unclaimed in the BX.

How to Shorten Job

If students who can would go to the exchange during the middle of the hour instead of at the end of the hour when classes are leaving out, waiting lines would be shorter, he said. "This would make the job shorter and easier for both sides," he added.

Knaff also explained that any students who claimed books

Goodbye State College . . .

Anybody looking for a free ride to Alaska and a possible job as a harpooner's assistant on a whaler? Seem strange? Then note our left display case in front of the studio and perhaps you'll understand the necessity of this trip.

With apologies to the Thetas, who we hope have a good sense of humor, the sight you'll see was done without their knowledge. Admittedly, we did encourage some of the expression never realizing they'd be so devastating. Nor did they know these expressions were being photographed. This surreptitious project was perpetrated while the girls were being photographed for their regular composite which will be on display at the same time in the window of the Treasure House, next to our studio. In any case, I believe you'll find, when you see the regular composite, that the Thetas possess many of the best looking girls on campus.

In any case, the line for potential harpooner's assistants forms outside the Skellar tonight at six, or does anyone have any bodyguard experience?

The Little Girl Above?

Just a candid shot taken at B. J. Dittmar's dance class (a Theta incidentally, that is, B. J.) If we had the time to make the print, Ann Lutz would have been our OK Joe girl today.

Bermuda . . .

The data for the Bermuda vacation will be in tomorrow's Collegian. By the way, will the girls who left the tailored white blouses at the studio please retrieve them?
